Morgan only college awarded SSTP grant

The National Science Foundation has awarded Morgan State College a grant of $13,700 for the Support of a Science Training Program for high ability secondary school students to be held on the Hillen Road campus June 23-Aug. 4, 1970.

The program at Morgan will be one of 112 science training projects in the country for 11th and 12th grade students and the only one in the State of Maryland. Some 5,000 secondary school students will receive training in science and mathematics this summer.

The Morgan program will have biochemistry, quantitative ecology and biometry for six weeks for 35 students. This is the eighth such grant awarded to Morgan for high ability secondary science students making a total of $134,733 for the eight years.

Some 334 high school students of whom 223 were from Maryland, have participated in these programs.

• • •

The primary objectives of the program are:

1. To accelerate the educationhl development and maturation of high ability secondary school students which may be reflected through changes of attitudes, better utilization of talents, and a more serious concern for career planning.

2. To give high ability secondary school students an opportunity to supplement, broaden, or enrich their knowledge of science and mathematics over and above the usual coverage in high school, through course instruction and seminars.

3. To develop cooperation between colleges and high schools in increasing the quality of education in mathematics and the sciences.

The 35 students selected will pursue three courses — Biochemistry (the chemistry of life); Quantitative Ecology and Biostatistics.

The selection will be made on the basis of high school location, academic performance, promise as a future scientist, and recommendations from principal, counselor and science teachers.

• • •

Students now enrolled in grades 11 and 12 are eligible. Teachers in the program will be:

Dr. John W. King — Physiology and Ecology—director and professor biology, Morgan State College, whose research at California Institute of Technology, Yale University, University of Hawaii, Institute of Nuclear Studies — Oak Ridge, Tennessee and Oklahoma State University has resulted in the publication of numerous articles in the area of Plant Physiology.

He is a member of the Corporation of the Marine Biological Laboratory, Woods Hole, Massachusetts; member of the Maryland Academy of Science, a visiting scientist for the Academy, and was a 1969 National Science Foundation Faculty Fellow. He teaches a course in General Physiology and Botany at the college.

Dr. John J. DeCosta — Quantitative Ecology — was a professor of biology at Wayne State University from 1965 to June of 1969. His research in the area of Paleolimnology has been supported by nine grants and has also resulted in the publication of several articles in journals such as Limnology, American Antiquity, Tebewa and Arch. Hydrobiology. He has presented papers at meetings and Symposia held in this country, Hungary and Israel.

Dr. Ulysses S. Stubbs — Biochemistry — associate director and professor of chemistry, Morgan State College, was formerly chairman of the division of natural sciences. He is conducting research on the increase yield of ammonia salts on semi-miro scale and the determination of the quantity of nicotine in both green and cured tobaco leaves. He teaches an advanced course in Biochemistry at the college.

Additional information and application forms may be secured from Dr. John W. King, director, Morgan State College, Baltimore, Md. 21212.

Garden workshop at Cylburn Park

Spring is on its way! Yes, when new seed catalogues are mailed to garden lovers, it is a hint that they should think of the kinds of flowers, their colors, and height to be grown in gardens this summer.

What better way to know more about gardening than to register for and attend the Spring Gardening Workshop to be held at Cylburn Park, 4915 Greenspring Ave., on Wednesdays, March 4th to April 22!

This workshop, sponsored by the Baltimore City Bureau of Recreation, will be held each Wednesday from 10 a.m. to noon for eight weeks.

Preparing the garden in the spring, the kinds of flowers to grow as well as the care of the gardens, the trees, shrubs, and lawn during the summer will be discussed in this workshop.

One important topic will be be care of spring flowering bulbs. Unless, they are given attention after blooming there will be no flowers next spring.

Mrs. John R. Crawford will be the instructor for this Spring Gardening Workshop. There will be time for members to present their gardening problems and exchange ideas with the group. Some work will be in the city greenhouse. All plants raised will be property of the class members.

There is a registration fee of $5 payable at the first meeting at Cylburn Park Mansion, 4915 Greenspring Ave. The workshop is limited. Advance registration may be sent to Miss Elizabeth Clarke, Supervisor of Gardens and Nature Activities, Bureau of Recreation, 1129 North Calvert St. For further information call MU. 5-5626.

Friendship records steady progress

Friendship records 34 pt.

A record breaking total of 3,070,555 air travelers used Friendship International Airport during the 1969 Calendar Year.

According to statistics released by the Department of Aviation, this figure represents a 5.5 per cent increase over last year. The number of Chartered passengers totaled 34,036, a gain of 16.2 per cent.

Air traffic operations during 1969 topped all previous years: 241,732 take-offs and landings were made, as opposed to 226,576 in 1968.

Commercial operations totaled 133,358. These figures reflect 6.7 per cent and 13 per cent gains respectively.

Mail volumes increased 9.5 percent (3,556,216 pounds) making the largest gain of the cargo categories. Friendship also handled 8,261,068 pounds of air express, used mainly for items weighing less than 50 pounds or requiring expedited movement. The small gain of 77,062 pounds is due to the increased number of flights, which in turn reduces the need for express shipments.

Women smokers double so does mouth cancer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A California doctor said Wednesday smoking among women has doubled — and so has cancer of the mouth.

Dr. Sol Silverman Jr., chairman of oral biology at the University of California School of Dentistry and an official of the California dental association, said this was "indisputable" evidence linking smoking to cancer.

"The rapid rise in mouth cancer among women, particularly in the floor of the mouth and throat, can be attributed to nothing other than smoking," he said. "There are no other variables."

"Ten years ago, only 28 percent of American women smoked cigarettes. Today 40 per cent smoke.

"Meanwhile, the percentage of men smoking has decreased from 59 to 40 per cent over the same period.

"From 1955 to 1959, 215 men uand only 64 women suffered from cancer in the floor of the mouth.

"From 1960 to 1964, 231 men and 112 women were afflicted with cancer in that area — an almost negligible increase for men, but nearly a 100 per cent increase for women."
