A unique series of parties highlighted Sunday for the Just Up Club, a husband and wife group organized two years ago 'just to relax.' They have no officers and even dispense with business matters.

Sunday's events started with cocktails at four in the Callaway home of Howard and Gertrude Neale and followed with the soup-and-salad course at Quenee and Carolyn Willis' residence on Dennlyn Rd.

Dinner was at Earl and Palestine Anderson's place on Dorchester 2cad with Joe and Leona Felton and Connie and Henry Neal as co-hosts.

Coffee and dessert with Elois Parker of Grantley Rd. and party time with Walter and Josephine Brown and Earl and Thelma Rogers at the Browns' Allo Rd. home made a day of it.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown of Fallston, Md. were hosts a tan elaborate dinner party, during the holiday.

Their guests included:

Messrs. and Mesdames James Graves, John Curtis, Herbert Brown, Mace Thompson, Thomas Blount, Henry Neal and Earl Rodgers;

Henry Neal, Jr., Mrs. Cecinda Burns, Matthews Johnson and Raymond Brown.

Early Saturday morning recently, the Spocketts Child Study Association with their youngsters and guests boarded buses to take a trip to Roadside America and Koziar's Village in Bernville, Pa.

On the following Saturday night the groups entertained their teenagers at a dance in Morgan Christian Center.

Of course you can imagine some of the reactions of some of these parents seeing their children in a different light. They were prefect host and hostess though, they and their guests were beautifully attired (Minis, Maxis, Turtles, and Edwardian) in the latest fashion trends. The adult chaperones were Mesdames Eugenia Britt, Shirley Ammons, Regina and Joseph Bernard, Grace Taylor, Clara Bailey, Ponfolo Priest, Fanneal Robinson, Effiee Payne.

The Spocketts Sub Teens are Rae, Monya and Joseph Bernard, Edward and Keith Bailey, David and James Morton, Yvette and William Britt, Lynn Robinson, Linda Randall, Jacqueline Hawkins, Denise and Charles Taylor, Karen Stewart, Michelle Grace, Debra Brown, Tom Payne, Darryl Shelton, April Burroughs and Melon Priest.

Their guests were:

Lois, Janet and Karen Hicks, Sharon Robinson, Irvin Garraway, Cassandra Ross, Carla Clemons, LaTarya Bailey, Linda Johnson, Rita Clemons, Carla Nichols, Howard Nicholson, Denise Thompson, Ricky and Wayne Young, Larry Campbell,

Anthony Watty, Janice Stewart, Darryl Waters, Marie Wheeler, Barbara Drake, Kim Pinkney, Harry Jenkins, Adrienne Robinson, Dell Johnson, Irvin Horne, Debby Williams, Patrice Myers, Michele Roach,

Alicia Myers, Lynette Ray, Michele Beasley, Roy Cragway, Lance Dorsey, Lisa Williams, Culpper Chisolm, Clarissa Edwards, Ronny Evans, Joann Blother, Deborah Liggons, Leroy Thompson,

Robert Lee, Ronald Smothers, Roderick Fercher, Stephanie Gibson, Butch Green, Roy Thomas, Gerri Brown, Bruce Griffin, Carron Rice, Joey Williams, John Gaskins, Alestair Blackwell, DeJuan Smith, Linda Smith, Sharon Scott, Harvey Woodard, Paulita Bass;

Joseph Reed, Vernon Ross, Harriet Jenkins, Herbert Massie, Gail Williams, Tim Dunlap, Gregory Watson, Victor Williams, Harvey Woodward, Anthony Witty, Sharon Scott, and Rachael Phillips.

The Baltimore chapter of J.U.G.S. elected new officers when the club met on Saturday evening.

Mrs. Lorna Brice succeeds Mrs. Mattie Washington as president. Other officers are: vice president-treasurer, Mrs. Barbara Owings; recording secretary-chaplain, Mrs. Winifred Ashby; financial secretary, Mrs. Jean Chancy; business manager, Mrs. Bettye Moss.

Other members are Mrs. Daisy Alston and Mrs. Estelle Hughes.

J.U.G.S. Inc., is the same group which sponsored that fabulous Living Ads Ball in November, raised $3,000 for the AFRO's Mrs. Santa Claus fund.

Mrs. Lillian Patterson entertained the Pleasurettes Club on Sunday, and the group continued with plans for a pre-Valentine dance on February 7th.

Mrs. Velma Bailey is president of the group, and other officers are Messrs. Martha Woodford, vice president; Betty Howard, recording secretary; Rahber Harris, financial secretary; Pauline Bunum, treasurer; Geneva Moses, business manager; Irene Johnson, chaplain; and Lillian Patterson, banker.

T.G.P.'s (The Good Friends) gathered their other friends in the Hollyday Room of the Village of Cross Keys, Saturday evening, for a gay cocktail dance.

Jimmy Smith and his band served up the music for dancing, and Jimmy Daugherty dished up the viands throughout the evening.

Attending the party were:

The club group includes: Laviette Campbell, president; Edith Spruill, secretary; Coritha Van Dyke, business manager; Ethel Wise, treasurer; Camilla Sherrard, Marie Hinton, Mae Grynn, Odessa Garris, Lucille Russ and Louise Jones.

Their guests were:

Messrs. and Mesdames Lloyd McDonald, James Ford, Edward Robertson, Glasco Baker, Charles Garris, Michael Boyd, Tim Wayne Dunlap, Daniel Wood, Troy Lewis, Jack Fortune, Messrs. and Mesdames Clifton Wallace, Daniel Comegrs, John Payne, George Williams, Earl Carter, Thomas Morris, Samuel Hinton, Louis Smallwood.

Messrs. and Mesdames Henry Neal, Robert Brown, Nolan Wise, Harvey B. Seay, William Bayd, Edwin G. Jones, William Gardner, Earl Spruill, Messrs. and Mesdames James Campbell, E. Michael Spruill, Roland Greene, Thomas Jones, Clinton Petteford, Jr., O. R. Cambbell.

Mesdames G. Camilla Sherrard, Louise Jones, Margaret Land, Naomi Evans, Mabel Footes, Emma Dixon, Raliedean Coates;

Misses Ruth Biddle, Melva Powell, Evelyn Greene, Jean Tyler, Deborah Cade, Donna Farrington, Velma Jones;

Robert Greene, Leon Greene, James Bennett, William C. Jordan, Richard McKay, Ernest Reed and Richard Hurtt.

Pot-Pourri: Gloster Current, director of NAACP branches, will be the speaker when the installation services for Mrs. Enolia P. McMillan as president of the Baltimore Branch are held, Sunday afternoon at four. Bethel AME Church is the place.

Lines from Gwendolyn Biddle, now in Lima, Peru, where it is summer as far as weather is concerned, "imagine." says she, "New Year's without wearing a coat?" she will be in Rio for the Carnival at the end of this month, and from the middle of February to May, in Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Back from Haiti are Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Jones, who spent the holidays there with U. S. Ambassador C. Everett Knox and Mrs. Knox.

An ad for a house in Weston, Conn., advises house-hunters against wearing white gloves, "This house won't pass inspection," the ad continues, "but underneath the confusion there's really three bedrooms, one and half baths..."

Shells cited for 60 years of marriage and church activity

For 60 years of service to Ebenezer Baptist Church that congregation gave a salute to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Shell on Saturday evening.

The program and reception were held in the church and also marked the 60th wedding anniversary of the honorees.

• • •

During the past six decades Mr. Shell served as usher, trustee, chairman of finance, and recently was cited for having been a deacon of the church for half a century.

His wife, currently a deaconess, has sung on the senior choir and affiliated with the Missionary Society. Mrs. Shell organized the Youth Department in the church.

• • •

Outside of the church, the Shells have also had a busy and interesting life.

Intensely interested in youth, they have great admiration for the forward-going, vocal young people of today, who, they say, are intelligent and busy with current issues.

Of their marriage, they say it has been "one long honeymoon," because they have not only shared their love, but their enforts in church, community and social activities.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Shell are both natives of Virginia, but have lived in this city since 1908.

His first job in Baltimore was that of coachman for the late Ferdinand C. Latrobe, then mayor of this city. Mr. Shell drove a horse and buggy for the Mayor, who, he says, pioneered in civil rights. He recalls Mr. Latrobe's efforts in having gas lights extended to areas where non-whites lived.

For 40 years Mr. Shell was an antique dealer with a shop in East Baltimore. He also operated in real estate.

Mrs. Shell, an expert seamstress for 50 years, catered to first families here, as well as the wives of high-ranking officials and celebrities.

Though now retired, Mr. and Mrs. Shell are busily engaged in various hobbies.

Both enjoy cooking. She likes to crochet, embroidery, read and do crossword puzzles. In addition to church activities, Mr. Shell is a great conversationalist.

Their "children" are their nieces. Mrs. Evelyn Richardson, regional manager of Baltimore City Schools cafeterias, and Mrs. Bettye Graves, supervisor of the Young People's Department of the Baptist Convention of Maryland, and a public school teacher.

• • •

Both are members of the Ebenezer Baptist Church.

Their "grandchildren" are Purnell Richarlson Jr., Rolarnd Richardson, and Herbert Graves. The great grandchildren are Purnell 3rd, Valerie and Stephanie Richardson and Terri and Kimberly Graves.

For the salute, a program in the church auditorium, and the reception in the lower auditorium, Mrs. Shell was lovely in a blue brocade sheath with matching accessories and crystal jewelry.

Program participants were:

Miss Naomi L. Johnson, who presided, Mrs. Mary Agne, the prayer; Mrs. Lill Sturgis Boston, an original ode; Mrs. Dorothy Barrick, soloist, who was accompanied by Mrs. Gloria Stokes;

Mrs. Ruth Morton, greetings from the church; Robert Ransom, tribute from the Official Board; Mrs. Myrna Powell, an original song of salute; and the Rev. Maxwell Johnson, pastor of the church.

In the receiving line at the reception were Mesdames Catherine Adams, who introduced guests to the line: Evelyn Richardson, Bettye Graves, Martha Reid, Susie Outlaw, Katie Hunter, Aurelia Bush, Irene Johnson and Josie Smith.

Guests at the affairs were:

Messrs. and Mesdames George P. Coleman, C. E. Shell, Allison Johnson, Robert Ransom, Hasea J. Newbyn M. Henderson, Joseph Cular Susan, Robert Dorsey,

Home Ec moved from the kitchen

Some evening courses offered at College Park by the University of Maryland this spring show how far home economics has moved from the kitchen.

Examples of this broadened approach are such classes as Decision-Making in the Family, Family Relations, and the Child in the Family.

These sociologically oriented courses are taught by the University's recently established Department of Family and Community Development.

Adult evening students can also earn regular BA degree credit with a variety of craft subjects among them: Experimental Clothing Design, Ceramics, and Metalry. Period Homes and Furnishings, a study of authentic interiors, is another credit course.

More information on the 172 evening courses being offered by University College at College Park may be obtained from the Dean's office, telephone 454-2317. Registration begins January 22, with classes starting February 9, 1970.

Household Hints

(By United Press International)

Never leave children alone or without supervision.

• • •

Before plugging in and turning the dials on new elecrrical appliances, read the instruction booklets. That's how to find out what the new appliance can or cannot do.

• • •

Using tap water in a steam iron will shorten its life. Unless you have soft water, distilled is the only kind to put in.

• • •

When something new comes into the house, keep guarantees, instruction sheets, assembly guides, operator's manuals and manufacturer's warranty cards. Often, these are thrown out with the wrapping.

Last year, according to authorities, arthritics threw away $300 million on phony diets, foods and devices. Such money could have been spent on good food, medical care and recreation.

• • •

For the arthritic, extra pounds can mean extra burdens on weight-bearing joints. Additional strain on joints frequently increases pain and speeds the process of the disease.
