Dealer kills bandit, dies in shoot-out

At approximately 9:45 Tuesday morning two men walked into the Westport Liquor Store owned by Bond J. Ellison, 50, of the 100 block Patricia Ave., Baltimore County, and attempted to hold him up.

Mr. Ellison was behind the counter talking with a liquor salesman, William C. Boarman, 35, when the pair appeared.

Mr. Boarman, the only other person in the store, stated that once the bandits were inside "one of them drew a revolver and placed it against my head."

At this time, Mr. Boarman said, the other bandit, later identified as Donald Moses, 24, drew a 45 caliber pistol.

At the same time the store owner reached under the counter and drew a 38 caliber revolver.

There was an exchange of gunfire between Mr. Moses and Mr. Ellison and both men, after firing, fell to the floor still clutching their weapons.

Mr. Moses was shot in the head, and Mr. Ellison was dead of a chest wound.

Police told the AFRO they believed the second bandit was also shot by Mr. Ellison as he fled from the store.

Mr. Boarman said he does not remember how many shots were fired, but he knows there were more than two.

After the shooting, Mr. Boarman ran next door to tell a neighbor, Sam Singer, to summon police. He then dashed across the street to get Dr. Paul Schonfeld, who came to the scene and pronounced Mr. Ellison dead.

Mr. Moses, the wounded suspect, was transported to South Baltimore General Hospital in critical condition. He died at 12:50 p.m.

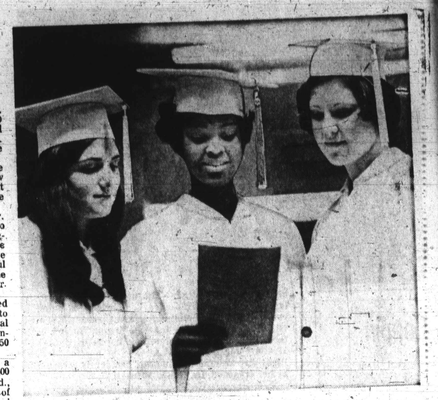
Mr. Singer, owner of a hardware store in the 2300 block of Annapolis Rd., next door to the scene of the fatal shooting, said "Mr. Ellison was a very mild-tempered fellow. All were his friends, white and black."

Joe Hlasy, owner of a crab house up the street from the liquor store, said "Mr. Ellison was always a happy-go-lucky guy.

"His whole life was in the store; he worked about 20 years to buy the place."

Homicide detectives contacted by the AFRO had little information on Mr. Moses, other than he was black, age 24, lives in the 700 block Belgian Ave.

As to the other suspect, police are holding George Sweetwater, 26, of the 2800 block Fenwick Ave., whom, they claim, went to Union Memorial Hospital suffering from a gunshot wound of the chest 45 minutes after the robbery took place.



TOPS AT EASTERN — Top ranking students of 608 graduated at Eastern High School on Wednesday evening was Jeanne Mallis, left, who won Zouck Scholarship. Center, Regina Freeman, Robert Wright scholarship. She was a ranking student. Right, Vivian Margaret Crouse, tenth ranking student who won Helen Taylor award.

Eastern High graduates 608; suspended coeds get diplomas

The 118th annual commencement of the all-girl at the Baltimore Civic Center last Wednesday showed no indication of the February turmoil which nearly closed the school.

Even though some of the students who received their diplomas were involved in the disturbances, there was no mention of the trouble during the entire evening.

The February disturbances resulted in an intense investigation of racism of the local school system and a decision by the police commissioner to limit police participation in high school disturbances.

Police arrested eight students.

Of those arrested at that time three received their diplomas during Wednesday's ceremonies. They were Misses Bonita Twyman, Cageras, Nathalia Patricia Gordon and Lillian Simpson.

Miss Anita Stroud, who figured prominently in the February affair, will receive her diploma at the end of summer school as she elected not to return to the school during the regular term.

Two others, Misses Honey Watkins and Phyllis Jefferson, will receive their Eastern diplomas on June 12 after they have completed special classes at the Calvert Adult Center.

When the curtains were drawn on the stage and 608 students robed in white gowns appeared, no remnants of those hostile days in February were seen. Even Miss Stroud applauded proudly among the nearly 8,000 persons in the audience.

* * *

Dr. Thomas D. Sheldon, superintendent of Baltimore Public Schools, commented on the loveliness of the graduates, stating that their diplomas were keys to a productive life.

Mayor Thomas J. D'Alesandro III, while conferring the diplomas, offered his best wishes to the graduates.

The mayor was assisted by Mrs. Jean B. Owens, assistant principal of Eastern High, and Henry A. Ercole Jr., a special assistant at Eastern High.

After one of the four selections by the chorus (under the direction of Glenn Bunch) Dr. Dean Boal, dean of the Peabody Conservatory in Baltimore, presented the 15 Peabody medals to the outstanding students, gradewise, in the graduation class.

The 15 awardees were as follows: Misses Jeanne Mallis, Janet Zylka, Anna Der, Barbara Cross, Debra Hettche, and Lavonne Loudenslager.

Also Misses Joyce Bender, Marilyn Short, Linda Shipley, Vivian Margaret Crouse, Grace Mackowiak, Rachel McIntyre, Nancy Slagle, Phyllis Auberg and Nina Hutton.

Principal of Eastern High, Mrs. Olga V. Bawden, announced the awards and scholarships and stated that 48 students had been awarded scholarships to study at various colleges around the nation.

She also said that 182 students have been accepted by the colleges and that the work-study program at Eastern High, which was initiated in February, was successful.

Only two of the 73 students enrolled in the work-study program withdrew.

Hatcher guest speaker at Coppin State College

Last night (Thursday) Dr. Parlett L. Moore president of Coppin State College for 13 years presided over his last commencement.

After thanking members of the staff for their services and asking their support for his successor, Mr. Moore introduced guest speaker the Honorable Richard Gordon Hatcher, mayor of Gary, Indiana.

Mayor Hatcher drew laughter and applause from the audience when he said, "Maryland is a state whose place in history was assured in 1968 when it contributed to the world a man named Agnew."

"You have witnessed," he continued, "the enormity of the Sixties, you have participated in a decade which took us to Selma, to Vietnam and to Indo-China."

He went on to say, "You have seen men such as Robert Kennedy, Martin King and John Kennedy have their lives snuffed out.

"When the Vice President of the United States calls for the resignation of the President of a great university because he speaks his mind publicly, America is in trouble."

In his half hour long address, Mayor Hatcher asked the audience to read the Bill of Rights, mentioning the freedom of speech

Firesticks balk move on Alcatraz

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A government official says that the Indians on Alcatraz Island are armed with 35 guns, but adds that "it is idiotic to fight for an island that's inactive."

"I don't think it makes sense to risk the lives of the men who take the Indians off the island, or of the Indians," Thomas Hannon said. He is the regional director of the General Services Administration.

Hannon said he "now knows that the Indians have 35 guns on the island, a variety of shotguns and handguns."

Spokesmen for the Indians at the site of the former federal prison have frequently denied in the past that they are armed.

The Indians have been on Alcatraz since Nov. 20, asserting it is their land reclaimed from the government under an 1868 treaty regarding abandoned federal property. They want the converted into a national island turned into an Indian cultural center while the government says it will be coverted into a national park.

Illegal search freesman, 26

James "Pete" Jackson, 26, unit block S. Fulton Ave., received a break in Criminal Court Tuesday.

When he appeared before Judge J. Gilbert Prendergast, he was found not guilty of a narcotics violation charge.

The jurist ruled that on Feb. 26 at 10:45 p.m. when Jackson was arrested at the S. Fulton Ave. address for having seven bags of "grass" (marijuana) in his possession, the search of his person and the seizure of the dope was illegally

Judge Prendergast agreed with defense attorney James McAllister who said the bulge the "grass" made in Jackson's pocket "didn't feel like a gun, didn't look like a gun and wasn't the size of a gun."

The jurist said, "By no stretch of the imagination could the seven small bags appear to be a gun. This was not a lawful search."

Naval Academy commencement hears star Ensign Watson's engagement

BY ELIZABETH M. OLIVER

The six black U.S. Naval Academy graduates who were commissioned ensigns at the commencement exercises in Annapolis Wednesday were lauded as "among the finest ever to finish" the elite military school.

They are Ensigns Anthony John Watson, Chicago, Ill.; Everett Lewis Greene, Cincinnatti, Ohio, Leo Virginius Williams III, Norfolk, Va.; Michael Charles Roberts, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Joseph Bertram Freeman, Philadelphia, Pa.

All were feted along with the total 80 graduates throughout June Week and at a reception given by Naval Academy Superintendent Rear Admiral James Calvert, USN.

Joining them at the formal and elite affairs were their parents and relatives.

Highlighting the social occasions just prior to graduation was the announcement of the engagement of Ensign Watson to Miss Janeese Hunt, his hometown sweetheart who was present.

* * *

The wedding will take place in Chicago on Oct. 10, according to Lt. Commander Jim Pinklestein who gave the exclusive story about the celebrated new Ensign to the AFRO on Thursday.

Ensign Watson was accorded unusual attention throughout June Week because the superintendent, his classmates and most of the 50,000 persons in attendance on the campus vow that he will one day become the first black man ever to rank as superintendent of a U.S. military academy.

A natural born leader of men, regardless of race, color or creed Ensign Watson became president of the freshman class. When re-elected his second year he was spotted as superintendent-to-be perhaps 20 years from now by Rear Adm. Draper L. Kaufman.

Rear Admiral Kaufman gave the then second year midshipman his great-grandfather's sword "to be turned over to the first member of any class between 1968 and 1972 who becomes superintendent of the Naval Academy."

* * *

Honor after honor followed up until this week when Ensign Watson as the First Regiment Commander, was cited as one of the three highest ranking midshipmen officers.

He also received a covered letter of Commendation from Superintendent Calvert.

Now that he has been commissioned he will go on for one year's study in his chosen field at Nuclear Power Submarine School in Bainbridge, Md.

The governor of Illinois gave jet plane tickets for Tony's parents, grandfather and five sisters and brothers to attend June Week events and graduation.

* * *

Citizens of all races in Chicago contributed expense money to the family of the truck driver father who has been out of work during a truck strike.

The entire Naval Academy opened its arms to the loved June, 1970 graduate.

Also enjoying cordial welcome on all occasions were the families of the other six graduates.

Following commencement Ensign Greene goes to Underwater Demolition School; Ensign Roberts to Naval Aviation School; Ensign Freeman to Naval Aviation School and Ensign Henry to study further in oceanography.

KKK Tip Hoax In Welcome Threat

Earl Grant killed in auto crash

LORDSBURG, N.M. — A last-minute decision to pass up a flight on which he was booked, to drive from Los Angeles to El Paso, Texas, may have cost Earl Grant his life.

The popular 39-year-old organist and composer died Wednesday in an auto crash in the New Mexico desert.

A companion also was killed in the single car accident.

* * *

Grant rose from a Ft. Bliss, Tex., soldier to international stardom, appearing on such television programs as the Johnny Carson Tonight Show and the Ed Sullivan Show.

State Police said Grant's Rolls Royce swerved off a curve on interstate 10 and overturned 14 miles west of Lordsburg near the Arizona border. Grant was pinned inside the wreckage.

Officers said his companion, Roosevelt Woods, 17, Los Angeles, was thrown from the car as it rolled over one and half times. Both died of chest and head injuries.

A native of El Paso, Grant had resided in recent years in Los Angeles.

Grant was returning to the border city for a performance at La Fiesta nightclub in Juarez, Mexico

FAMED ACTOR SUCCUMBS — Veteran character actor Frank Silvera died early Thursday at his home in Pasadena, Calif. The 56-year-old regular on the Western series, "High Chaparral," had been under a physician's care for several months, reportedly suffering from high blood pressure.

Moylan case shows Politics, race effect Baltimore courts

By ROBERT R. ARCHER

As of this writing, speculation is rife that the present State's Attorney, Charles E. Moylan Jr., will not seek reelection to his office.

The educated prediction from here is that Mr. Moylan will be appointed to one of the seats on the newly restructured Court of Special Appeals.

Gov. Marvin Mandel is seen acting at the behest of considerable persuasion by those who would like to see Howard Cardin, an assistant State's attorney and chief of the trial section of that office, receive the interim appointment from the Supreme Bench to the post of State's attorney for Baltimore City.

Of course this step cannot be accomplished without Mr. Moylan's being out of the way.

* * *

The dual significance of this arrangement is it proves there is politics in the selection of judges and that at a time when relations between the black citizenry and the forces of law and order are more strained than ever, a convenient agreement is reached which will assure another hand-picked white prosecutor to take over the position of the State's attorney.

* * *

This step is taken in the face of existing tokenism in Court House jobs where there is one black clerk in the Office of the Clerk of the Superior Court, three clerks in the Office of the Clerk of the Criminal Court of Baltimore City, one in Baltimore City Court, and none in the Circuit Court, the Circuit Court No. 2, or, Court of Common Pleas.

We must not forget that 70 percent of the people tried for criminal offenses before the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City are black.

* * *

The tenor of the times demands a black appointment to the position of the State's attorney.

A black State's attorney could make a meaningful effort to show the black community that the prosecutor's office can be an instrument of social justice instead of the tool of repression and "Law and Order" as it is now often regarded.

Furthermore, the black community would have an effective voice on the Police Review Board, as the police have consistently opposed a Civilian Review Board.

At the present time, community relations director David Glenn is the only one who has spoken out critically about Police Review Board activities, and he was at that time quickly attacked by City Solicitor George L. Russell Jr.

* * *

The present lineup of probable contenders for the office of State's attorney include Francis Valle, a political figure who could be expected to continue to perpetuate business as usual;

William Brieker, a former prosecutor from the FBI still investigating threat against her.

Police, FBI inquiries continue

After two days of intensive investigation in to the bomb threat made against Senator Verda F. Welcome, Baltimore police and Federal Bureau of Investigation authorities had made some progress, but not nearly enough to make an arrest.

Victor Turyn, special agent in charge of the Baltimore office, told the AFRO Thursday that police had no suspect.

The FBI had been called in to assist the local police investigation because of the possibility that bombs were involved in the episode.

* * *

Captain Joseph Carroll of the Central Investigation Division, Baltimore police, reported that their investigation had shown that the reference made to the Ku Klux Klan in the original tip was a hoax.

The person who called in the tip gave a name and address and said he had heard another person, whom he identified as a member of the Ku Klux Klan, say, "Tonight we are going to do it."

When police went to talk to the person, supposedly, who had left his own name and address, that person was one who had had a record as a lunatic, but had not been the person who called.

Police said there had been several instances of this person being victimized by others who knew of his former klan record and of previous arrests for making bomb threats.

* * *

After talking to the individual, police were satisfied that he had nothing to do with the Welcome case.

Sergeant Robert Clark assisted Captain Carroll in the investigation.

But just as they were certain this man could be ruled out, they were uncertain as to whom or what motivated the call to the

MS victim awarded Douglass diploma

One of the happiest of the Douglass High School seniors to receive a diploma from Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro III last Friday was Miss Marlene Alexander.

The courageous, 16-year-old graduate has been a patient at the Good Samaritan Hospital since November, 1969, a victim of multiple sclerosis.

She was transported to the Civic Center for commencement and taken on stage in a stretcher by the American Ambulance Co. as a graduation gift.

Hospital authorities told the AFRO on the eve of graduation that Marlene, "a very bright girl" has been able to keep up with class work through the aid of tutors from the Board of Education.

She was a student at Douglass when the disabling disease struck last fall and she had to be absent from September on. After she arrived at the hospital, the tutors arrived every week to give her lessons.

City Council grabs for power over schools

By AL RUTLEDGE

"It's a vehicle which some councilmen will use to hold a hammer over the heads of the School Board. I'm convinced that it's a power play without regard for the true needs of the people".

That's how 4th District City Councilman Robert Marshall describes the recent passage by the City Council of Resolution 390 which would make it necessary for the Department of Education to come to the Council for approval of any transfer of funds within the department's existing budget. Currently, the Department is asking to transfer 3½ million dollars to make up its deficit.

Councilman Emerson R. Julian (4th) sees it as a "very dangerous bill. I have deep misgivings about the Council's controlling the purse strings of the Department of Education.

* * *

"I'm not all together happy about the way the Department is being run but I don't think the way to better it is to control it."

During Council debate on the Resolution this week Dr. Julian called the bill "a

Sees need for change on truants

Presiding juvenile Court Judge Robert I. H. Hammerman has declared he will no longer "commit any child to a training school whose offense is solely truancy."

In a statement released earlier this week Judge Hammerman said he is "thoroughly convinced that the practice of sending truants to training schools is an archaic and discredited one."

Hundreds of youthful offenders convicted of truancy are now in the State's training schools and Judge Hammerman points out that this system "is counterproductive and achieves nothing for the c... school or the community."

It actually "produces serious dilatory effects."

The jurist ... that a child committed to a place ... boys of criminal tendencies

EXCITEMENT AT FRIENDSHIP

Happy Junior High Students Off On First Airplane Trip

By BETTYE MOSS

There was much excitement at Friendship Airport on Thursday morning.

The area around Northeast Airlines ticket office was crowded with 144 students and 16 chaperones and twice that number of parents and well-wishers.

The children were about to embark for a four-day stay in Florida, a trip they earned and planned for in connection with their science studies at Lemmel Junior High School.

Mrs. Anne O. Emory, chairman of the science department, is advisor to the science club which annually sponsors trips. This was the first plane ride. Previous trips have been to Chicago, N.Y. and Niagara Falls.

Welcome Aboard, the travel agency, coordinated the trip.

* * *

For weeks prior to this week, the youngsters had earned money by washing cars, selling cakes and other foods at school events.

Along with contributions from faculty and friends (including the school's cafeteria staff which supported them 100 per cent), they raised the money to make the trip.

Termed a "field experience" the trip takes them to Miami, Beach, West Palm Beach and Ft. Lauderdale.

The students will visit places of "significant interest" to those studying life science, oceanography, earth science and physical science. There will also be a visit to the Nova Schools.

* * *

After landing in Miami, the children and their chaperones checked into the luxurious Seville Hotel in Miami Beach located on the ocean between 29th and 30th Sts.

Shortly afterwards, they visited the Sequarium and science museum.

There was a shopping tour and dinner in the hotel.

Today (Friday) they toured the Lion Country. This afternoon, there is swimming. Later on there is dinner in the hotel and recreation time in the special game room provided by the hotel.

On Saturday, the group makes the Everglades tour, there is a dinner dance at 8.

After breakfast and swimming on Sunday morning, the group boards for return to Baltimore, arriving at 4 p.m.

In addition to Mrs. Emery, other adult chaperones, teachers and parents traveling with the children are Mrs. Elizabeth Edmonds, Mrs. Sharon Wooten, Joseph Holt, Robert Sturtevant, James Barnes, Gregory Emery, William Johnson.

Also Mrs. Adrienne Lewis, Mrs. Hortense Price, Robert Diggs, Mrs. Pauline Milburn, Leonidas Hyman, Mrs. Barbara Weaver, Mrs. Joan Johnson; Aubrey Trigg, Mrs. Phyllis Anderson, Mrs. Geraldine Coleman and Mrs. Martha Hyman.

Principal Cyrus W. Marshall who was among those bidding the children bon voyage on Thursday morning, termed the adventure, "a most marvelous thing." He noted it was the club's first plane trip.

Another parent, William (Billy) Carroll, recalled his own junior high school days
