Natural gas can reduce air pollution

By ROBERT BUCKHORN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A government transportation official told Congress Tuesday it may be possible to drastically reduce air pollution by converting automobiles to use natural gas, the fuel used to heat houses and cook meals.

Robert M. O'Mahoney, commissioner of transportation for the General Services Administration, reported to two Senate subcommittees on the government's tests of a dual fuel system for cars using both conventional gasoline and natural gas.

He said pollutants produced by fleet operations of taxi cabs, buses and trucks may be reduced by 85 per cent through the use of natural gas, which burns much cleaner than gasoline.

Pollution experts say vehicles account for about 50 per cent of the nation's air pollution. O'Mahoney said the GSA hopes the dual fuel system may eventually cut vehicular emissions of carbon monoxide by 80 percent, hydrocarbons by 80 per cent and nitrogen oxides by 70 per cent.

Under the plan, tanks of natural gas are carried in the vehicle with hoses connecting them to a figure which replaces the carburetor air filter. A driver can convert from one fuel to the other by a switch on the dashboard, even with the vehicle in motion.

A similar system using butane or propane gas — cheaper than gasoline — is often used by farmers on trucks and tractors. O'Mahoney, however, said natural gas was safer than propane or butane and also cleaner.

He said the natural gas equipment could be installed on any vehicle within two hours at a cost of about $350.

In addition to producing less pollutants, O'Mahoney said, natural gas gives better milage — 10 miles per gallon against 7 miles per gallon of conventional gasoline in cars used in government tests.

SANE wants Panthers to get a fair shake

BALTIMORE — The Baltimore Chapter of SANE has joined the national body in calling for "swift action against police who violate due process in dealing with Black Panthers and other unpopular groups.

A resolution adopted this month in Philadelphia by National SANE said:

"SANE notes with alarm the increasing harassment of and attacks — including police excesses — upon groups espousing unpopular causes. The case of the Black Panthers is only one among many.

"SANE believes that the preservation of the rights of every citizen and every group, no matter how unpopular, is an essential element of democracy and freedom.

• • •

"Accordingly, SANE calls upon the citizens of the United States and of the several states to take swift action against those who violate due process in respect to the Black Panthers and others, and to bring to trial those public officials who have taken the law into their own hands.

"Our support for the civil rights and civil liberties of all individuals and groups in no way indicates that SANE necessarily supports their aims and activities."

Going even further than the national body, Baltimore SANE made a financial contribution to the Black Panther Party in Baltimore.

• • •

In New York the previous week, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, headed by Dr. Ralph Abernathy, joined with several other groups to support the Black Panthers' right to dissent.

Plans were made to attack the high bails usually set against arrested Panthers. The group also announced Feb. 16-22 would be observed as "Liberation Week."
