MUSICAL MOMENTS

Pat Murphy elected to NW Symphony board

Among the new members elected to the Board of Directors of the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra is Howard Murphy.

The genial Mr. Murphy, known to intimates as "Pat", met with the newly elected board at its annual luncheon meeting held this week in the Center Club.

Long a consistent patron of music, he has combined this interest with many civic activities and his career as business manager of the AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers.

Howard Murphy is one of the founding members of the Northeast Baltimore Symphony Society, which fondly considers him its "godfather".

The initial meeting of the Society was held in his garden, called three years ago by Charles Winter, director of Baltimore Symphony development programs.

In addition to his services as treasurer of the Society, Mr. Murphy, always the genial host, opened his Morgan Park home to a number of post-concert gatherings in honor of the great soloists as the Society's Morgan College series.

The Symphony Board of Directors, headed by Joseph Myerhoff, is to be congratulated on enlisting the interest of Howard Murphy, whose participation will contribute significantly to the development of the Baltimore Symphony and to the interest of all our citizens.

The Baltimore Music Teachers Association held its annual closing meeting and dinner at Woodholme.

Election of officers was held and the retiring president, Mrs. Charlotte Nachman, was presented a crystal lamp in recognition of her services for two terms.

Jack Thames, now heading the organizations, introduced the speaker, Dr. Virginia Carty, former dean of Peabody for 60 years.

She spoke wittily from her vast experience with teachers and students, stressing the importance of the private teacher "as a most important cog in the educational wheel."

Dr. Carty also emphasized the value of classifying the music student the special talent as "hot house"; the average, "garden variety" and those with little talent, but a lively interest, who will be the future audiences that will understand what they hear.

Mrs. Florence Carter was elected into active membership in BMTA, following a report of approval from the student examining committee, of which Julio Esteban is chairman.

She is a graduate of Morgan State College, a piano class teacher in the music department of the Baltimore public schools and directs a progressive private studio in piano.

ERNEST CLARK FAMILY HEARD IN CONCERT

Music bridging the challenge of the generation gap was evidenced in two unusual events this season.

The Rev. and Mrs. Ernest P. Clark and their three children were presented in an evening of sacred, classic and inspirational music at Metropolitan United Methodist Church.

The former and present Youth Choirs of Waters A.M.E. Church joined in the Unique Chorale, presenting "The Past and Present in Song" Sunday afternoon concert at the Masonic Temple, Eutaw Place and Lanvale St.

The senior Clarks devoted the opening half of their concert to notable classics by baroque, romantic and modern composers.

The Rev. Mr. Clark was heard in the famous recitative and aria for Bass—"Behold I Tell You A Mystery" and "The Trumpet Shall Sound" from Part III of the Oratario "Messiah."

A graduate of the school of music, Boston University, Mrs. Clark, performed Rachmaninoff "Prelude in G Minor," Debussy's "Deux Arabesques" and "Rondo Capriccioso" by Mendelssohn.

* * *

In addition to her pianistic skill Mrs. Clark also rendered works for the organ—the Bach "Toccata in D Minor," a traditional "Pastorale" (arr. by Clokey) and a well known hymn "Sun of My Soul" for pedal keyboard.

Following the intermission Donna and Ernest Clark Jr., performed a piano duet and Donna and Lorraine a vocal duet. Daughter, Loraine, who is also an accomplished pianist, was heard in Bach Prelude for the organ.

Following a group of spirituals by the Rev. Clark the family joined in "Climb Every Mountain." The choral group included, Lantha, soprano; Donna, alto; Mrs. Clark, second alto and accompanist; Ernest Jr. tenor and Ernest Clark, Sr. bass-baritone.

Several hundred patrons warmly applauded the talented family, who was presented by the Lydia Circle of the Woman Society of Christian Service, Mrs. Dorales Ringgold and Miss Ernestine Crump, chairmen.

This family that sings together stays together in Waters A.M.E. Church, an historic monument in East Baltimore. They merged their musical resources in the Unique Chorale that presented "The Past and Present in Song."

Personnel of the 32-voice ensemble included members of the past Youth choir and their children, now choristers in the present Youth choir.

In their choir robes the chorale, conducted by Mrs. Bertha Rosedom Harkins, devoled the first portion of the concert to religious works by J. S. Bach, Christiansen, Franck and Ringwald.

Programmed were: "The Battle Hymn of the Republic, "Beautiful Saviour," "Jesus Joy of Man's Desiring" and the 150th Psalm.

Two spirituals heard were the Dett Anthem "Listen to the Lambs" and "Sit Down Servant" (Shaw) Soloists were: William Stanley, Charles Jones, Mrs. Pauline Gray, Miss Brenda Tiller, Beulah and Evelyn Trusty and Wendell Moore.

* * *

Following the intermission, the Chorale, in formal attire, sang excerpts from popular musicals — "Pickwick," "Carousal" and "The Sound of Music" with Ronald Haskins, Donald Douglass and Mrs. Lenora McBride, as soloists.

NEWSMAKERS
