Cast of 'Raisin' set for tour of England

GRAMBLING, La. — The cast of the Grambling College production of "A Raisin in the Sun" has been invited to perform at the American Festival in Britain at the ancient town of Kendal in northern England this summer.

Grambling President R. W. E. Jones has accepted the invitation from the American Festival, which is sponsored by Restoration Arts Theatre, Inc., of Detroit, Mich.

The drama division of the festival will be held July 15 to Aug. 4, with performances the first two weeks at tour of England and Scotland the final week.

Some 14 members of the "Raisin" cast and crew, plus the director, Alexander drama faculty, will go to the festival, which opens with special ceremonies in the Kendal Parish Church.

The overseas invitation follows selection of "A Raisin in the Sun" as one of two top plays in the American College Theatre Festival regional competition in Fort Worth this past weekend.

The Grambling play is now under consideration to go to Washington, D.C., to appear in the spring finals of the ACTF.

The production received critical acclaim by Fort Worth newspapers and was shown for a second time Sunday in the Texas city to accommodate several hundred persons who could not obtain tickets for the competition showing the previous Thursday.

Sun., Feb. 22 at 3 p.m. in Murphy Auditorium, M.S.C. student recital featuring outstanding students of Dept. of Music Ed. No charge.

Groups to fight state aid to private schools

A number of concerned organizations and individuals have formed a state committee to coordinate the attack on HB203, a bill to grant public money to private and parochial schools.

The Maryland Committee For Public Education And Religious Liberty is similar in purposes and policy to PEARL's in other states but has no official connection with them.

PEARL believes that HB203 will deprive public schools of much-needed tax dollars; increase racial segregation and economic class imbalance in the public schools; breach the wall of separation between church and state.

PEARL is currently increasing its list of sponsoring organizations and individuals and is advising all of its constituents to contact legislators, write letters to local newspapers, and discuss the issues with churches, and civic organizations.

In addition, PEARL will provide speakers, do research, and testify before legislative committees.

PEARL's major objective is to alert the citizens of Maryland to the threat HB203 poses to equal educational opportunity in the public schools and First Amendment guarantees of separation of church and state.

We believe the proposed legislation is unconstitutional, and it will be challenged in the courts should it pass. But we hope that the people of Maryland and their elected representatives will rise to the defense of the public schools and Constitutional liberties. All concerned Marylanders are welcome to join us.

A list of officers and sponsors are:

Chairman: Richard B. Kennan, former Executive Secretary, Commission on Professional Rights and Responsibilities, National Education Association.

Acting Secretary/Treasurer: John Roemer, III.

Executive Committee:

Tom Asher, President, American Civil Liberties Union of Maryland.

Edd Doerr, Director, Educational Relations, Americans United.

Homer Favor, Chairman of Urban Studies, Morgan State College.

R. Gene Puckett, Editor, The Maryland Baptist.

Leon Sachs, Executive Director, Baltimore Jewish Council.

C. C. Tomlinson, Vice-President, Anne Arundel County Bus Referendum Committee.

Other sponsors are American Civil Liberties Union of Maryland and its local chapters, American Jewish Committee, American Jewish Congress, Americans United, Anne Arundel County Bus Referendum Committee, Baltimore Jewish Council, Rev. Vernon N. Dobson, Legislative Conference of the Unitarian-Universalists of Maryland and Parren Mitchell.

Economy meals for good eating

This season's bountiful supplies of fresh grapefruit comes as a pleasant boon to any homemaker, and to the economy-minded homemaker especially.

Now is a good time to enrich the family menu — whether in everyday meals or for a festive February holiday meal — with this good citrus. They're so reasonably priced now, you're unlikely to strain the budget.

• • •

Like other citrus fruits, grapefruit is a vitamin C special. And like other citrus fruits, grapefruit offers the most vitamin C when pulp, as well as juice, is eaten. Such popular foods as marmalade, candied grapefruit peel and glazed grapefruit make particularly good use of both the flesh and peel of this delicious fruit.

They're good items for snacks and for entertaining, though marmalade is often regarded as a staple spread for breads, rolls, pastries and desserts of various kinds.

• • •

Whether you plan to serve your grapefruit as is or in a salad, baked product or cooked preparation, shop wisely and well for them to enjoy them at their best.

Look for grapefruit that feel firm yet springy to the touch. They should be well shaped and heavy for their size and thin-skinned to be full of juice, meaty and flavorful. Disregard skin blemishes—like scars, scratches and minor discolorations that affect only the fruit's appearance but not eating quality.

Here's a menu for a day's good eating using foods that are plentiful and reasonably priced

BREAKFAST
Orange Juice
Pancakes with marmalade
Milk
Coffee or tea

LUNCH
Franks with beans
Celery stalks
Fresh pear
Milk

DINNER
French meatloaf
Potato pudding
Panned spinach
Baked apple
Milk
Coffee or tea

This recipe for Marmalade is for the spread for breakfast pancakes, but will go well in a variety of other snack and dessert preparations. Winter may not seem time to make marmalade, but what could be more appropriate during the season of plentiful fruit, cold temperature and hearty appetites?

Use just enough orange and lemon for flavor, making the bulk of the fruit juicy-ripe grapefruit. Even the peels go in . . . sliced very thinly and parboiled to remove bitterness. Remove seeds and membrane from fruit and add twice as much water as fruit plus peel. Boil 40 minutes.

Measure the cooked fruit and juice, add an equal measure of sugar and a little salt, and boil rapidly about 30 minutes or until it thickens, stirring frequently.
