pair of hostesses as you would want to see.

There were a few G.F.'s missing at the meeting. Agnes Patterson had slipped and sprained an ankle, Anne Davis was with her mother, Mrs. E. Walter Shervington, who had recently undergone surgery. Gwendolyn Lynch had popped off to shape up her summer place in Cape May, N.J. Elisa Robinson was assisting her sister, Theresa Weaver, who was holding forth at a great party at the Sheraton Inn. Theda Wilson had gone to New York with the Rev. Fr. Donald O. Wilson, who was attending a conference in Manhattan; and Georgeanna Chester was being hosted by her daughter at a Preakness surprise.

The other Girl Friends had great fun ... dinner, re-election of the entire roster of officers, plans for the closing party in June.

About were Bernice Chatman, Laura Jones, Catherine Law, Olga Parker, Mae Parrott, Maizie Rea, Irma K. Roy (who with Vera Williams celebrated birthdays); Gaynell Spaulding, Lala Mackay, Elizabeth Stewart, Anita Wheatley, Doris Wheeler and Mae Williams.

Pot-Pourri: When the New Jersey Library Association convened in Atlantic City, last week, our Lillie Patterson, library specialist in the Baltimore Public Schools, was presented the Coretha King Award for her biography (her tenth book), Martin Luther King Jr.: Man of Peace. Other librarians from Baltimore who attended the awards banquet on Saturday night were: Sara Robinson, Bonnie Lee, Elsie Robinson, Alma Gray and Lillian Dantley.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Harris (Gussie Mercer) will chalk up 25 years of marriage on May 31st, and will commemorate the occasion with an affair at the Sheraton-Baltimore Inn at four in the afternoon.

And isn't it like the artistic Gussie to discard all the patterns for wedding anniversary celebrations and do her own thing! They are going to have a reception, and they are going to show fashions and it sounds like a real fun thing to me.

Cutest party under the Yum-Yum tree was the shower on Saturday given by Patricia Holtsclaw for the former Marie Phillips, now Mrs. Daniel Cooke.

Hilarious highlight was a "mock wedding" with the bride dressed in bell-bottom jeans, sweat shirt, and a long green flowered evening coat. On her head she wore layers of tissue paper and she carried a potted flower. Mr. Cook was also dressed in bell-bottom jeans, sweat shirt, tuxedo jacket, red tie and an orange ribbon boutonniere.

Guests (who fetched oodles of household gifts) included Judy Daniels, Pamela Widgeon, Kathy Owens, Yvonne Holt, Marsha Richardson, Rachael Phillips, Marcelyne Bedford, Inez Edwards and Rayna Keyser.

The Committee for a Livelier Baltimore of the Citizens Planning and Housing Association has a cute thing gooing.

They are planning a Paint-In for Sunday, May 31, when they will decorate the more than 200 panels of the fence at the University of Maryland School of Medicine construction site, Redwood and Greene Streets. The fence will be up for a year.

A paint company is donating the paint.

All you do is hop into old clothes, bring your own brushes and your talent (if any) and join in the fun.

If it is true that the sun shines brightest just after the storm has passed, there should be a great season in store for courageous Elizabeth E. Castle, who has just been married to Curtis Richard Boulware ... but whose honeymoon is being spent in the Greater Baltimore Community Hospital.

Miss Castle, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Castle Sr., and Mr. Boulware were married on April 25th, in a quiet ceremony in her home by the Rev. Harold Carter of New Shiloh Baptist Church. Only the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Castle and the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Boulware; and the best man, Gregory Simmons, witnessed the ceremony. Valerie Riddick, who was to have been maid of honor, had been called out of the city by the death of a nephew.

A few days later, as she was returning from Spring Grove Hospital, where she is taking classes in mental health, and automobile accident caused fractured ribs and serious eye injuries. She is currently awaiting surgery which will determine whether she will or will not lose her sight. But Elizabeth isn't dwelling on that. She's planning the wedding reception that will be scheduled as soon as she recovers.

Mary Carter Smith was in Pontiac, Mich., last week, doing an exciting thing. She worked with tots in the Mary M. Bethune Elementary School on a writing project.

The children wrote "books" (some three whole paragraphs long), during the second annual Young Authors Conference.

The conference, organized by James Hawkins, principal, gave each of Bethune's 450 odd pupils a chance to read from his own manuscript. It gave each a chance to display his illustrating and binding abilities, since all the books used in the conference were completely student-produced.

Mrs. Smith, poet and expert on African culture had the fun of talking about words as tools to be used in building a better life.

Following the conference, Mrs. Smith was guest of honor at a dinner party at the Sheraton Motor Inn. Mrs. Elizabeth Thornton, a Baltimorean on the staff, was hostess.

Others attending were Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Johnson, Miss Rosemary Chaney, Charles Moody and James Hawkins.

On Friday, Mrs. Janet Gauthier, director of elementary school librarians, was hostess at a luncheon for Mrs. Carter, where she met Mrs. Irma McMillian, Mrs. Harriet Kennedy, Mrs. Charlotte Osborne, Mrs. Isabelle Spring, Mrs. Jane B. Payne. Other guest was Mrs. Thorton. This party was at Fortino's Restaurant.

Douglass High principal on National YWCA board

MRS. ABDELLA CAMPBELL

Mrs. Abdella J. Campbell (Edna), of Baltimore, has been elected to the National Board of the Young Women's Christian Association of the U.S.A. by the 25th Triennial National YWCA Convention.

Election announcements were made at the closing session of the Convention, held last month in the Albert Thomas Convention and Exhibit Center in Houston, Tex.

A member of the National Board from the Eastern Region since 1964, Mrs. Campbell is a member of the following committees: Membership in the National Association, Basic Standards and Public Affairs.

She was chairman of the Eastern section of the 1967-1970 National Nominating committee and was chairman of the Rules committee for the 1970 convention, and a member of the 1970 Convention committee.

Mrs. Campbell holds an A.B. from Kansas University and is principal of Douglass Senior High School.

She is an active member of the Baltimore Association, serving as YWCA representative on the Baltimore Health and Welfare Council.

Mrs. Campbell is a member of the Board of Visitors of Morgan State College and of the Board of Human Relations Task Force, and formerly was in the Governor's Advisory Committee on Human Rights. She also is a former national president of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority. Her husband is also a Baltimore school principal.

Other national officers named by the Convention include Mrs. Robert W. Clayton, Grand Rapids, Mich., reelected national president, and Mrs. Herbert P. Catlin, Troy, N.Y., vice president, headquarters based; Mrs. William H. Genne, Montclair, N.J., vice president at large.

The following vice presidents who also serve as chairmen of their respective regions were named: Mrs. Fred W. Adams, Detroit, Central Region; Mrs. Henry B. Leader, York, Pa., Eastern Region; Mrs. Ore Horton, Atlanta, Southern Region; Mrs. George L. Thoms, Los Angeles, Western Region; and for secretary, Mrs. Clarke B. Dowling, Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

A NEW DAY WITH CONAWAY

Insurance executive turns to politics. Frank M. Conaway, manager of the Center City Agency of the Prudential Insurance Company of America has announced his candidacy for the State Senate in the 4th Legislative District of Baltimore City. He is running as an independent candidate. Mr. Conaway, a native of Baltimore City, was born and reared in the 4th District.

Mr. Conaway was graduated from Morgan State College with an A.B. Degree in History and Political Science in 1960, and has achieved a solid pattern of success in business and civic life since that date. After graduation, he worked with the Department of Social Services as a Case Worker. He taught in the inner city of Baltimore Public School System. In March, 1964, he started a career as a Special Agent with the Prudential Insurance Co. His tenure there has been an impressive series of success. He was a National Leader in his first year then he was promoted to Division Manager. He was later promoted to Manager with the assignment to organize a new agency to serve the inner city. The Agency opened in September, 1969, employing 7 people, has done in excess of 6 million dollars of insurance in force, and now employs 34 people, and is on schedule for over 15 million. This led Mr. Conaway to believe that the problem that confronts people who live in the 4th District can be solved through a higher standard of employment. Since none of the announced candidates have directly been responsible for the employment of many people in the District, Mr. Conaway says that it is time for a "NEW DAY," when the District Leaders must take the initiative in elevating the economical level of their people. Mr. Conaway is for the placing of blacks in the higher salaried positions in industry and government. He is for an increase in salaries of teachers, firemen, policemen, government and municipal employees. He is also interested in raising the economic level of inner city residents. Mr. Conaway is a member of the Strawbridge United Methodist Church; he serves as lay leader and chairman of the Finance Committee and the Church Treasurer. He is a member of the N.A.A.C.P. Elks, Masons, Baltimore Life Underwriters and the National Association of Life Underwriters.

You'll never taste a colder beer!

Chill a beer past a certain temperature and the cold overpowers the taste. But because Ballantine takes an extra step—a step we call Cold-Brewing—you can drink 'The Crisp Refresher' that much colder than most other beers and still enjoy every bit of the flavor.

Cold-Brewing. Because Ballantine takes that extra step, you'll never taste a colder beer.

Sojourner honors to Mrs. McMillan

The Sojourner Truth Award from the Baltimore Business and Professional Women's Club, went to Mrs. Enolia Pettigen McMillan, long time civil rights worker and current president of the Baltimore Branch of the NAACP.

A graduate of Howard University with a master's degree from Columbia University, Mrs. McMillan retired from a career of teaching that spanned 40 years.

Always a pioneer, hers was the lone voice in 1934 that led the way to the fight for the equalization of teachers' salaries in Maryland.

Mrs. McMillan has been equally as active in the religious field. She has served as director of the Baptist Training Union, superintendent of the Sunday School of Calvary Baptist Church and chairman of the trustee board.

The professional award went to Mrs. Jane Garrett, hostess of the Woman's Journal, a TV show, and a specialist in the department of radio and television of the Baltimore Public School System.

To Mrs. Ruth J. Croxton went the business award.

Mrs. Croxton is owner of Ruth J's Boutique.

The awards were made at the Annual Founders' Day Observance held in the Student Union Building of Coppin State College.

Speaker was Mrs. Vessells John of New York City, news columnist and radio personality.

Mrs. John Decried the current spiritual pattern under which churches spend large sums for elaborate organs, have expensive cars for the minister and put huge funds into costly buildings. Such efforts, she told the group, should go to aiding the elderly and teaching the children the heritage of their people. This is the type of church pattern that is turning today's youth off, said Mrs. John.

She also suggested that black consumers spend their money in black communities. Blacks spend $35 Billion, a large amount of which goes into fine liquors soft drinks, fine food, cars and top grade hats and shoes for men:

Mrs. Shirley W. Smith presided at the program. The meditation was given by Mrs. Beryl C. Williams, and the awards were presented by Mrs. Edna DeCoursey Johnson, president of the Baltimore Club.

Music was by Mrs. Shirley T. Hill, soloist, and Mrs. Elizabeth Bowley, pianist.
