CELEBRATION CAKE — Any proud parent or relative enjoys honoring a student for special achievement. A special cake to serve for dessert after a family dinner honoring the achiever will make a big hit.

Cake to honor special scholars

Parents and relatives the world over are proud when their children excel in school.

What better way to express joy and happiness by baking a cake especially for the scholar. Laud and honor the achiever in your family with a special party cake decorated with a sugar glaze and coconut.

The mother of the house who bakes the perfect cake is to be honored in her own rite. She has mastered the art of baking, and is well aware of many techniques for successful cake baking. She knows the importance of sifting cake flour, since it's soft and tends to pack when handled. She leaves the eggs and shortening at room temperature for a while before using; this gives her greater volume and creaming power.

While mixing the cake, she allows the oven to preheat to the proper temperature. She bakes cakes in the middle of the oven, so the heat can circulate around the pans. And, she allows the cake to cool before frosting.

The busy woman who works, or for other reasons bakes her cakes ahead of time, should store them properly. Store in a "cake keeper" or cover with a deep bowl or pot. Frosted cakes stay much fresher than unfrosted cakes in most instances.

Nothing is more perfect for a meal or party than a lovely cake that says "I made it just for you!"

This Party Cake is made with two and one-fourth cups sifted cake flour, one teaspoon double-acting baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one cup butter, one and one-fourth cups sugar, one and one-fourth teaspoons vanilla, one-fourth teaspoon mace, four eggs, one-third cup milk, one and one-third cups (about) of Bakers' Angel Flake Coconut. Confectioners' Sugar Glaze and Additional flaked coconut.

Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Cream butter. Add sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time, creaming thoroughly after each addition. Add vanilla and mace, blending well. Beat in eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each. Add flour mixture alternately with milk, beginning and ending with flour and beating after each addition until smooth. Fold in 1 1/3 cups coconut.

Pour batter into a 9-inch tube pan which has been lined on bottom with paper. Bake at 325 degrees for about 1 hour and 10 minutes, or until cake springs back when lightly pressed with finger.

Cool in pan 10 minutes; then remove from pan, remove paper and finish cooling on rack. Spread glossy Confectioner's Sugar Glaze over top of cake and allow to run down sides. Sprinkle cake with additional coconut.

Glaze may be divided into 2 or 3 parts and tinted with different food coloring to glaze cake in different colored sections, if desired.

Confectioners' Sugar Glaze requires one cup sifted confectioners' sugar and one tablespoon (about) hot milk or water.

Place sugar in small bowl. Add milk gradually, blending well, until mixture is thin enough to be spread over cake. Takes 1/3 cup glaze or enough to glaze a 9-inch tube cake.

Black woman job seeker 'Low man on totem pole'

NEW YORK (UPI — In the battle for equal job opployment agency that specializes in finding colored to fill managerial and executive corporate posi- of an executive search emportunity, black women are to success than black men — the very fact that they Richard Clarke, president finding one more roadblock tions, summed it up this way:

"The situation is compounded for the black woman by the fact that she is female and that she is black. Measure the amount of opportunity in management for females and divided by four and you reach a reasonable equation."

UPI surveyed Clarke's firm, Richard Clarke Associates, and other "black" executive search agencies, as well as talking to other experts in the field.

The evidence pointed to the conclusion that many American businessmen still believe a working woman's place is in the typing pool, not alongside men on the executive level, and this applies to black women as well as white.

"The black woman is still on the bottom of the ladder," says Althea T. L. Simmons, director for training programs of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

"Let me give you some statistics:

the city, but hundreds of marchers carrying black are women.

"In June, 1969, 44 per cent of working non-white women, and 93 per cent of those are black, were private household workers or service workers outside the home.

"Discrimination against black women is the same normally as practiced against blacks and women — confinement to low pay jobs, wage differentials for similar work and exclusion from managerial and supervisory jobs. It happens to women regardless of race, but it happens more to black women.

"According to a 1969 report by the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission, women accounted for more than 40 per cent of all white collar workers, yet only one out of ten management positions and one out of seven professional jobs were filled by women. Now take office jobs — 57 per cent of women workers hold white collar jobs, but only 25 per cent of office jobs are held by black women."
