Colleges for graduate study in and near York

YORK, Pa. — The city of York is located in southeastern Pennsylvania, slightly west of the Susquehanna River. As the seat of county government, York is located near the center of York County, slightly to the east.

The York City School District is coterminous with the city of York, providing education for public school children of the city proper.

At the same time, the city, as the center for a wide regional area, provides services, facilities and employment for its regional population.

York is propitiously located in relation to cultural, historic, governmental and recreational areas. It is only 25 miles south of Harrisburg, the state capital; it is 90 miles west of Philadelphia and 55 miles north of Baltimore.

Approximately 30 minutes' driving time is needed to reach each of three popular tourist attractions: Gettysburg to the west, Hershey to the north, and the Pennsylvania Dutch Country to the east.

The nation's capital is only 90 miles away and the Atlantic shore can be reached in about four hours.

York, itself, has a rich historical heritage and has much to offer of historic interest for tourists, cultural advantages and recreational and educational pursuits.

In addition to the York City School District and the parochial schools, other institutions provide educational opportunities for residents.

The Area Vocational Technical School located south of York offers training in about 35 areas.

Penn State University has a York campus which offers two-year associate programs and seven disciplines which can lead to baccalaureate degrees for students transferring to the University Park campus.

York College offers programs of liberal arts and business which lead to associate and baccalaureate degrees. The college has a regular enrollment of more than 1,200 and expects to enroll 2,000 as its academic programs expand.

Thompson College, an affiliate of International Correspondence Schools, offers one and two year secretarial and business administration programs.

A number of four-year colleges and universities are relatively close to York: Dickinson, Elizabethtown, Franklin and Marshall, Gettysburg, Loyola, Millersville, and Johns Hopkins.

University facilities in Baltimore and Philadelphia offer a wide range of graduate programs. A law school and two seminaries are located in the vicinity of York.

Among institutions providing specialized training are York Hospital School of Nursing and York Academy of Arts, which provides instruction in commercial art and illustration.

Courses in other areas such as computer operation, computer programming, practical nursing and beauty culture are also available.

York is vitally concerned with planning for the future. Its City Planning Commission and the County Planning Commission study problems and work to improve conditions and plan for development.

Would you rather teach in a big city
with little ideas

Or a small city with big ideas?

YORK, Pennsylvania, needs dynamic people for its progressive elementary, secondary and special education programs

Salaries are highly competitive.

Benefits include hospitalization insurance, liberal sick and personal leave, one of the finest retirement plans in the nation.

Opportunities for graduate study are available at nearby colleges.

In Service programs are excellent.

Other things you'll like about York, Pennsylvania:
Busy but friendly community nestled in scenic, central Pennsylvania, rich in culture, lavish in recreation opportunities. And the big cities are just a couple of hours away by train, bus or car.

For information and application forms write to:
DR. LUTHER B. SOWERS
Assistant Superintendent
329 S. Lindbergh Ave.
York, Pennsylvania 17406

AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

HOWARD UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF SOCIAL WORK

"More Education and Training For Better Opportunities"

(ARCHITECT'S RENDERING OF NEW SCHOOL OF SOCIAL WORK)

The School Offers the Master of Social Work Degree in Professional Education

Located in the Nation's Capital Libraries and Other Educational Resources Are Readily Available

Write for Application To:

The School of Social Work
Howard University
Washington, D.C. 2001

We have a lot to offer.

If you do.

The Coast Guard Academy is looking for good teachers . . . Those who can challenge a student, and make the challenge interesting.

Of course, we try to make the job easier for our teachers. Classes are seminar size. You'll come to know your students. Students who are highly motivated in pursuit of a long-term career objective.

We also offer all the advantages of a small (900 man) selective eastern college. Genuine involvement in campus life. Opportunities to advance your own professional training, at one of several neighboring universities. The beauty of New England. Boston and New York only two hours away.

But of course it's not all that easy. It's up to you.

If you have a Master's Degree or better, send your resume to: Dean, Coast Guard Academy, New London, Connecticut 06320.

The Coast Guard Academy.