Abernathy leads protesters in N.C. march for leniency

By THOMAS FAZIO

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Dr. Ralph Abernathy; wrapped in a patchwork quilt against the cold, led a march on the state capitol last Thursday asking mercy for an 18-year-old black girl sentenced to death.

Abernathy called on Gov. Bob Scott to commute the death sentence of Marie Hill, who was convicted of beating to death a white grocer.

"If the life of James Earl Ray can be spared," Abernathy told a rally of about 700, "then I say to you that the life of Marie Hill can be spared."

Abernathy referred to the assassin of Dr. Martin Luther King. Abernathy succeeded King as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

The governor's office said Scott was out of town on personal business an aide, David Murray, received Abernathy and a small delegation.

"I feel this young lady should be given a chance to live," Abernathy said.

Murray thanked him and presented him with a copy of Scot's earlier statement that the matter was not in his hands until all other legal appeals were exhausted. Scott has expressed his personal opposition to the death penalty.

Murray also gave Abernathy a copy of a handwritten letter Miss Hill wrote thanking Scott for al-

At a rally prior to the march, Abernathy said the death penalty has been used in a "systematic, calculated design of genocide against blacks in the United States."

Abernathy said North Carolina has executed 206 blacks since 1910. Department of Correction records show a total of 361 executions since 1908.

Abernathy arrived by commercial flight from Washington where he joined with two dozen Congressmen urging the nation's mayors to launch a movement to make King's birthday, Jan. 15, a national holiday.

Abernathy said there is a rumor "black people are divided. This demonstration proves that we may differ on tactics, ideology and strategy, but we're all together . . . in dealing with Mr. Charlie."

On the march from the auditorium to the capitol, Abernathy wrapped a quilt around his lightweight suit for warmth in the 18 degree weather. The marchers chanted "Black power to black people" and brandished clinched fists.

Concerts in 11 cities set for inner-city students

DEARBORN, Mich. — The Ford Motor Company Fund last week announced plans to provide free concerts of classical music for thousands of disadvantaged high school students in major American cities in 1970.

Coleman Blumbield, a noted concert pianist, is under contract to the Ford Fund to present the unique concerts at innercity schools in at least 10 communities during the coming school term, according to Ray C. Kool, director of the Ford Fund.

"The concerts are designed to increase appreciation for the fine arts among young people in general, and among underprivileged teenagers in particular," Mr. Kool said.

Concerts are scheduled for school in Baltimore, Jan 1223; Nashville, Jan 2630; Birmingham, Ala. Feb. 213; Houston, Feb. 15 27; Cleveland, March 220; Atlanta, April 617; Louisville, Arpil 20May 1; Cincinnati, May 418; Phoenix, May 1829 and Dgetown, June 112.

In addition, Blumfield will present a special concert Jan. 19 at a meeting of the Business Committee for the Arts in New York City.

In August, 1965, Blumfield joined the Office of Economic Opportunity as a volunteer artist and later became a fulltime community relations specialist, presenting nearly 200 concerts in Job Corps Centers and neighboring communities across the nation.

The Ford Fund is an educational charitable organization supported primarily by the Ford Motor Company. It is not related to The Ford Foundation.

Labor Dept. petitioned not to change NYC program

WASHINGTON — The proposed changes for the Neighborhood Youth Corps (NYC) was challenged in a petition filed by the National Association for Community Development (NACD).

The NACD, a group of several community action and human resource agencies, filed a petition last month on behalf of the National Association of NYC Directors calling the proposed changes unwise and an illegal infringement of the rights of NYC enrolees over 18.

The changes call for would limit the work experience aspect of NYC programs to one-third of the enrolee's time; prohibit enrollees from staying in the program more than two years (or past age 19) and prohibit anyone 18 or over from joining the training program.

NACD Director Robert Aleshire addressed a letter to Labor Secretary George Shultz outlining and elaborating on major objections to the proposed NYC changes.

Supporting the NACD petition requesting public hearings on the proposed changes, Aleshire wrote, "We strongly disagree with the policy that only 16 and 17-year-olds may be enrolled in the NYC program."

"In many of the communities in which the NYC program is operated, there are not now and may not be for some time applicable adult programs to respond to the needs of this age group," explained the director.

Aleshire also protested the shift away from work experience to a more academic education approach; changes from a wage-based payment system for hours worked, to a weekly stipend of only $25.

"We believe that local communities should be able to design manpower programs in a way which is responsive to local problems, and that program guidelines should not be designed so stringently as to make it impossible to serve a youth who needs help simply because of when his birthday falls," concluded the NACD director.

N.Y. proposes consumer law

MINEOLA, L. I. — A local consumer fraud law which would provide for penalties up to $500 for violators has been proposed by Nassau County Executive Eugene H. Nickerson.

The proposed law, which would become effective March 1 if approved by the Board of Supervisors, empowers Nassau's commissioner of consumer affairs, through the county attorney's office, to recover civil penalties for each violation.

The law, the first such in any county in New York State, would permit the county attorney to file court injunctions against persistent violators.

The county executive said that the proposed legislation would be placed before the Board of Supervisors "at the earliest possible date" to facilitate its passage and implementation.

Designed to cover all consumer goods and services, the law gives the commissioner of consumer affairs the power to promulgate rules and regulations and provide for restitution to victimized consumers

The new 1970 Schaefer Talent Hunt is hunting for you!
