Black Africans die at 35, UN reports

AIRMAN MICHAEL C. JACKSON, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Jackson, 2524 E. Biddle St., has completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex. He is remaining at Lackland for training as a security policeman. Airman Jackson graduated in 1968 from Northern High School and attended Morgan State College.

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — For many of the world's people, life does not begin at 40. Because by 40 life has ended.

The people of Black Africa die at an average age of 35. In Asia, life expectancy in several developing countries runs from somewhat above 40 to around 50. A similar situation prevails in Latin America.

The long-living people are the inhabitants of Europe, North America, Australia and Japan. They live to be an average 70 years or older. In the United States the average life span for men is 67 years, for women 74.7.

* * *

Figures on life expectancy in various regions of the world are contained in the newest demographic yearbook published by the United Nations. They are based on findings gathered mostly during the 1960s, either from official census results or from sample surveys.

When compared with other U.N. data on living standards and economic progress, they convey one certain message: Poverty — lack of food, housing and health facilities — is still the number one shortener of human life.

According to the yearbook, the male population of Gabon in West Africa is the national group with the shortest life line — an average of 25 years.

Their opposite, at the top of longevity lists, are the women of Iceland, who live an average of 76.2 years, more than three times as long as the male Gabonese.

* * *

Other African countries listed with low life expectancy (ages for male and female population respectively), are Guinea 26 and 28, Chad 29 and 35; Upper Volta 32.1 and 31.1; Togo 31.5 and 33.3.

Kenya, with a 40-year average for both sexes is one of the highest in Africa except for the non-self-governed territories which register an average age of up to 50 years for their black populations and 70 for the whites.

City signs contract with 400 workers

Housing Commissioner Robert C. Embry Jr. recently signed a contract between Housing Authority of Baltimore City and Local 647 of American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFL-CIO).

Bargaining, which took from November to mid-May to reach agreement, provides for improvements in working conditions for 400 housing management and relocation employees.

Wages are determined on the basis of a survey of prevailing wages in the metropolitan area. Attending the signing were Ernest Crawfoot, AFSCME, council director; Herman T. Howard, union local treasurer; James K. Middleton, Housing Authority administration director; and Zalman J. Birnbaum union public relations director.

Astronaut greets 34 3rd graders

Mrs. Ethelind Sewell's third graders of School No. 85 recently visited the Maryland Academy of Science in connection with their science unit, "The Universe."

To their surprise, they were special guests of Dr. Michael Killiam, and astronaut in training at the Space Center in Houston, Texas.

Dr. Killiam took the pupils on an imaginary trip into the "Wonders of the Heavens" in the Academy's Planetarium. This was followed with a guided tour of the Academy and climaxed in the Academy's Souvenir and Gift Shop.

Because of Astronaut Killiam, this will be an unforgettable experience for 34 third graders.

Following are the pupils who participated in this activity.

James Bridges, William Brown, Michael Burrus, Reginald Dean, Eddie Fortune, Robbie J. Goode, Donald Gray, Keith Gray, Gregory Harris Kevin Johnson, Lionel Jones, Leslie Peele, Lee Curtis Phillips, Jimmie Reed, Andre Rowlett, Anthony Taylor, Ernest Tomlin:

Cassandra Courser, Brenda Fains, Gwendolyn Fessster, Velinda Good, Kim Jones, Sandra Jones, Wanda Marable, Tanya Morris, Rita Rainy, Bernadine Roberts, Michelle Ross, Frances Staton, Robin Stokes, Sonia Thompson, Daphane Tunstall.

Mrs. Betty Shelton, senior teacher, planned the trip.

Harold Galperin and Mrs. Dorothy Brooks are the school administrators.

News in Brief

HEW May Stop Harvard Funds

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare during April gave Harvard University 15 days to open its personnel files to permit an investigation on charges of discriminatory practice against black men and women.

Unless Harvard grants permission for the investigation, which it has so far refused to do, the prestigious school may no longer be eligible for federal grants. In 1968-69 the school received $63.7 million, or 36 per cent of its income from the government.

New Definition Of Death

HARTFORD, Conn. — Connecticut has adopted a new definition of death in this age of human organ transplants. The Connecticut State Medical Society's new definition states that in patients whose cardio-respiratory system is being supported by artificial means, "death may be determined on the basis of complete and irreversible loss of function of the entire brain."

The old definition of death — when the heart and respiration cease — has become increasingly inadequate in dealing with the expiration of life in the age of rapidly advancing medical technology, the society said.

$5 Million Set For VA Buildings

WASHINGTON — Another $5 million has been earmarked by the Veterans Administration for various construction projects at a number of its 166 hospitals, Donald E. Johnson, administrator of Veterans Affairs, disclosed last week.

Last month, the Administrator announced similar projects totaling more than $16 million. One of the most important projects in the new schedule calls for a 24-bed spinal cord injury unit at the Houston, Texas, hospital, which will serve veterans in a multi-state area.

Construction Workers Divided

NEW YORK — Black construction workers want nothing to do with their white counter-parts who've been conducting daily loyalty marches and who beat-up a group of students recently.

Lowery, Sparrows Point; Laura Ann Kinling, Catonsville, "I hate to even dignify these men by calling them construction 'workers,' one said. I'm a construction worker and proud of it. These guys are cowards who feel threatened, so they hit people."

Fire Damages Virginia State

PETERSBURG, Va. — A fire late Wednesday night damaged Colston Hall on the Virginia State College campus, but college spokesmen discounted any connection between the blaze and student unrest. The fire in the school's science building caused extensive damage to the attic floor of the 39-year-old structure.

Crowds of students gathered at the fire scene and at times booed firemen from several fire companies who responded to the alarm. There were no reported incidents at the blaze, which occured in virgually the center of the institution.

"Write it straight. We didn't burn it," students yelled at newsmen covering the fire.

Nixon Re-assures Agnew

WASHINGTON — President Nixon has personally assured Vice President Spiro T. Agnew that he will be on the Republican ticket in 1972, Scripps-Howard newspapers said last week.

A Scripps-Howard reporter, Dan Thomasson, wrote that the President talked with Agnew last week on the heels of criticism within the administration of some of the vice president's outspoken rhetoric.

"You're my vice president, not theirs," Nixon was said to have told Agnew.
