Richard Doswell buried, local baseball leader

Funeral services were held Thursday at noon for Richard B. Doswell, longtime organizer and leader of sandlot baseball teams in Baltimore.

Doswell died Friday at Lutheran Hospital, reportedly the victim of spinal meningitis. He was 32 years old.

While he founded and managed several independent ballclubs during his more than 30 years on the scene, Doswell was best known for his operation of the Dolphin A. C. recognized as one of the best baseball organizations in the city.

His influence on the youth of Baltimore is best attested to by the stature reached by a number of his protegees.

Among the countless number to come under his guidance were Police Lieut. Dennis Mello, Sgt. Albert Burke of the Western District, City Councilman Bob Marshall, ex-Dodger pitcher, Joe Black, Alvin Green of Westinghouse, and prominent local barber, Alex Green.

Also a member of the Doswell registry was the late Lt. Col. Tim Howard, who later starred in football at Morgan, and last year was shot down while serving helicopter patrol in Vietnam.

Doswell was born in Courtlouse Village, Va., of a family of nine children.

He is survived by five brothers, Bishop James Doswell of the Doswell Temple, Church of God in Christ; Ned, of Denuron, Va.; Joseph and William Doswell of Norfolk, and Walter of this city.

Three surviving sisters are Mesdames Ella Reid and Millie Hines of Norfolk; and Martha Conway of Baltimore.

YOU CAN register to VOTE NOW at Supervisors of Elections, People's Court Building, Fayette and Gay Sts., daily from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursdays, 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

S. African Radio says Ashe visa plea mixed

JOHANNESBURG (UPI) — Arthur Ashe will not get a visa to enter South Africa to play in the Republic's tennis championship, South African Radio announced Wednesday.

It was quoting a statement by Minister of Sport and Recreation Bill Waring who referred to Ashe's general antagonism towards South Africa reflected in statements made by him from time to time.

He said Ashe's application for a visa was, to use Ashe's own words — an attempt to pull a crack in the racist law down there — and not just for the purpose of playing tennis.

Basil Rea, secretary of the Lawn Tennis Association (LTA) and the International Federation (ILTF) said in London that the South African government's decision would not have any immediate effect at international level, but would almost certainly harden opinion against South Africa at the forthcoming Davis Cup nations' meeting on March 23.

"I am not surprised at the decision," Rea said. "In fact I would have been surprised if they had granted him a visa, for there have been claims in South Africa that this was a put-up case with a political background.

"It is a great pity, it is also rotten luck on the South African tennis authorities, who are blameless. They want players to compete," Rea added.

But regardless of any decision taken by the South African government vis a vis players from other countries, or any ban on South Africa in the Davis Cup, South African tennis players may still appear at Wimbledon.

Major David Mills, secretary of the All-England Club said, "I can't see that the decision not to give Ashe a visa raises any problems regarding Wimbledon.

"We deal with individuals and not with teams. There would certainly be no question of our refusing South African entries."

San Francisco Warriors tap Al Attles as coach

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The floundering San Francisco Warriors, desperately trying to make the National Basketball Association playoffs this season, have turned to veteran Al Attles to guide them the rest of the way.

The 10-year veteran became an asterisked coach Tuesday when owner Franklin Mieuli relieved George Lee of his coaching duties.

Attles thus becomes the third colored coach in NBA history — Bill Russell of Boston, and Seattle's Len Wilkens were the first two. The asterisk designation is called for because Attles is taking the job as an "interim" player-coach for the balance of the current season.

• • •

Although the Warriors are in fifth place in the Western Division with a 22-30 record, Attles is confident the team can move up another notch and into the playoffs.

"I think we are capable of getting into the playoffs," he said. "You never know what will happen then. "TDGS DBN fulfilling the 30-game we have been doing — trying to avoid the mental errors on defense. It depends on who we're playing. There are some teams you don't run with and some you don't try to grind it out."

AL ATTLES expects improvement

• • •

Mieuli explained the change this way: "I just feel that at this stage of the game we need another pair of eyes evaluating the Warriors. George Lee has looked at it through his eyes.

"Now I am asking Attles to look at it through his eyes to determine whether we have the nucleus for a good team or whether we will have to start from scratch."

• • •

Attles, who served two years as assistant coach to Lee, appointed veteran Dave Gambee as his aide.

At the news conference, Mieuli revealed Attles didn't want the job.

"He was at first reluctant to take the job, out of loyalty to George, but the three of us talked it over and reached the decision."

Colts' draft picks mixed

NEW YORK — Six colored prospects are among the college players drafted by the Baltimore Colts at the pro football sessions here Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Baltimore aggregation took Ara (Sonny) Parson, a tight end from Morgan State College, on the third round, and on the fifth call tapped Billy Newsome, a defensive end from Grambling.

Ron Gardine, a wide receiver from Arizona State, was selected on the sixth round, and another wide receiver, Don Burrell of Angelo State, was the twelfth round pick.

On the fifteenth turn, Baltimore tapped Phil Gary, a defensive end from Kentucky State, and on the seventeenth, wide receiver Alvin Pearman of Colgate, was chosen.

BECOMES REDBIRD — Charlie Pittman, stellar running back from the unbeaten Penn State team, was drafted by the St. Louis Cardinals on Tuesday. The former Edmondson High School standout was picked on the third round.
