Orioles hold 'Ball Day' Sunday with A's here

Sunday will be "Ball Day" at Memorial Stadium. The Orioles will play the Oakland A's in a single game at two o' clock that afternoon and the first 20,000 youngsters, 14 and under accompanied by paying adults, to enter the ballpark will receive free baseballs compliments of the Orioles.

Dick Hall, the winningest relief pitcher in the American League with a 5-2 record, was profiled in the May issue of a national accounting magazine. Hall took the Maryland State C. P. A. examination last fall three weeks after the World Series and the Swarthmore graduate placed second in the state among 400 applicants. He works for a Baltimore accounting firm in the off-season.

The Orioles' top farm club, the Rochester Red Wings in the AAA International League, have gotten off to an excellent start. Seven players — Don Baylor, George Farson, Mike Ferraro, Bobby Grich, Roger Freed, Elijah Johnson and Tommy Shinsky — are hitting above .300.

Recent (May 23) Banner Day festivities drew 1,152 signs and posters. Some of the slogans featured were "There's Something Catchey About Etchey" (Andy Etchebarren) and "I Walk on Air Because of Paul Blair."

"Ever since Peter Piper picked his first peck of "peppered" pickles, International Pickle Week has been celebrated all over the world . . . In observance of this gala event we have prepared a plump pickle picnic basket containing kosher pickles, hot picles, midget picles, sour pickles, bread and butter pickles" is a mouthful for anybody, even someone as experienced as Orioles public address system announcer Bill Bolling.

The Orioles spring "surprise packages" on fans at Memorial Stadium and the announcement accompanying the celebration of International Pickle Week did not put Bolling, a veteran of Baltimore radio, in a pickle. He didn't miss a word.

Other surprise packages have included such items as: five cans of spinach ("the kind Popeye eats") plus a pint of Olive Oil; a pair of bright red sox and some baked beans when the Birds played Boston; ten pizzas and a trip to Italy (. . . . . "Little Italy," that is, in South Baltimore) and an autographed picture of the Houston Astrodome (?)

Buddy Young unavailable for reply to Sample rap

Efforts to communicate with Buddy Young in connection with charges by Johnny Sample, have been fruitless up to AFRO Capital Edition presstime.

Young, former All-Pro halfback of the Baltimore Colts and now a member of the National Football League staff, was sought Tuesday night and all day Wednesday, following the charge in a book by Sample that he took advantage of colored college prospects in his post as recruiter for NFL teams.

* * *

The AFRO attempts were based on a desire to publish young's reply to the charges along with publication of the book's content.

Failure to reach Buddy may be due to one of two things, or both. It may be that he was asked not to charges by Commissioner Pete Rozelle or his lawyers, and it may be that he is between stops of an out-of-town assignment for the NFL.

* * *

Sample's book, "Confessions of a Dirty Ballplayer," will be released for public consumption on Sept. 30.

In addition to the charges against Young, the former Maryland State College star who also is the only player to perform on championship teams in both the NFL and American Football League, questioned the abilities of several players, and chastised one owner and a coach.

The book reflects Sample's opinion that both quarterback Sonny Jurgensen and linebacker Sam Huff of the Washington Redskins, were grossly overrated. It asserts that redskins owner G. Bennett Williams and former coach Otto Graham are about as football executives . . SAM LACY.

Morgan track team enters 9 in NCAA

Coach Eddie Hurt and a 9-man contingent of Morgan State College hopefuls enplaned Wednesday morning at Friendship Airport for St. Paul, Minn., where they will compete today (Friday) and tomorrow in the 6th annual NCAA college division track and field championships.

* * *

The Bear squad will be defending two titles, one individual and one relay crown, in the meet at Macalester College.

John Jones won the 1969 intermediate hurdles race in 52.3 seconds, and is back to compete in that event. Friday, Jones placed fifth in the recent IC4-A championships.

The mile foursome of Ben Lewis, Jones, Ed Madden and Greg Daughtery took first in last year's meet at Ashland (Ohio) College, and hopes to duplicate its 3:12 clocking of that win. In the present tandem, Laverne Rogers is a replacement for Madden.

* * *

Also on hand to aid the Bear cause are sprinters Ray Pollard and Greg Ogle, high jumper Eric Howard and distance hopeful Wayne Vaughn.

Handyman George Walton made the trip as alternate on the 440 and mile relay teams.

Catholic nod to Scroggins

Barry Scroggins, who was one of the first cagers to integrate a championship team at Mt. St. Joe, has been named Catholic athlete of the year.

The Lanky Gael junior was so honored last week by the Salve Regina Post of the Catholic War Veterans.

Scroggins won a starting berth on the Mt. St. Joe five in his freshman year, and for two seasons starred at forward. Last year, he was moved to the backcourt and continued to perform in brilliant fashion.

* * *

He averaged 18 points and 14 rebounds per game while leading the Gaels to titles the last two seasons.

Additionally, Scroggins was the leading receiver on the Mountie football team the past two seasons, winning all-MSA honors in football to go along with his selection to the all-conference and all Catholic basketball teams.
