Light House keeping

By LULA McKAY

Going abroad this summer? Post Offices will accept U.S. passport applications at eleven cities under a test program scheduled to begin July 1, Postmaster General Winton M. Blount has announced.

To provide more convenient service to Americans travelling abroad, postal window clerks in the test cities will process passport applications and forward them to the Department of State. Passports will be mailed directly to the applicant.

"Handling passport applications is an example," Mr. Blount said, "of the additional public services post offices can provide the American people."

If the six month test is successful, General Blount said, the passport application service will be expanded to most of the larger post offices in 1971.

Beginning July 1, applications will be accepted at Detroit, Michigan, Houston and Midland, Texas. In addition, they will be accepted at eight post offices in Connecticut to test the demand for the service on a statewide basis. The Connecticut cities are: Bridgeport, Greenwich, Hartford, New Haven, New London, Stamford, Waterbury and Willimantic.

Cleanliness and good grooming are featured in a color filmstrip, "Charm by Choice," produced by the National Urban League and available for loan from the State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene.

An obviously healthy and charming cast of black teenagers illustrates the basic rules of personal hygiene which are essential to good health and an attractive appearance.

Daily bathing, regular sleep, and a well-balanced diet are stressed; the narration emphasizes that the body must be given the care which it needs not just during the years of growth but throughout life.

"Head-to-toe" bathing is demonstrated by animated cartoon figures which also are used to explain fundamentals of skin and hair care and to illustrate some simple exercises which can be fitted into the teenagers daily schedule.

Youngsters who may not be easily attracted to routine exercise sometimes find it more appealing if accompanied by music, the narrator suggests.

Good posture is highlighted, and photographs contrast the correct and incorrect ways to sit, stand, and walk.

Recommended especially for teenage girls from junior high through college level, the filmstrip and record are appropriate for classroom use, church and community groups, and summer camps and organizations interested in teenage health education.

Household Hints

After cleaning window shades, let the shade dry thoroughly, then roll it up to the top of the window and leave it rolled up for 10-to-12 hours. This simple "roll up" trick leaves the shade pristine fresh and as perfectly flat and ironed looking as a brand new one.

They may be borrowed without charge in Maryland from the Film Services, Maryland State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, 301 West Preston Street, Baltimore. Phone: 383-3010, extension 8816.

Time should be allowed to preview and to arrange for a discussion leader.

Bigger and wider hats create fresh environment

By CAROLYN A. BOWERS

NEW YORK — For the woman who lets fashion go to her head, hats are bigger and wider than ever.

According to the Millinery Institute of America, the 1970 hats will rise up at the crown to balance the longer skirt lengths and spread wide at the brim to emphasized tre stretched-out look of the body beneath them.

The institute's environment 70 collection made its point that "hats are made not to just go with clothes but to aid them in creating a totally fresh environment."

"This fall marks a tremendous change in the fashion environment," the institute said. "Elegance is epitomized in the grace of the loungette, and hats take their place as a major contributor to the new elegance."

* * *

So saying, the collection included simple and unclutered straight Spanish sailor and Gaucho hats, sweeping cavalier brims, turbans and crocheted and knitted caps. The designers included Mr. John, Adolfo, Chesterfield and Madcaps.

The collection, which was presented as part of a skit between a publisher and fashion editor, showed hats from business women, school girls, young mothers, bridge-club ladies and a special group of furs.

The office girls walked down the runway in cowboy styled ranchero hats, wool knit turbans and high and wide brimmed felts, suedes and leathers. One even wore a medieval pink hood.

"Anything that goes on the head is a hat," the commentator remarked.

Satin turbans for evening, crocheted caps and floppy knit and leather hats with high crowns were shown for school girls.

These hats were described by a mod teen-ager dressed in a navy leather pantsuit who serenaded the audience with "hair was once my lover, but now I keep it under cover."

The fur collection included dubbed bubbles, berets, bonnets and brims in mink, fox, lynx, sable and chinchilla.

When storing winter boots brush loose dirt and sand from the inside first. Then wash off the outside with a sudsy sponge, rinse, and dry thoroughly. Clip pairs together with a spring clothespin, and store.

Fayson still among best in nation

A second inmate in Maryland's corrections system has captured a top award in a nationwide prison art contest sponsored in Chicago by the Guides for Better Living Programs.

Recently the Maryland Department of Correctional Services announced that Roscoe W. Hall, 30, a penitentiary inmate, had taken first place in the show for a sketch of Baltimore's Druid Hill Park.

Later it was announced by Harry H. Woodward Jr., director of the Chicago show, that John Fayson Jr., 30, an inmate at the House of Correction, had captured second place in the nationwide contest.

* * *

The entires by Hall and Fayson were the first award-winning art pieces for any offender in the Maryland Corrections system since the Correctional Officers Association of Maryland began submitting inmate art for national competition in 1964.

"The excellence of work produced by these two men reflects on a national level that the offender can be motivated to achieve," said Joseph G. Cannon, the State's commissioner of correction.

The Chicago art show drew 349 entires from prisons in 15 states, according to Mr. Woodward, who is director of the Correctional Programs Achievement Motivation Systems Stone-Brandel Center in Chicago.

Ethel Wears 'Spiro' Watch

SEATTLE — Ethel Kennedy wears a Spiro Agnew watch. Mrs. Kennedy, the widow of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, showed up Friday at the opening of the Second Annual Washington State Special Olympics Sports Competition for Retarded Children with a real, genuine kiddie-type watch.

But instead of the standard caricature of Mickey Mouse, there was the Vice President. Asked how long she had been wearing it, she said, "Too long."

Asked if she were an Agnew fan, she said, "Um. That's a tough one. Just say I'm a Mickey Mouse fan."

The Civil War began April 12, 1861.
