ENCOURAGING WOMEN to sign up for Pap test, which it is claimed could save the lives of thousands of women are, from left, Mrs. Harold F. Seefeld, American Cancer Society Educational chairman; Mrs. Lois Tate and Mrs. Almeta Tate at meeting in Opportunities Industrialization Center in Philadelphia. The painless tests, given by personal physicians, and free at center clinics, detects uterine cervical cancer.

Business-Professional Women establish center in Georgia

Cuthbert, Ga. — The National Association of Business and Professional Women's Clubs dedicated a Day Care Center here, April 26.

Principal speaker was Congressman Jack Brinkley of the 3rd District, Georgia, who pointed out that attitudes make the difference. He said the country's strength lies with its people and their moral fiber and stressed the need for responsible attitudes, positive perspectives and concern for each other. He commended the project as a "memorial to the good will of men and women who care about their fellowmen and who care about their country."

The Day Care Center was developed after land and property was given to the Association to be used for educational purposes and was reconditioned and equipped with the help of city officials and citizens of Cuthbert and donations from BPW clubs throughout the country.

The first building is already serving 100 preschool aged children with two classrooms, modern kitchen, clinic and auditorium. They receive one meal each day and most of the work is done by volunteers. Plans are for the second building to house a school to offer basic education for the unlearned adults and to retrain young adult dropouts with employable skills.

Mrs. Margaret L. Belcher of Columbus, Ga., national president, had the dedication ceremonies. The 150 members of the executive board, who had been in session in ciCumbus, traveling to Cuthbert for the dedication.

Others participating were State Rep. Albert W. Thompson, first black representative elected to Georgia legislature since reconstruction days; John L. Farris, Cuthbert mayor, Mrs. Nannie Jenkins, president Cuthbert BPW club, Miss Florence V. Lucas of New ork, Ynationi program vice president and the Henderson High School band and chorus.

At a special appeal by Miss Lucas, on-the-spot donations totaling $700 were made to assis. with furnisnings for the center.

Miss Belcher, has been named the first a d only black Band at Virginia State Col

Seniors need special type of clothing

RALEIGH, N.C. — What type of clothing is best for the senior citizen? You may have your answer, but they also have their views.

Senior citizens do not accept fashion change so quickly as younger people due largely to limited income and energy, as well as a decrease in social life, point out extension clothing specialists, North Carolina State University.

Also, the older person does not replace his clothing so often as younger ones since there is less wear and tear on his garments.

Senior citizens tend to buy more conservative styles and as a result, can wear them for a longer period of time, the specialists point out.

When asked for suggestions in improving clothing for the elderly, senior citizens listed these considerations:

Make clothes to fit the body as body proportions change.

Improve styles so they are more youthful looking.

Make garments easier to get into and out of.

Offer a wider selection of designs for this age group.

It is apparent that clothing designed for the early and middle years no longer fill the need for citizens 65 years of age and older, the specialists observe.

Special sizes and styles are needed for the elderly as much as for the preteens and early teen-agers, they add.

Art museum sign-ups by telephone

Summer art classes for children have been scheduled at The Baltimore Museum of Art again this summer for which registration by-telephone-only is now taking place.

The education department of The Baltimore Museum of Art, which conducts the classes, has announced that the first semester runs from June 22-July 16 with morning and afternoon sessions each Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. The second semester going from July 28-August 20 maintains the same morning and afternoon sessions, also on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

The class fee per child is $20 per semester, including all materials. Provision is made for children in grades 1-6 and 7-12.

All parents interested in enrolling children in these creative classes should call The Baltimore Museum of Art now at 889-1728 to make arrangements through the education department.

MAY 17

The Community College of Baltimore will present a Choir and Band Ensemble Concert on Sunday, May 17, in the Campus Theatre. The program, which starts at 3 p.m., is open the public free of charge.

Goodwill Open House Saturday

Baltimore Goodwill Industries will hold an open house at its new headquarters, 4001 Southwestern Boulevard, on Saturday, May 23, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Harvey E. Kettering II, executive director, told the AFRO this will mark the first time since the consolidation of its facilities under one roof that the Goodwill Industries will open its doors so that the general public can obtain first-hand information of its stepped up program of services to Maryland's handicapped.

* * *

Featured on this day, Mr. Kettering continued, will be an antique display and sale; bake sale, artificial flower arrangements and other hand-crafted articles will be offered for sale under the sponsorship of the Women's Auxiliary; production work of the handicapped, fashion shows, conducted tours and refreshments.

* * *

The entire industrial complex will be in full operation on that day and will show the handicapped repairing and refurbishing articles contributed by the community.

MAY 19

Dr. Barbara W. Hudson, Assistant Director, Central Evaluation Clinic for Children, University of Maryland Hospital will be the guest speaker at the Metropolitan Baltimore Association for Children With Learning Disabilities meeting on Tuesday, May 19th, at 8:15 p.m. in the School Library of the Cathedral of Mary Our Queen, 5300 North Charles St.
