Trekking About The County

Sparrows Point

Sunday Nov. 29, was a memorable day for the members of Ebenezer Methodist Church as the Young Adult Fellowship sponsored the services.

Guest speaker for the morning was dynamic Melville W. Pugh Jr., who spoke on "The Pursuit of Perfection."

Incidentally, Sparrows Point citizens were pleased to hear Mr. Pugh speak. Why? Sparrows Point is his hometown.

Included in the Pugh family, are Mr. Pugh's wife, Idell, a Baltimore city teacher and two children, Clifford and Melville III.

Mr. Pugh is an instructor in the Sociology Department at Morgan State College.

The afternoon service featured the Rev. S. R. Bennett of St. Matthew's Methodist Church located in Turners Station. The Rev. Mr. Bennett brought his prize fine Junior Choir and many members of his congregation. Soloists were Mrs. Roslind and Mrs. Delores Lewis.

• • •

THE REV. Douglass C. Bowman is pastor of Ebenezer Methodist Church. He and his wife are sponsors of the Young Adult Fellowship. Mrs. Bowman is secretary of the Youth Fellowship and Monastary Sts. Neighborhood Association.

Officers of the Fellowship are: Mrs. Lenoa Pugh Campbell, president (Banneker schoolmarm and sister to Melville Pugh Jr.), Mr. White, vice president; Miss Ellen Della Turner, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Yvonne Culbean, treasurer and James Moore, business manager.

Mrs. Campbell and Mr. Melville Pugh Jr.'s parents are well known, long time residents of Sparrows Point. They reside at 1014 J St.

A NOW WELL - established tradition is the annual reception given by the Carver Elementary teachers for parents of Carver students. The reception is held after the PTA meeting and is always well attended.

Hostesses for the reception were Mrs. Catherine Madden, principal of Carver Elementary, Mrs. Dorothy Smith and Misses Iona Smith and Mary Earles.

Honored guests were two former Carver teachers, Mrs. Beatrice Brown, now a first grade teacher at Bragg Elementary and Mrs. Arabella Ross, now a fifth grade teacher at Banneker Elementary School.

The PTA presented to Mrs. Brown a fabulous after - five purse and to Mrs. Ross, a rich looking back leather strictly - for-dress bag. Presiding after the business meeting was Mrs. Valarie Britten.

• • •

CARVER PTA president is a young man with very progressive ideas, Calvin Johnson.

Always anxious to keep well informed, and abreast of the latest educational trends throughout the county, the Towson PTA presented as their speaker, the brilliant Dr. Gilbert Schiffman, Baltimore County supervisor of corrective and remedial reading who spoke to the group on the topic "How Parents Can Help Their Children Read at Home."

Carver corrective reading teacher, Is Mrs. Priscilla Mason, a graduate of Towson Schools and Bowie State Teachers College.

Miss Earles was unable to attend because of illness. Very much admired and respected by parents and students, Miss Earles presence was greatly missed. A veteran teacher at Carver, Miss Earles teaches grades four and five. Beautiful cheerful cards with bright messages work wonders when one is recuperating. Send Miss Earles a card, won't you?

Mrs. Seay is aunt of Mrs. Ethel Raines, Cherry Hill schoolmarm.

I THANK THEE FATHER

By FLORENCE TAYLOR

I thank thee Father, for the way
Thy hand has guided me today.
I woke at morning's dawn afraid
To face my problems. But I prayed.
And One by one each need was met.
For Thou hast never failed me yet.
Dear God, henceforth my prayer shall be
For strong abiding faith in Thee.

IOVE THY NEIGHBOR — It may cause a problem if someone of a different color knocks on your door after dark to ask if he might come in with his wife and two children, explaining that he has car trouble some distance away and needed some assistance.

What would you do?

It did happen and the Rev. James E. Adams family received a kind and warm welcome from Mr. and Mrs. Milton Markowski who are members of Holy Trinity Catholic Church in Glen Burnie.

Not only were they seated and refreshed, but they found a common understanding of brotherhood through the church which instructs and gives the love of God to endure these days of trouble.

My God bless all with the spirit of love and concern for God's children as we vote the names of Mr. and Mrs. Markowski, 5801 Ritchie St., Glen Burnie, Md. for the Good Neighbor Award of the Week.

Thanks goes to Purnell B. Oden, trustee of Metropolitan Methodist Church who assisted the Rev. Adams and his family in taking them home when they lost the use of their car, and also to James Flemings of Glen Burnie who removed the car from the highway.

The community is proud of a native son who has made good.

AMONG THE young people who have been away attending the various colleges and were home for Thanksgiving were Miriam Lee, University of Maryland; Norma Jean Fergusson, Calvin Brandon and Delores Stokes, Maryland State College; Lorraine Roberson, Sylvia Plummer, Rosabelle Graves, Morgan State College, and Phyllis Strothers, Bowie State Teachers College.

Perlie Jones lost his mother recently. She lived in Virginia. The community extends sympathy to the Jones family.

The Worcester Senior - Junior High School invited me to attend the monthly PTA recently. Since the county is entitled to an official visit from their State President, I requested the county president to extend an invitation to all the locals of the county to attend. I was delighted to find the assembly room well filled with parents, teachers, students, and school officials.

I had the opportunity to listen to the business meeting of the PTA and learned that the group has been very active in participating in affairs around the state.

Officially, I got across to the audience the interpretation of the eight - point - program of the National Congress of Colored Parents and Teachers. All PTA work should revolve around the child and not around money raising.

THE SENIOR Glee Club of the Sollers Point High School will entertain the Franklin High School in Reisterstown on Dec. 14 at an assembly. Mrs. Clara S. Green is the director.

The Senior Missionary Society of the New Shiloh Baptist Church held a musical and literary program Sunday. On Sunday, Dec. 6, they will worship with the Senior Missionaries of the Union Baptist Church of Sparrows Point. On the third Sunday in December, they will make their annual trip to the Baptist Old Folks Home to make their contribution to the pantry of the home.

Mrs. Josephine Venable is president of the group and the Rev. James A. Everett is the pastor.

Miss Frances Proctor, teacher at the Turner Elementary School, is ill at home. Miss Thelma Cordery, teacher at the Fleming Elementary School is ill at home in Pleasantville, N.J. Miss Mary Earls, teacher at the Carver Elementary School is also on the sick list.

Miss Bertha Sembly one of the teachers at the Fleming Elementary School reports that her brother, the Dr. Herbert Sembly of Salisbury, is very ill at the Peninsular General Hospital in Salisbury. I have known Dr. Sembly for many years and I wish for him a speedy recovery.

Plans are underway for the Annual Sweetheats Ball at the Union Hall on Dundalk Ave. the last Saturday in February. More complete information will be available soon.

Inmates reject their rejectors

"The inmate is against social disapproval. He either hates himself or rejects his rejectors."

This view was voiced here Wednesday by Dr. Lloyd W. McCorkle, director of administration of the New Jersey Department of Institutions and Agencies.

Dr. McCorkle was principal speaker at the second annual meeting and workshop of the Maryland Probation, Parole and Correction Association, held at the Baltimore Hebrew Congregation.

An estimated 80 participants heard him discuss the "Problems of Institutional Treatment."

• • •

ONE OF the problems Dr. McCorkle said, is that the inmate will often reject treatment because of his ego.

"The inmate has defined the therapy in his own mind. The institution must gain control of the situation, because the therapist and relate the treatment.

Workshops of the day dealt with "treatment for the Offender."
