Clay watches Muhammad in ring and loves him

By SAM LACEY

For a brief moment, only the hum of the projector broke the silence of the darkened room. Then the makeshift screen lit up and two figures were reflected in the act of flailing away at each other.

"The greatest fight of all time" shouted a familiar voice. "The two greatest fighters the world has ever known, meeting together in the same ring!

"You're privileged gentlemen," the speaker went on, "getting a chance to see Rocky Marciano and Muhammad Ali in the super fight of all time."

Needless to say, it was the voice of the latter that was punctuating the monotonous drone of the projector. Needless to say, too, it was only because he wanted the film to hold the undivided attention of the witness that Cassius Clay had permitted silence to prevail in the early moments.

One reporter made a mental note of the fact that the deposed heavyweight champion no longer bristled when he was referred to as Cassius Clay. Whether it was inadvertent acceptance or not it hard to say, but it seemed obvious that the insistence on being known as "Muhammad Ali" has diminished, if it hasn't completely disappeared.

* * *

When he and the late Marciano took part in the computerized "super championship fight," Clay was adamant about being identified as Ali. So, on Monday when he was watching the film along with a score of invited members of the news media, it was a case of Cassius Clay admiring the work of Muhammad Ali.

And make no mistake about it, Cassius was Muhammad's most rabid fan.

* * *

"Watch this right hand," he prompted the viewers. "ain't he great?" Clay shouted in a momentary departure from his own press-agenting.

"We fought 72 rounds, and I mean they were knockdown-dragout rounds. We did everything we would have done in a championship fight.

* * *

"Rocky was a wonderful guy and a great fighter. He and I were the greatest fighters boxing has ever known. I didn't let up on him one minute and he was all out on me for the whole time we were in action.

* * *

"You'll never see anything better than this in your life — that goes for any sport of any kind; baseball, football, basketball, you name it," Clay continued, obviously still warming up to the reception he felt sure he'd get at the finish.

* * *

The clip went off after a little more than four minutes of action.

Although the assembled reporters — veterans and newbloods alike — recognized it for what it was worth, a mere teaser," there was general agreement that what was shown was packed with thrills.

* * *

The film will be shown Tuesday at 10 p.m., with only one offering in Washington, the Tivoli and Senator theatres will carry it. In Baltimore, it will be on screen at the Uptown and the Royal.

According to Clay, the "title fight of all time" was filmed in 72 rounds of one-minute duration, the time of the action being cut in deference to Marciano's age. He was 42 at the time of his death in a plane crash last spring.

* * *

Clay vows he does not know what the computer decided in regard to the outcome of the battle.

"There are seven possible conclusions," he explained. "It can take from either of two knockouts, either of two decisions, either of two TKO's, or a draw."

* * *

Both Clay and Marciano were unbeaten as heavyweight champions. The former was deposed because of his refusal to be drafted into the armed forces, and the latter retired undefeated.

Holly Mims, former boxing great dead

Holly Mims, former middleweight boxer died Tuesday night at 10 p.m. at Providence Hospital after being hospitalized since Dec. 21.

Death was caused by kidney trouble and complications.

Mims, 41, resided at 1537 Montello Ave. N.E. He had been working as a maintenance supervisor at the Brentwood Village Apartments near his home.

He was stricken during the pre-holidays and entered the hospital after complaining of stomach pains at his home.

A native of Washington, Mims grew up in the Northwest section and began boxing at an early age. He fought around the country in Atlantic City, N.J.

The Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools has member schools in Washington, D.C., Maryland, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Puerto Rico, the Canal Zone and the Virgin Islands.

The Commission on Institutions of Higher Education is the primary accrediting agency for colleges and universities located in the geographical area of which the Middle States Association has members.

Explained Dr. Lockwood, "Colleges and universities desiring accreditation by the Association would have to secure Commission approval.

"Accreditation indicates that the school has met certain standards with respect to the total education process adequacy of facilities, qualifications of instructor personnel, etc.," said the veteran administrator.

A native Louisianan, Dr Lockwood attended Morgan State College. He received his M.A. degree from Northwestern University and Ph.D. from Johns Hopkins University.

Dr. Lockwood's commissional duties will be in ad lition to his present involvement with the planning and developing of programs for CCB's $20 million Harbor Campus, which is scheduled for completion in 1974.

Dr. Lockwood brings to the position many years of experience as an educator, administrator and government official with the U.S. Department of Labor.

His wife, Mims is survived by two children, Clinton, 21 and Theresa 19, his mother, Mrs. Mary Jane Mims, a brother, James and a sister, Ethel Mims.

Dr. William Lockwood on Middle States board

Dr. William V. Lockwood, dean of the faculty, Harlem Campus and Director of Planning at the Community College of Baltimore, was elected commissioner to the Commission on Institutions of Higher Education at the 63rd annual convention of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools held last month

ROSEWOOD CHANGES PLANNED:

Mental health services under new directorate

A major strengthening of Maryland's health services, through the creation of a Directorate for Mental Retardation under the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, was announced yesterday by Dr. Neil Solomon, Secretary of Health and Mental Hygiene.

Dr. Solomon, in making the announcement, said he was acting in accordance with his personal and staff studies, the recommendation of the special ad hoc Secretary's Committee on Retardation, other organizations interested in the retarded, and with the full approval of Governor Marvin Mandel.

Dr. Solomon said he saw as the result of the organizational revision, effective July 1, the benefits of better visibility for care and habilitation of the retarded, improved coordination between various activities in regards to retardation, more enthusiastic support from all elements of the community, and a closer integration of institutional and community-based programs.

Dr. Solomon said that the Directorate method of organization would allow for considerable flexibility.

The new organization, placing a high priority on services to the retarded, will be headed by a director, who will have equal stature with the existing commissioners of health, mental hygiene, directors of juvenile services and comprehensive health planning agency.

Its activities will encompass institutional care now operated by the Department of Metal Hygiene; community based care, a Health Department function; liaison with state and local departments of education involved in special education and preschool, development, and prevention.

Being shifted to the new Directorate will be Rosewood State Hospital in Owings Mills, Henryton State Hospital for adult retardates in Carroll County, and the Maryland Metropolitan Washington Retardation Center in Silver Spring, a 230-bed facility to be completed about July 1, and the small residential center program now underway throughout the State.

Among the community based program, the Directorate will be concerned with the following.

Day care and training centers now numbering 34 and operated in 17 counties and Baltimore City. These centers care for more than 600 retardates not suitable for special education. Financing of these centers is according to a formula which includes State and local funds. These centers serve retardates from age 3 upward.

Hospital screening of newborns for and follow-up treatment of phenylketonuria (PKU).

Inspection and licensing of hospitals and residential centers, in cooperation with the Division of Medical Facilities Development.

* * *

Community diagnostic and advisory services for handicapped children, in cooperation with the Division for Crippled Children.

Provision of special consultation services for the mentally retarded, a. psychology services; b. nutrition services; c. public health nursing; d. occupational therapy; e. health education; f. social work services.

Dr. Solomon, in making his announcement, praised highly the work of the Secretary's Committee headed by Harry Shriver, a Baltimore radio executive and president of the Baltimore Association for Retarded Children, with Lambros Callinahos, president of the Maryland Association for Retarded Children, serving as vice-chairman.

The Secretary stated that in accordance with his own desires and a mandate from the Governor, he was taking immediate action to improve conditions at Rosewood.

This will include the immediate creation of a separate housekeeping department, freeing nursing services for better care and treatment of patients; and a survey of other State-operated health facilities looking to the transfer of patients to possible unused areas in these facilities.

* * *

Included in the overall planning is a newly acquired institution in southwest Baltimore.

This site will be used for an institution for the emotionally disturbed now housed at Rosewood. Shifting these patients to a new location will free two Rosewood buildings for utilization by the retarded.

Planning, likewise, is progressing for the construction of a regional center for retardation just south of Salisbury on the Eastern Shore.

The Secretary added that at present, a small number of mentally retarded patients in State mental hospitals would remain in these institutions, until more adequate facilities are available.

Two killed instantly in weekend auto crash

High speeds and a uncontrollable turn proved fatal for two passengers of a late model sedan, Sunday morning, when the car crashed into a utility pole in the 1000 block Chesapeake Ave.

Dead on arrival at South Baltimore General Hospital were David Brown, 31, of the 100 block Reedbird Ave., and Raymond Marshall, 30, of the 2500 block Seamon Rd.

The two victims were killed instantly when the car rammed into a telephone pole. The driver of the car, Noel Barnes, of the 2500 block W. Fairmount Ave., and another passenger, Miss Jesse Livingston, of the 2500 block Joseph Ave., sustained serious injuries, but their condition is currently listed as "satisfactory."

According to the police, Noel Barnes was charged with "reckless driving."

Funeral arrangements for the two men were handled by the Elroy Wilson Funeral Home, located at 1000 Brantley Ave.

Funeral services were held Thursday at 12 noon for David Brown at the First Baptist Church, located at Fairfield Rd. and Brady Ave. He was eulogized by the Rev. E. W. Williams. Interment was at Arbutus Memorial Park.

Mr. Brown is survived by his wife, Mrs. Martha A. Brown. Three children Linda, 14; Margaret, 12; and Lenora, 11. In addition, he is survived by his mother, Mrs. Margaret Brown; a brother, Robert Lee; and a sister, Miss Sherdina Brown.

Raymond Marshall, who was killed a day before his 30th birthday, was buried at Mt. Auburn Cemetery after services for him were conducted in the chapel of Wilson's.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Bessie Marshall; three sons; Raymond, 11; Michael, 9; and Kevin, 6; two daughters, Priscilla, 10; and Shirley, 8.

He is also survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Marshall; three brothers; Roosevelt, Melvin, Leroy, and James Marshall; three sisters, Mrs. Corrine Davis, Mrs. Lillie May Lee, and Mrs. Geraldine Oliver.

Greyhound shifts timetable, service

CLEVELAND, Ohio — Greyhound made major service and timetable adjustments throughout the eastern United States, beginning Jan. 4.

Changes included improvements, new service and timetable adjustments in some areas. Most existing bus service will be unaffected, however.

Coaches are being used between Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland and southern points including Florida, New Orleans and Atlanta. Greyhound places new coaches into service periodically as part of its continuing fleet modernization program.

Phoenix 124, Bullets 115

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Gail Goodrich and Connie Hawkins poured in 29 points each as the Phoenix Suns outclassed the Baltimore Bullets, 124-115, in National Basketball Association play Thursday night.

The big gun for the Suns, however, was rookie Lamar Green, who came off the bench to score 16 points collect 12 rebounds and blocked numerous Baltimore shots.

The Suns took an early lead and led 66-58 at halftime shooting a torrid 63 per cent from the floor. They allowed the Bullets to close the margin and lead by one point with two minutes left in the third period.

Baltimore came within five points at 118-113 with 1:21 left in the contest, but consecutive field goals by Green, Hawkins and Goodrich put the Suns out reach.

Gus Johnson and Kevin Loughery led the Baltimore attack, each getting 26 points. Earl Monroe had 22 and Wes Unseld 20.
