Dr. King to spark prayer pilgrimage

RICHMOND

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. leader of the Montgomery, Ala. bus boycott will spark the "Pilgrimage for Public Schools" ceremony January 1 at the Mosque in Richmond.

This will be followed by the pilgrimage of some 2,000 citizens to the steps of the Capitol, in prayerful protest to Virginia's massive resistance to school integration.

Sponsors of the demonstration asked for public participation in the pilgrimage in this appeal,

* * *

WE CALL you to join in a dramatic petition to the State of Virginia to maintain our public schools in compliance with the Supreme law of the land and the Federal Courts.

We call on all citizens to join in asking repeal of the Virginia statute that allows local communities to abandon public education in defiance of the Supreme Court Decision of May 17, 1954.

And the granting of immediate relief to the 1,700 children of Prince Edward County who are denied access to a free public school education.

We feel compelled to act, not only because of the Federal Court decisions, but primarily because of our religious and moral obligation to these children locked out of their classrooms.

We believe in the unity and brotherhood of mankind and are irrevocably disposed to ask for the end of segregation in our public schools."

BOUNTIFUL BABY BOOTY for the Graves quadruplets was purchased with the AFRO's $200 plus more money from Jack and Jill, Tots and Teens, Continentals, Hiram Grand Lodge. Shown above with purchases from Rosenthals Department Store are Mrs. Lorraine Graves, quads mother, and Miss Kay Rosenthals buyer, who selected the best including 56 shirts, 56 gowns, 28 pads, 8 crib blankets, and a pink bathinette.

NEW CHIEF in surgery at Provident Hospital is Dr. Richard A. Montgomery Jr., of 1400 Edison Highway. He takes charge on Jan. 1.

Merry Cristmas for our quads from AFRO readers

On Christmas Day, Dec. 25, of the famous Graves sisters, Maryland's only living quadruplets, will be 76 days old. Born Oct. 10, they passed the two - months old mark on Dec 10.

At their home in Annapolis the quads reside with their mother, Mrs. Lorraine Graves, their eight other brothers and sisters, their grandparents and their children.

According to Mrs. Graves and officials at the Johns Hopkins Child Development Clinic, Kim Marie, Katherine Mary, Karen May and Kevin Mark are in excellent health and growing "like little weeds."

Steady progress has been noted since they were born at Johns Hopkins Hospital where they made history as the first quads born there in the hospital's 80-year history.

Even before their birth, the Graves quads attracted the attention of the medical world.

Four days before they were born, Mrs. Graves disclosed that she was examined by more than 50 physicians at Hopkins.

Her picture with the newborn quads appeared on front pages of newspapers around the globe.

* * *

AFRO READERS have played a part in the welfare of the Graves quadruplets since they came into the world.

Two days after their birth, the AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers opened the Graves Quads Fund with $200 and generous readers followed with gifts of cash, clothing, supplies, food and other items needed by the family.

THE AFRO took Mrs. Graves shopping and supplied the quads with more than $200 worth of necessities including 56 shirts, 56 gowns, 56 sheets, 8 crib blankets, 28 pads, a bathinette, a total cost of $174.30.

* * *

THE ABOVE purchases were made at Rosenthal's Department Store, which gave a reduced price so that more items could be bought for the money.

Read's Drug Store also gave discounts. Items purchased there totaled $51.61 and included 28 blankets, 1 bottle sterilizer, 10 bottles and nipples, 1 electric bottle warmer.

The Capreettes Club of Baltimore supplied the family with Thanksgiving needs and has adopted Mrs. Graves, all of the 12 children including the quads, the grandparents and their children for Christmas.

They are supplying toys and food.

A complete list of contributors follows:

No-Do-Per Baby Service - 6 months supply diapers

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

By: MILTON E. ELICKSON

"SOME FALLS ARE MEANS THE HAPPIER TO RISE . . . ." Shakespeare.

Although it is difficult to envision misfortune in any form as being a prelude to happiness, it sometimes works out that way. Often it is the setbacks and disappointments along the way that make the eventual realization of our dreams and ambitions all the sweeter.

Not too often do we accomplish much of consequence without experiencing moments, days, setbacks, hardship and a severe testing of our mettle. Our ability to overcome these hardships reaffirms the faith we must have in ourselves and in the worth of our goals. The fact that we suffer falls along the way is unfortunate but largely to be expected, and in the final analysis serves but to make success infinitely more enjoyable.

Infinitely more unfortunate, of course, is the loss of a loved one. At such time, the family is wise to share the burden through the comfort and understanding of a complete seervice. Many extra services can be expected of ELLIOTT FUNERAL HOME 1129 N. Caroline St. Phone Eastern 7-6590.

Ax-killer gets life

RICHMOND

Life imprisonment in the penitentiary was imposed Monday on Jasper A. McCray, 48, who admitted that he killed his landlady with an ax, then set fire to the body.

Victim of the grue-some slaying was Mrs. Louise Jones, 54, who rented a room to McCray in her home at 638 N. 8th St. where her death occurred on Oct. 30. One of her two pet dogs died at her side, suffocating in the fire.

* * *

McCRAY WAS arrested at the scene after firemen discovered Mrs. Jones' mutilated body while putting out the blaze which had been started in two bedrooms.

He denied knowledge of the crime for four days. But after telling several contradictory stories and submitting to a lie detector test, finally confessed. He claimed that Mrs. Jones owed him six dollars, and that his anger was provoked by drinking.

SARAH VAUGHAN

'Divine one' reveals she's coming home

NEWARK

Sarah Vaughan, the "Divine One" of the world of popular songs, is coming home to New Jersey.

Miss Vaughan, who was born in Newark's old Third ward, revealed her plans to permanently settle in New Jersey during an interview at the Empire Room at the Waldorf Astoria in NYC where she currently is the star attraction.

She stated that she and her husband, Clyde Atkins, former halfback of the Green Bay Packers, will move into a split-level house on Woodlawn St. in Englewood.

* * *

ALTHOUGH ENGLEWOOD is nearer to New York than to her native Newark, Miss Vaughan says "it will be like going home."

Her neighbors will be Mayor Albert Moskins and a group of entertainers, including comedians Joey Bishop and Phil Foster, singer Tony Bennett and actress Betsy Palmer.

* * *

MISS VAUGHAN, 35, was born in the house at 3 Brunswick St. here. Her parents, however, now live at 31 Avon Ave. in a house she bought for them.

Her return date to New Jersey is as yet indefinite, but she says it will be soon after completion of a scheduled European tour and a brief visit in Puerto Rico.

D. C. government acts on birth control advice

— Commissioner McLaughlin has asked the city's legal officer to determine if there is any legal reason why birth control information cannot be given to patients in D.C. General Hospital.

If there are no legal obstacles, Mr. McLaughlin gave assurance that the matter would be thoroughly discussed by the Board of Commissioners.

He and Commissioner David Karrick have made statements approving the giving of birth control information to patients receiving care at the city hospital.

Recently, several local groups have urged the Commissioners to take action to enable its charity patients to secure help in planning their families. Among these are the D.C. Medical Society, the Council of Churches of the National Capitol Area and the Board of Governers of the United Church Women, D.C. Council.

* * *

THE MEDICAL SOCIETY said that it "believes that information on the various methods of child spacing and reliable contraceptives should be made available to those charity patients who need and desire it."

The Society stressed the importance of such information as a part of good obstetrical management and noted that while birth control information is readily available for private patients of all faiths, it is denied charity patients at the public hospital.

Dr. Reassig, executive secretary of the Council of Churches released the following statement from the Council's Board which is composed of representatives of protestant churches and agencies in the area:

"The Board of Directors here by goes on record as believing in family planning as related to the number and spacing of children. We hold that it is morally proper for a man and wife to make use of tested and medically approved means for the purpose of such family planning."

Fraudulent story worth $45 in fines

Thomas A. Diggs Jr., 20, of the 1700 block E. Chase St., tried to spring a surprise on a "friend" last Sunday, police said. It cost him $45 in fines.

Patrolman John Lloyd testified in Eastern District Police Court that when he came across Diggs lying in the middle of Rutland Ave., he complained that his feet had been run over by a car.

At Johns Hopkins Hospital, doctors could find nothing wrong with Diggs and were not surprised when he put on his shoes and walked out.

Police however didn't think the joke was funny. They charged Diggs with making a false report and with being disorderly at the East Mondl and Republican Club in the 1100 block Rutland Ave.

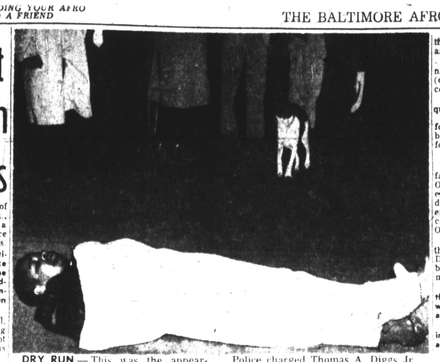
* * *

IN HIS report Diggs had claimed that the car which ran over his feet was driven by the club's president.

Police later learned that Diggs had been thrown out of the club by the president following an argument, and had vowed to get even.

Magistrate Joseph O. Broccolino Jr. fined Diggs $25 for filing the report, $15 for being disorderly in the club, and $5 for disorderly conduct on the street.

Witnesses in the case were identified as Addison Warren of the 1700 block E. Chase St., and Frank P. Giles of the 2000 block Cecil Ave.



DRY RUN — This was the appearance a young man presented to spectators in the 1100 block Rutland Ave., Sunday when he complained that his feet had been run over by a car. Police charged Thomas A. Diggs Jr., of the 1700 block E. Chase St. with filing a false report and disorderly conduct. The "victim" was fined $45.

Off to Haiti and sunny skies on the Clipper in February will be the Rev. Arthur J. Payne, Enon Baptist pastor, and the Rev. Marshall Shepard, Philadelphia.

The trip represents the second part of the Rev. Mr. Payne's vacation. He splits it in half so that rest and relaxation comes often enough to "make life longer," he says.

And, the Rev. Mr. Payne recommends a winter vacation for everyone who has to work hard.

Packed in his traveling valise, along with tropical attire, will be a new set of golf clubs the Rev. Mr. Payne plans to try out on Haitian golf courses.

OFF FOR FAR away South Jersey Spain by trans-ocean airlines Sunday was Elizabeth Jenkins, wife of Morgan president Dr. Martin D. Jenkins.

Excited as a bride, Mrs. Jenkins was met by her husband in Lisbon, Spain, 11 hours later, on Tuesday.

Left at home grieving are the Jenkinses' two pets, Lady Amber, the collie dog, and Lady Fluff, the cat.

In Monrovia, Dr. and Mrs. Jenkins will spend the first week in January in 100 degree heat, fancy togs and formal regalia as they begin a round of state affairs and garden parties attended by kings and queens, representatives of many nations.

Dr. W. V. S. Tubman, born in the Province of Harper, Maryland, there in Liberia and is descendant of the Maryland ers who settled there.

At this time, the event is of world - wide significance in international affairs.

SPEAKING OF desserts, here's the most expensive one in any cook book today:

Heavenly Hash, is the name of this rich delicacy.

Required: Heavy whipping cream, whipped until fluffy, a little sugar added.

Add, finely chopped figs, dates, almonds, walnuts, green and red cherries, pineapple, raisins, apricots.

Then, skin and seed large red grapes, chop them fine, and fluff in.

The expensive part comes in that enough heavy whipped cream must be added to hold the delicate fruit and nuts together, so they won't flop on the bottom of the bowl.

To serve six persons, about $10 out of the budget goes for pure whipping cream.

THE GRAVES quadruplets receive a gift from Los Angeles, California each week.

Their fairy godfather is Gerard Alter, a Swede, wealthy and single.

This week, Mr. Alter left for the Coast via jet to visit another set of quadruplets.

He will be on hand in Annapolis, Oct. 10, 1960 (the quads birthday) to help them celebrate their first birthday.

However, on Monday, the quads's weekly gift arrived.

In great big cartons were four high chairs in yellow and blue and two strollers room for two babies in each.

MEMBERS of the immediate family of Mrs. Clara Harris, OES past grand recorder, present at her testimonial last Friday were Mesdames Hilda Myers, Dorothy Gray, Mrs. Frances Coe, May Pack and Annie Otey.

The Rev. John M. Cox, of the Methodist South Baltimore District, delivered the most beautiful prayer at the testimonial for Mrs. Harris.

Loveliest voice ever heard, that of Miss Marie Matthews, who is Mrs. Harris's niece and a student at Peabody Institute.

Miss Matthews sang "Homing" and dedicated it to her aunt.

Mrs. Edith Mosby, teacher, order worker in the Eastern Star lodge is also a skilled dress designer. She made the fabulous white satin draped frock she wore to the Harris testimonial.

Locked in

"I saw them in the shop so I just locked the door, your honor."

William Moore, 500 block of Wilson St. gave this explanation of how two persons were trapped in his radio and TV repair shop Sunday night, in testimony at Western Police Court Monday.

Mr. Moore told Magistrate Calvin A. Douglass that he left the shop and found the door unlocked when he returned.

He testified he saw two men identified as Eugene Turner, 41, 500 block of Wilson St. and Walter Jones, 44, 1600 block of Druid Hill Ave. in the shop and each had a radio.

Mr. Turner was fined $25 and costs; Mr. Jones $10 and costs, both on charges of larceny of a radio.

GET THE FACTS . . . GET THE TRUTH!
Would I pay the first $50 on medical expenses covered by Blue Cross and Blue Shield, as I've been told?
ANSWER: No, you would not. Blue Cross and Blue Shield would continue as they are now.
Under the Company's proposal the employee would continue to pay half the cost of that coverage and the Company the other half. The only change proposed would permit an employee, with two or more years of service, to carry his protection at the same cost during the first six months of layoff.
