Drs. Drew and King topics of free library film showing

A new movie series titled "Soul Samples" will open at 7 p.m. on Wednesday Feb. 4, at the Waverly Branch of the Enoch Pratt Free Library.

Teen-aged patrons of the branch library have selected the films to be shown and will, themselves, present each program in the series.

Sharing the bill on the "Mr. Mack's Fighters' Gym," "I Have A Dream," and "The Hurdler."

The first film, produced by Joseph Sheppard and narrated by Ken Jackson, is a study of the activities and atmosphere of the only boxer's gym in Baltimore, owned and operated by Mack Lewis.

first Wednesday will be

The second — "I Have A Dream" — is a biography of Dr. Martin Luther King, exploring the factors and forces that shaped his life and lifted him to a place of leadership among the nation's black citizens.

The film is also a chronology of the American civil rights movement in the 1950's and '60's. It shows the gradual evolution of the movement from the boycott stage through attempts to build political power with the ballot, the introduction, of the sit-in, the time of freedom riders, mass demonstrations, and the development of black power as an ideology competitive with Dr. King's approach.

"The Hurdler," scheduled to close the evening's program, tells the story of Dr. Charles Drew whose pioneering research in blood plasma led to the modern blood bank system.

Using live footage and newsreels supplemented by drawings and photographs, the movie follows Drew's determined hurdling of racial barriers to achieve his goals.

Economy meals for good eating

Winter though it be, peaches and pears can add an exotic note to any meal these days and yet be easy on the budget.

In canned form, these fine fruits are always in season and in the weeks ahead they'll be in plentiful supply, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service.

Eat these convenient processed fruits as is or use them in a variety of flavorful dishes.

They make perfect choices for cottage cheese salads, fruit cocktails, garnishes for meat or poultry, and many desserts — in pies, pastries, Melbas, cobblers, shortcakes, Bavarians, compotes, ice cream combinations or others.

Canned peaches or pears go well with the breakfast dry cereal. Crush them and include in pancake batter for a delectable breakfast or late supper treat.

Or in a cottage cheese-fruit mixture for crepes and tarts. Or include in gelatin and serve with a whipped topping.

Here's a menu for a day's good eating using foods that are plentiful and reasonably priced:

BREAKFAST
Orange juice
Oatmeal
Hot corn muffins with margarine and jelly
Milk
Coffee or tea

LUNCH
Split pea soup
Frankfurter on roll
Cole slaw
Fresh apple
Milk

DINNER
Fried fish filets parmesan
Baked potato
Glazed carrots
Peach dumplings
Milk
Coffee or tea

This recipe for Peach Dumplings is for the dessert of the dinner meal:

Use one and three-fourth cups flour, unsifted, one tsp. salt, one-half cup shortening, one egg yolk, three tablespoon water, one tablespoon lemon juice, two tablespoons sugar, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, six peach halves, canned, drained; three-fourth cup sugar and two-third cup water.

Mix shortening with pastry blender or fork. Blend egg yolk, water and lemon juice. Blend lightly into flour mixture with fork. Preheat oven to 425 degrees F. hot). Grease a 7 by 12-by 2-inch baking pan. Roll out dough on lightly floured surface into 12-by 18-inch rectangle.

Cut into 6-inch squares. Mix 2 tablespoons sugar and cinnamon. Roll peach halves in sugar mixture. Place a peach half, hollow side down, in center of each pastry square. Bring corners together over peach, moisten and seal.

Place in baking pan, allowing space between dumplings. Heat ¾ cup sugar and water to boiling. Pour over dumplings. Bake about 40 minutes, or until browned.

NOTE: Three-forths cup of sirup drained from the canned peaches may be used in place of sugar and water. Heat to boiling before pouring it over the dumplings.

Nixon picks successor to Gen. Hershey

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Charles J. Dibona, 37, a civilian weapons and systems analysis expert for the Pentagon, has been chosen by the White House to succeed Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey as director of the Selective Service, it was reported Wednesday.

Congressional sources who disclosed his selection said Dibona has a "very good" chance of being confirmed by the Senate, for the controversial job.

Hershey, the nation's draft chief since the start of World War II, will leave the Selective Service Feb. 16 to become a White House consultant.

Dibona, Rhodes Scholar with degrees earned at Oxford University in England, reportedly is a supporter of additional draft reform and President Nixon's proposals for an all-volunteer army.

He is president of the Center for Naval Analyses, an independent organization run by the University of Rochester in New York under contract to the Navy.

It decides whether new weapons are worth what they cost and helps the Navy and Marines plan how troops and ships are deployed.
