Hippie leader found innocent

By JACK V. FOX

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A Superior Court judge entered a plea of innocent on behalf of hippie cult leader Charles Manson Wednesday over the shouted objections of the principal defendant in the Tate-Labianca murders.

Manson, clean-shaven for the first time in a court appearance and pacing nervously in the prisoner's box, tried unsuccessfully for another delay entering a plea. He is acting as his own attorney in the case.

Deputy District Atty. Aaron Stovitz read off in a loud, clear voice, the names of the five persons at the Sharon Tate home and the two at the Leno Labianca residence alleged to have been killed by Manson's female cult of young men and women.

• • •

Manson, dressed in a white blouse with a red tapestry vest, his hair falling to his shoulders and looking girlish without his beard, bit at his lips and put his head in his arms until Stovitz had finished and asked him how he pleaded.

"Your honor, I object to any further proceedings," Manson said. "I object to the grand jury system. I object to the indictment. I object to the heinous behavior of the establishment in relation to the indictment."

Monumental Medics' party was tribute to their wives

With Lula Mackey

The elegant party given by members of the Monumental City Medical Society at Mardel's West Wing, Sunday, was a retty comliment to their pretty Society and their wives.

They got a directional hand from Mrs. H. Garland Chissell, who flitted about throughout the evening keeping the motif under perfect control.

Guests were greeted upon arrival by Dr. Louis Randall, president of the Society, and Mrs. John Chissell, president-elect of the Auxiliary. During an intermission, Dr. Randall introduced and welcomed new members of the Society and their wivs.

Dr. Emerson C. Walden, president of the State Association, called upon Senator Verda F. Welcome, wife of Dr. Henry C. Welcome, who will be running for reelection. Dr. Walden also invited the hundred or more party-goers to attend the 75th Jubilee Convention of the National Medical Association which will be held in Atlanta, Ga. in August.

And a veritable fashion show the party was . . . with the ladies in striking mini, midi and maxi creations . . . with pants way out front.

• • •

Following dinner and a floor show, the group danced to the music of Sherman Lewis.

Attending were:

Drs. and Mesdames James Ralph, Earl Clay, Donald Chambers, Donald Stewart, Walter Shervington, Maurice Adams, Gilbert Banfield, Lawrence Zollicoffer, Elroy Young, Harold Nichols H. Garland Chissell, John Chissell.

Drs. and Mesdames Emerson C. Walden, Albert Laforest, Joshua Mitchell, Edward Holt, Richard Tyson, Edward O. Hunt, Hubert G. Skinner, James Priest, Louis Randall, Charles Venter, Roland Smoot, Ernest O. Brown, William Birt, Arthur C. Lamb, Theodore Patterson, Joe Jack, John H. Holmes, Stanley Madison.

Drs. and Mesdames Herbert Moseley, Charles R. CCampbell, Shirley Clinton, Claude Hill, Elijah Saunders, C. Dudley Lee, Vincent Blake, Jerry C. Luck, Lionel Desbordes, Neil Solbmon, Alvin Graham, Thomas W. Harris, Frederick Peck, Henry C. Welcome:

Drs. Marcus Moore and Gus Lowe;

Out-of-town guests were Drs. and Mesdames Jesse Barber of Washington and Aris T. Allen of Annapolis.

Five women doctors were present. They were Drs. Louise Young, Eugenia Phillips, Lois Young, Brenda Rawlings and husband Howard, and Brenda Washington and husband Alfred.

Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity house was the setting for a gala evening of dining and dancing when the Astronettes entertained, recently.

A wide variety of gourmet dishes (including one of pigeon, peas and rice, flown in from Florida, soul foods and other delectables) marked the affair.

Attending were:

Leonard Briscoe, attorney, and Mrs. Briscoe, Messrs. and Mesdames William Hawkins, Ruful Wells, Lloyd McDonald, John Tiedman:

Dr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Leacock, Messrs. and Mesdames Preston D. Manganaa, Leonard W. Smith, Walter Wright, James Mack, Herbert Burberry, Carl Patterson;

Messrs. and Mesdames Ray Jones, Lawrence Frazier, L. Drain, Joe Chapman, Leon Nunnally, George Martin; Sgt. and Mrs. Phillip Lane:

Misses Faye Flanagan, Zelma Turner, Clayles Martin; Mrs. Muriel Brown, George Stovel, Raymond Jolley, Reginald Winfrey, Elmer Hobbs, Joseph Cassidy, James Stovall, Hilton Jones, Charles Sands, Charles Byrd and Samuel Hobbs.

The hostesses were Mesdames Julia Stovel, Lauretta Winfrey, Leona Hobbs, Ella Stovall, Barbara Cassidy, Frances Jolley, Rosetta Sands, Floretta Jones, Estelle Pinkett; and Miss Barbara Allen.

'Twas truly Buon' Appetito as the Baltimore Continentals recently met Italian Style in the home of Thelma Cox. Co-hosting were Continentals Daisy King and Phyllis Thompson who announced "E Pronto Di Mangiare" (It's time to eat) and serve a variety of dishes from antipasto to dessert with wines to accompany each course.

Following the delightful gustatory experience, the members then attended to the business end of their affairs which has enabled them, along with their sister chapters in the national body to contribute over the last five years, more than a half million dollars to organized charities serving underprivileged children.

In addition, the committees were very excitedly discussing arrangements for the group's 15th annual conclave that the Baltimore chapter will host in June of this year.

Attending this session were: Sue Kirk, Pearl Marshal, Little Brown, Bess Miles, conclave chairman

Illustrious Women

By BETTYE MOSS

Typical of Baltimore women who devote their time helping others is Miss Mary Catherine Allen, a Dunbar High School home economics teacher.

Miss Allen is well known for her activities in civic, and church groups. This week she is particularly pleased because frinds have rallied to her special project.

Her special project is the 'Save Bowman Allen Fund.'

Bowman Allen is her 49-year-old nephew, a carpenter who lives at 510 Old Elm St., Conshohocken, Pa., with his wife, Cynthia.

He is suffering from a kidney disease which could prove fatal unless he gets an artificial kidney machine (dialysis).

• • •

Since the first part of January, Miss Allen appealed to her Baltimore friends and associates to help the crusade to save her nephew.

To date, they have responed with over $1,222.36.

"This is the kind of good neighborliness which gives you courage and the desire to continue to help others," Miss Allen said this week.

All told, the ailing Mr. Allen is going to need up to $20,000.

This includes the initial cost of the machine, training program, supplies, medication, plus yearly maintenance.

• • •

To date, the 'Save Bowman Allen Fund', at Federal Savings and Loan Assoc. 19428, have received approximately $14,000, but more is still needed.

Contributions are still being accepted at the address given here.

And, if you want to let Baltimore's Miss Allen know that you care, you may give through her address: 1701 Madison Ave., Baltimore, Md., 21217.

Helping others is nothing new to Miss Allen. Since she came to Baltimore to teach in 1939, she has been 'involved.'

This year, she marks 30 years as home economics teacher at Dunbar High. Her pet areas have been foods and nutrition. A number of her students have count careers in catering. Others have gone on to college and are teaching home ec.

Miss Allen is active in Sharp St. United Methodist Church, where she is president of the Iradelle B. Williams Wesleyan Service Guild. She is lay representative on the Board of Missions of the Northwest District.

MISS MARY C. ALLEN

• • •

In the Baltimore YWCA, she has served on a number of committees, including the committee on administration of the Madison Ave. Branch, now Center. She is presently a member of the 1970 membership committee.

She is also active in the Business and Professional Women's Club of which she is former vice president and secretary.

Also, she is active in the United College Fund Drive, where she is one of a committee of 20 engaged in a fund-raising drive.

• • •

Born in Talbot County, on Maryland's Eastern Shore, Miss Allen is one of eight children of the late Thomas and Mary Newman Allen.

She attended public schools there and Princess Anne Academy. She is a graduate of Hampton Institute and did graduate work (master's) at Columbia University.

She has five brothers still living. She makes her home with one of them, John Allen.

Other brothers are Thomas Allen, Philadelphia; Alexander Allen, Brooklyn, N.Y.; Royal Allen, Bryn Mawr, Pa., and James Allen, Lackey, Va.

Her late brother, Samuel is the father of the nephew Bowman, who has the rare kidney ailment.
