Jacob Beam sold his first barrel of Bourbon back in 1795, and began a tradition of fine Bourbon-making that's lasted for six generations. That's why we call it a 175-year-old family art.

DOCKED 14 DAYS

Policeman admits false reporting

An Eastern District police officer who was accused of brutalizing a Johns Hopkins Hospital patient by spraying mace on him, was disciplined by the Police Department earlier this week.

Officer Thomas J. Richburg, 24, was charged with unwarranted police action and filing two false reports by the Internal Investigation Division of the Police Department. An order take 15 days from his leave or absence time was approved by the Commissioner.

According to police information last March 10, Officer Richburg and Patrolmand Frank H. McKenzie, escorted John F. Dunn, 23 to the hospital to be treated for a cut wrist.

* * *

The officers told investigators that Mr. Dunn "was in a state of intoxication" and that he had "threatened to injure them.

A registrar in the hospital's emergency room filed the original complaint stating that the officers were in the room with the patient and they were observed "hurriedly leaving the room."

When the registrar entered the room where Mr. Dunn was, "the smell of mace was in the air."

In filing the first report on the incident Officer Richburg denied spraying the mace. In a second report filed by the officer he denied having used mace on Mr. Dunn.

It was only after the investigation began that he admitted that he sprayed the patient and had filed two false reports.

Economy meals for good eating

Luring the family to the dinner table at this time of year may be a bit of a challenge to the economy-minded homemaker, but with recipies galor for low-cost dishes that are tempting, too, the prospect become infinitely brighter.

One of the good foods that always comes in handy for a multitude of sues is nonfat dry milk; suggests the U.S Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service.

This nutritious, low-claorie milk product contains all the important nutrients of milk except for viatmines A and D — which can be readily provided by other sources.

You can include nonfat dry milk in bakde dgoods and frostings, meat loaves and casserole dishes, mashed potatoes, souffles, soups and soucee, omlets, fruit juice and milk drinks, or serve it as is reconstituted with water.

* * *

You can add instant nonfat dry milk powder to dry ingredients in a recipe. Sift with dry indredients for cakes and greads.

Stir into flour for gravy or sauce and mix fifth cornstarch and sugar for puddings.

Non fat dry milk whips well, too. Just beat equal amounts of the pwoeder and ice water into stiff peaks. Or, sprinkle the powder over partially set gelatin and whip together into stiff peaks.

Use for fruit toppings, frozen and chiffon desserts and salads with fluffy fruit dressings.

Store nonfat dry milk properly to have it taste its best: keep in cool, dry place. Refrigerate after mixing with water. Don't freeze.

Maryland to get $31,900 for jobs

The State of Maryland is to receive a $31,900 grant from the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity to support a 12-month statewide employment program for underprivileged youth according to an announcement made Wednesday by Congressman J. Glenn Beall, Jr. (R-6th-Md.).

Representative Beall reported that the Federal grant will enable Maryland's Office of Economic Opportunity to work in conjunction with various community action agencies to arrange for the employment of at least 150 low income young people.

According to the Sixth District Congressman, the State CEO will assist the Maryland Department of Personnel in hiring youths under the Public Service Career Program.

In addition, the agency will help initiate a program within the Department of Forests and Parks designed to employ underprivileged young people in the maintenance and improvement of State outdoor recreational facilities.

The State financial share of the youth employment program, which is eligible for funding on a joint Federal/State basis, is $16,343.

Four hours of college credit will be given to high school students who successfully complete the Summer Workshop in Creative Drama being offered at the University of Baltimore July 1 to August 21.

Through the support of the University Administration and the Maryland Council of the Arts, scholarships to the program will be awarded to 40 inner-city students who have shown an interest in dramatics, art, creative writing, dance or music.
