Piano course for beginners

A seven-week course employing electroplanos and tapes to teach beginners to play the piano will be offered June 22-August 7 at the Peabody Conservatory of Music under the supervision of Ellen TeSelle Boal.

The course, Group Piano Instruction, is the result of a two and a half year pilot study sponsored at Peabody by the Baldwin Piano Company.

It will employ the latest techniques to teach improvisation, ear-training, music writing, and basic piano skills.

• • •

In the final week students will demonstrate what they have learned before teachers attending a related workshop.

Enrollment is limited, and to qualify students must possess no previous piano training and be entering grades three or four in the fall.

One-hour classes will be given on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday starting at 1:30 p.m. To register, call 837-0600, Ext. 26.

Post Office has 7,000 summer jobs

Approximately 7,000 disadvantaged youths are expected to be employed by the Post Office Department during the coming summer months, Postmaster General Winton M. Blount said recently.

Hiring of the youths will be in accordance with the postal service's 1970 Summer Employment Program scheduled to run from June 13 through September 18.

• • •

Being implemented for the third consecutive summer, the program provides a meaningful work experience for economically or educationally deprived youths, aged 16 to 21.

Recruitment of youngsters for the available positions will be accomplished primarily at the local post office level. Selection priority will be given to youths who are members of families on public welfare or with income below the poverty level.

• • •

However, students in dire need of summer employment, in order to return to school in the fall, are also eligible.

The summer aids will perform a variety of unskilled duties assisting clerks, carriers, mail handlers and other postal employees. They will be divided into five-man work groups. Each team will be assigned a counselor for the duration of the three-month program.
