Pierians make debut at top dress affair

with Lula Jones Garrett

How to dress for the Pierians' champagne party, Saturday night, was a poser for guests . . . but they learned when they arrived at the Me-De-So Club and found their hostesses dressed to the nines.

Oh, but we'll know next year! It was a first anniversary celebration for the club, organized last December on the principle that there are those who wish to become more perceptive of various forms of artistic expression.

To this end they saw "Dark at the Top of the Stairs" at Ford's Theatre, with Arthur Lamb as critic, in January; made two visits to the Baltimore Museum of Art, with Ronald Watts as guest critic for the Marquet Exhibit and Calvin Gaugless Sr. for the "Age of Elegance" exhibit.

They had an evening of poetry with Dr. Ulysses Lee, and an evening with Shakespeare with Dr. Gordon Zeeveld. They went into Mythology with George Moore and heard Marian Anderson sing at the Lyric . . . and so went their programs, also for the remaining months.

Saturday night, they decored the Me-De-So Club in the gayest of Christmas wrappings, provided a buffet of colorful hors d'oeuvres and sandwiches, etc . . . and filled the wassail bowl to the brim.

But they did not forget their original purpose . . . and even at this affair provided an exhibit of the works of advanced art students at Morgan, under direction of James Lewis.

And, as I said, the ladies themselves were in some pretty fine wrappings.

Hazel Fleming, who was chairman for the evening's affair, chose a red floral silk, wide of skirt and enhanced with high cummerbund and portrait neckline. Madam President (Annette Johnson) was in pink brocade designed with an intricate off - one - shoulder bodice.

Olivia Dixon was in white lace, the petals re - embroidered in tiny rhinestones and made with airy brief cap sleeves but otherwise a svelte sheath.

She added the prettiest vinyl and rhinestone slippers in ten countries.

Petit Jewell Mosely wore soft green chiffon, a full gathered skirt attached to a self - em broidered bodice, and matched the frock with green satin slippers.

Edith Smith and Verda Welcome were both suave in black, as was Gwendolyn Tarver, whose frock had an entrancing sheer shoulder treatment. Mamie Todd chose green print with solid green cummerbund.

And the huge silver coin shaped design which Lydia Mussenden wore was executed from material that had come from Japan . . . and of course followed a Japanese design.

Also members of the club are Kathleen Carter, Carole Diggs, Charlotte Mebane and Mercedes Douglass.

Their guests include:

Messrs. and Mesdames Charles Burkett, Marshall Bright, Charles Brown, Harold Clark, Robert Diggs.

Messrs. and Mesdames Benjamin Foreman, James Gilliam, Paul Henderson, Arthur Lamb, James E. Lewis, Donald Patterson, Mark Patterson, Medford Reynolds, John Rich, G. Luther Washington and Ronald Watts.

Drs. and Mesdames Gilbert Banfield, Eugene Byrd, Virgil Cliff, Walter Davidson, Frank DeCosta, Ivan Higgins, Melvin Humphrey, Clifton R. Jones, Ulysses Lee, Herbert Trader.

Col. and Mrs. Christopher Johnson, Miss Nancy Burke, Mrs. Audrey Butler, Donald G. Gwynn, Richard Vance, Miss Ruth Wellington and of course, the husbands of the hostesses.

Drs. Simon Carter, G. James Fleming, Herbert Moseley, Glenford Mussenden, Percival Smith, Henry Welcome, Edward Tarter, Jerome Todd, Ernest Johnson, and City Councilman Walter Dixon.

THE ME-DE-SO CLUB was also the meeting for the party on Sunday when Dr. and Mrs. Charles T. Campbell entertained a few mutual friends at a pre - Christmas dinner.

The dinner specifically honored Dr. and Mrs. Ivan Higgins, who, with their children, Audlyn and Ivan Jr. are leaving for a visit to his native Jamaica.

This will be Mrs. Higgins' second visit to the island, but their children's first look at their father's birth place.

Following dinner the group went to the Campbells' Pow hattan Avenue place for friendly chatter, to listen to music and to felicitate the Higginses, who are also observing a 25th wedding anniversary.

Along with bon voyage wishes the guests surprised Dr. and Mrs. Higgins with gifts and at the close of the evening heard remarks from the Rev. Father Cedric E. Mills, rector of St. James Episcopal Church where Dr. Higgins is a vestryman.

Father Mills offered a beautiful prayer invoking Divine guidance and protection for all present and safe passage for the Higginses.

In addition to the honorees and Father and Mrs. Mills, guests included Drs. and Mesdames George McDonald, Gilbert Banfield, McDonald Bando, Albert LaForest, William Watts, Mr. and Mrs. William Gosnell, Dr. Bruce Alleyne and Mrs. Mable Hagan.

KAPPA SILHOUETTES met last Wednesday evening in the very lovely Sequoia Ave. home of Dr. and Mrs. Glenford P. Mussenden (Lydia).

After a brief business meeting, the girls began a pre-Christmas party by providing a bountiful cheer basket for a needy family. A sumptuous repast was served and the girls repaired to the club room for "impables," exchanging of gifts, and playing the cutest games.

When asked what they wanted most — there were desires from mink stoles, diamonds, to sewing machines.

Hostesses for this meeting were Lydia Mussenden, chairman, Bernice Nickens, Emily Roberts, Louise Tildon and Ronita Uncles.

The following members were present:

Helen Thornton, president, Bernice Brown, Gloria Carpenter, Joan Carr, Vera Carrington, Marian Haines, Lavada Hobson.

Lola Matthews, Lydia Mussenden, Bernice Nickens, Idelle Pugh, Lelia Ray, Emily Roberts, Marian Russell, Viola Taliaferro, Mildred Taylor, Louise Tildon, Beatrice Tucker, Hilda Wallace, Bernice Watson and Ronita Uncles.

A DOUBLE baby shower was the order of the day for Gwen Hill and Frankie Saunders Friday evening. Bill Baby Danita Kay, had other ideas and arrived before time, so mother Gwen was on D.P.

However, not to be outdone Grandmother Bea Washington accepted the gifts in Gwen's absence.

After this, to the surprise of another person present, Frankie Saunders, gifts were showered upon her. She had thought she was attending only Gwen's shower.

Hostesses for the affair included Phyllis Fludd, Toni Montgomery, Bernice Robinson and Marilyn French. Among the guests were Gwen Giles, Theresa Yerrell, Olga Benjamin, Louise Owens, Barbara Owings, and Edith Smith.

ON FRIDAY last, the teen age party of the week was the one held in the beautiful Windsor, Patterson and Garden Rooms at Wilsons, to celebrate Jerry Woolridge's sixteenth birthday.

The 49 teenagers who gathered to help him celebrate were entertained throughout the evening by a three piece Latin Combo composed of students from Douglass, Forest Park and Poly. They also danced to the music of Stereophonic "Hi Fi."

Dr. Woolridge took time out to help his son celebrate his birthday by showing the young folks a step or two (the Madison of course) with daughter Thomasina, and niece, June Burkette, as partners. The Woolridge's younger daughter, away in school, missed the celebration.

The beautiful four tier red and white birthday cake with the top decorated in the shape of a record was made by Thomasina.

Chaperones were Mrs. Leah Turkels, Mrs. T. J. Woolridge, and three Morgan students, Misses Thomasina Woolridge, Yevette Burgess and Lillian Brooks.

The gifts received were the punchbowl. Drew many exclamations for the chaperons.

Guests included:

Misses Elise and Laura Jude, June Burkette, Perlethia Joyce, April Henson, Rosa Cornish, Rosa and Brenda Meekins, Jo Ann Bray, Fran ine Macklyn, Carolyn Dutson, Veronica Hackette, Cathy Jordy, Tanya Bundara.

Misses Brenda Clark, Brenda Winkler, Marsha Mallory, Barbara Prestwidge, Beverly Harrell, Kathy Moore, Trevia Brown, Sheridan Umphrey, Andrea Brown, Lisa Shipley, Carol Spencer, Tara Barty.

Bookie Armstrong, Michael Brooks, Wesley Marshall, Leon Nunnelly, Charles Anderson, Grant Valentine, James McNeil, Wade Horsey, Donald Murray, Ben Sheldon, Clifford Martin, Max Taylor, Charles Underwood.

Wallace Taylor, Norman Burkette, Joe Lee, James Biddle, Melvin Haskin, Dennis Day, George Hines, William Lewis, Clemens Nixon, Hariston Joyce, Calvin Carroll and Crosby Parham Jr.

CHI DELTA Mu Wives met in the suite of Mrs. McDonald Bando, Dean of Women, Morgan State College, recently for their regular monthly meeting, a change of address, this week, Mesdames Walter Shervington and Eugene Byrd acting as co hostesses with Mrs. Bando.

This year the wives are presenting a television to the patients at Henryton State Hospital.

POT POURRI Those enjoyable Clarence Roberts ,He recently retired from a school principalship, she's still in the system) will be escaping for a holiday trip to the carribean.

Back in town are the Eric L. Whites. He's the pediatrician and she (Tommy) is also a schoolmarm. Dr. White has recently completed his obligation to Uncle Sam and is presently on the staff of Provident Hospital. They are at home at 2302 Bateman Ave.

Dr. and Mrs. R. Hayes (Mary) Strider, both of Morgan State College, announced a change of address, this week, along with their Christmas greetings. They are now at 2708 Talbot Road and to be sure that their friends sense that the welcome mat is out, they included a map of directions to their new rooftree.

Friends are no end disturbed over the illness of Dr. Isaac Young, veteran dentist; and patients are perturbed that his offices, for 25 years always open, are too often closed, these days.

When Mrs. Carl Murphy hosted a group of old friends at a bridge luncheon a Saturday ago, about were the following Washingtonians: Mesdames Edith Wright, Rosa Lewis, Selma Green, Ruth Houston, Fannette Penn, Essie Scurlock, and Miss Gertrude Johnson from Baltimore. Mrs. Annie Wright.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard (Glorias formerly of Coppin Teachers college) are parents of a new daughter, who arrived at University Hospital on Thanksgiving Day . . . over which the whole family, Mom, Pop and three brothers, are perfectly delighted. Baby, who weighed seven pounds and two ounces, has been named Denise Kim.

Sorors urged to return to close-by humanities

Return to personal human relations was urged by Miss Ruth Fegley, speaker at the 10th anniversary banquet of Pi Beta Sigma Sorority, Saturday evening.

"We no longer take the time for an old - fashioned visit, we now entertain, we no longer make decisions according to our own feeling and out of own hearts, but conform to popular thinking; we never let our hair down, but always play the game," the speaker charged.

MISS FEGLEY advised the group to face up to situations rather than run away. She urged them to accept responsibility for roles, and then, if necessary, grow to fit the role rather than shove it off on someone else. Get to know and live harmoniously with the persons you work with, and those in your community as well as work for better human relations on a world - wide scale she suggested.

TB association names recipients of grants

Several organizations and individuals have been named to receive grants and subsidies from the current Christmas Sale for the control of tuberculosis.

Frank J. Fischer, president of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association which is now conducting the 53rd traditional Christmas Seal Sale, said allocations have been approved by the Association's Program and Budget Committee.

The Baltimore City Health Department will receive money for the salary of a medical social worker, and a tuberculosis nursing consultant.

"Clerical workers who compile a tuberculosis case register are also receiving their salaries from the Association, in addition, Christmas Seal funds will be used for the purchase of X-ray films and for a revolving fund.

The Maryland State Department of Health will receive money to be applied toward the services of four X-ray technicians, an occupational therapist and a medical social worker. Other sums will help maintain services to patients and hospital library services.

A SCREENING SERVICE at University Hospital will be maintained by Christmas Seal contributions as will a tuberculosis education program for hospital personnel at Johns Hopkins Hospital. In addition, Hopkins will receive allotments for a screening service and a revolving fund.

The air hygiene research project conducted at the Loch Raven VA Hospital will continue to receive financial support from the Association as will library facilities at the Baltimore City Hospitals.

A special allotment to provide personal needs for patients has also been given to the Baltimore City Hospitals. A scholarship fund has been provided for the Maryland League for Nursing.

Individual grants will continue to be given to qualified persons who are conducting tuberculosis research projects locally or who are furthering specialized education.

Mr. Fischer stated the current Christmas Seal Sale will last until Christmas Day. "I hope all Baltimoreans will buy and use Christmas Seals," he said. "These grants are important to the health of everyone of us."
