AFRO Clean Block prize fund reaches $944.50

Last week, William Dunbar, Commercial Manager for the C and P Telephone Company, presented to the Clean Block lady, Mrs. Jeanette B. Leath, a check in the amount of $100 to be added to the Prize Fund.

This check said Mrs. the arm; our prize fund Leath, was "a good shot in climbed to $944.50.

We need your cooperation, encouragement and dollars. We want you to share 100 percent in this campaign. We want and need the help of every citizen interested in young folks," she concluded.

When Miss Frances Murphy began the campaign 36 years ago, her platform was CIVIC PRIDE, LEADERSHIP, DEVELOPMENT OF HIGH IDEAS, AND CO-OPERATION.

The supreme thought was "Strive for better Things, but Make the Most of What You Have."

These principals have helped many to carry on through life.

The prizes given these young people at the close of the campaign do not pay them for their work. It is just a token of appreciation from adults for their efforts. It gives the youth encouragement and incentive.

Remember many of the youth today will be our leading citizens of tomorrow. This is good training in many ways.

Let's all pitch in make this 36th celebration one long to be remembered. Send your contribution to say to benefit 15,000 youths.

All money contributed to the campaign is used to reward the youngsters at the close of the drive at an awards ceremony. The public is always invited to attend.

All contributions are gratefuly acknowledged on the Clean Block Pages in the AFRO.

Please make all checks payable to AFRO Charities Clean Block Fund. A tax deductible contribution.

Clean Block painting tips

Painting chairs is easier if you place the chair upside down on a table protected with thick newspaper. Paint the legs and rungs first, then the underside of the body.

When these sections have dried thoroughly, put the chair right-side up and finish the job.

If you are painting flower boxes paint the inside of the box first, then the outside, before planting flowers be sure the paint is dry inside the box, it should be painted several days before planting flowers.

Keep your paint brush shallow. Do not dip too deeply into paint pail, a third of the bristle length is deep enough.

Excess paint on the brush can be removed by gently tapping the brush against the inside of the can, rather than wiping it against the rim.

When you have finished painting the lid tightly replace the lid on the paint can.

Hearing Monday on parents in schools

The School Board Committee on Parent Representatives will conduct a public hearing on the newly proposed procedures for selecting residents of school neighborhoods or communities to represent the parents of students attending Baltimore's public schools.

The hearing will be held on Monday, July 6, beginning at 7 p.m. in the auditorium of the Poly-Western High School.

Interested citizens are invited to attend and to participate.

This hearing has been arranged so that the people of Baltimore — especially the parents of public school students — may have the real opportunity to express their views about the procedures for nominating and selecting Parent Representatives as submitted to the School Board by Commissioner Larry S. Gibson, Committee Chairman.

Following this public hearing, the School Board will deliberate on the proposed procedures and the suggestions made at this hearing with the intention of adopting a workable set of guidelines in time for them to become effective for the new school year.

Persons who wish to speak at this hearing on July 6 should call Mrs. Bowers, HO 7-4000, Extension 816, to reserve time. Calls will be accepted through Monday, July 6.

Seventh Step program set for boys' school

Robert C. Hilson, Acting Director, State Department of Juvenile Services, has announced that a new program involving the Seventh Step Foundation at the Maryland Penitentiary has been initiated.

This program will involve the counseling of a group of boys at the Maryland Training School for Boys by a penitentiary inmate who is on work-release.

The inmate chosen for the position will be a member of the Seventh Step Foundation who has been taking college credit courses in psychology, sociology, and counseling.

This person will work closely with all departments within the training school in order to develop worthwhile and meaningful programs. There will be special effort made to coordinate the program with the social living curriculum offered by the school department.

It is strongly felt that the boys in a training school situation will relate well to a prison inmate who has undergone similar experiences.

In turn, every effort will be made by the counselor to show the positive effects of leading a life divorced from criminal offenses.

HOUSE HOPEFUL—Ben H. Foreman, attorney, is shown here filing at the city's Supervisors of Elections for Democratic nomination to the General Assembly's House of Delegates from the 4th District. Monday 9 p.m. is deadline for filing. With Mr. Forman is Gomeo S. Parra, a friend.

PROCLAMATION—Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro, 3rd, signed the proclamation document proclaiming Monday, June 29, Miss Black Baltimore Day. The crowning of "Miss Black Baltimore" will be Sunday, July 5 at 7:30 p.m. in the Civic Center. Of the young ladies competing for the honors 12 are pictured with the mayor.

SUMMER FUN AT HOME

Here is where youngsters can have visit with animals

The Bureau of Recreation is arranging for a Nature Wagon to visit recreation centers this summer.

Children who never get a chance to see wild animals at close range may pet some and view others in cages on the compact wagon. The large owl, skunk, opossum, and deer fascinate the children.

Arthur Shielhouse, Nature Wagon leader, travelling with the Nature wagon, gives an informative talk about the animals; plays guessing games, and sometimes the children feed the small deer.

There are cages with animals inside while the side doors open out to form bulletin boards filled with colorful pictures of animals and birds.

Here is where the Nature wagons will be next week:

Educator.

"As education improves, so will the relationships between people," says Mr. Richard Dickerson, Manager of RCA Educational Project Development.

"Across the country our company is working intimately with parents, community groups, teachers and administrators to improve the quality of education and job training programs," Dick explains.

"Teams of RCA educational specialists are helping these people evaluate their systems, and develop relevant educational programs to meet their special needs."

Mr. Dickerson, 33, has been involved in many phases of education over the past eleven years.

He was a junior high school science teacher and instructional supervisor in his home town, Philadelphia.

In 1966, Dick was appointed Special Assistant to the New York City Board of Education.

And since 1968 he's been a key member of the RCA Educational Development staff at Cherry Hill, New Jersey.

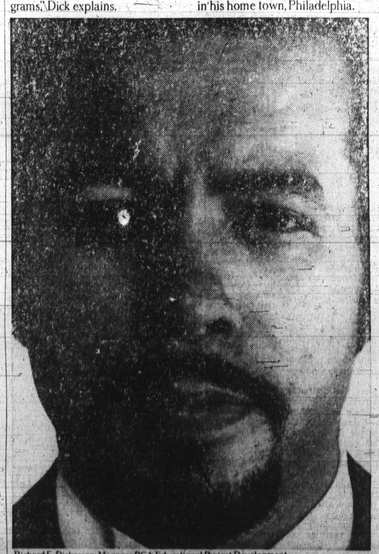
When teachers, school administrators or community leaders consult with him, he advises them on the wide range of RCA's educational services and equipment.

Audio-visual equipment like classroom TV, Language labs. Instructional records, tapes, films, self-directing textbooks and computer-assisted instructional systems.

Dick says, "We prescribe individual educational programs so each child has the opportunity to learn as much as he can, as fast as he can.

"We also do our thing with adults to provide programs necessary for job-related training and job advancement.

"This is what I do, this is what we do. We are people-oriented; therefore our focus is the total community. "We believe in education!"



Richard E. Dickerson, Manager, RCA Educational Project Development

Sparkman held in bassist Homocide

Ronald Sparkman of the 1400 block Luterne Ave. has been charged and held without bail in connection with slaying of McKevett Seymour a former jazz bassist with Ella Fitzgerald.

According to police reports Seymour and Sparkman were joking while at work at the Hurlock Pickle Co located in the 1000 block Homewood St.

At one point Seymour is said to have turned away from Sparkman who picked up a metal rod and swung it striking the man in the head.

Seymour was pronounced dead at Johns Hopkins Hospital two hours later.

of the much needed change in our system of education."

Concerning the draft, he said, "... There is a plan to draft you. A real together plan. This plan will succeed unless you get lucky or get ready to fight it now.

"If you are opposed to participation in war in any form due to the nature of your beliefs and the training from which you acquired these beliefs, by getting ready now I mean that you should see how you feel about war and the military and Vietnam.

"I realize that it is hard for a 18-year-old who is still a few years distant from the situation to have well formed ideas about it. But if you wait until you are faced with the situation it may well be too late. (I waited).

"So you have to get it into your head now. Could you kill another man? If so, could you do it because someone else has decided that you should? How do you relate to regimentation and the suppression of individuality?

"Could you participate in an organization that is practicing genocide against your people? What is the black man's stake in Vietnam?

"I know that most of these are things about which you haven't thought very much about but if you are to escape the clutches of the Selective Service System, you must start thinking and acting now!"

At this moment, Carl M. Dix Sr., is working to get his son released from the Ft. Lewis, Wash. stockade.

HELD IN STOCKADE in Fort Lewis, Tacoma, Washington, Spec. 4 Carl Dix Jr. refused to be shipped to Vietnam after he was denied Concientious Objector status by the Army. The 21-year-old soldier resided in the 2200 block of West Fayette St. before joining the Army in 1968.

charged with lottery and operating a nuisance house.

Leon Mass, 42, and Mrs. Veney have been released under $6,000 bail each and charged with lottery violations, possession of narcotics and paraphanalia and nuisance house.

Reports show while police were breaking in the door 13 bags of heroin were dropped out of a second story window.

Among lottery paraphanalia found were two slips police say held 451 numbers indicating $287 in play.

Narcotics paraphanalia confiscated included hypodermic syringers, burnt bottle caps and cotton used by heroin addicts.

Mrs. Odelia Galloway, Fountain choir member

"She enjoyed going to church and helping other people."

William H. Galloway, 208 N. Amity St., war speaking of his wife, Mrs. Odelia Galloway who died Tuesday at University Hospital.

She and Mr. Galloway would have been married 19 years yesterday (Thursday).

Mrs. Galloway was a member of Fountain Baptist Church where she sang on the Gospel Chorus. She also belonged to the Amity St. Neighborhood Club.

Also surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Watkins; step daughter, Mrs. Bettye Salter; 11 grandchildren, and 20 great grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Thursday at Fountain Baptist Church. Burial was in Arbutus Memorial Park.

Macedonia Vacation Bible School has been in session from 9-12 a.m. every day for the last two weeks. They will be closing their doors today (Friday) but before they do, the children have been busy planning a closing exercise.

For their closing exercise, the children have sent pretty decorative letters home inviting their parents out tonight to see their accomplishments. They are planning dramatizations, speaking and singing for the event.

It was a fun time for the AFRO as well as the Macedonia students. Similar programs havt been conducted in other churches.

Mt. Lebanon Baptist is conducting evening Bible school classes. Directors of the program is Miss E. Jane Slaughter. Over 95 studens are participating in the evening classes and the high light of the program is a contest theme for the school, "Take God's word to all."

Each class is trying to get the most of points in order to be the winner. The highest number of points (50 pts.) are given for bringing a friend to class.

Sharp St. Community House is also having Bible classes and the children visited Druid Hill Park this week.

Most of the programs are closing this week, but some churches will be opening their doors later on in July for bible school.

Churches are helping by making vacation not just a "goof-off-time" but a meaningful and worthwhile experience for youngsters.

each District headquarters, and their functions "be more precisely delineated in departmental orders and that Community Relations sergeants be assigned only to Community Relations activities."

As a final recommendation the Committee urged the establishment "of a Community Relations Board for the City of Baltimore, composed of 14 persons, representative of the total community.

"Nine of the members should be designated from the District Community Relations Councils (one from each Council). We recommend that the remaining five members be appointed as follows: Two by the Mayor, two by the Governor. The 14th member should be the Community Relations Director or Chief from the Police Department.

By way of explanation the Committee reported "the purpose of this Community Relations Board would be to give assistance to the District Community Relations activities, and to be a formal point of contact with the Police Commissioner and his top staff on policy matters affecting the community.

"The Board could, on its own initiative, recognize and make recommendations concerning potential or existing points of conflict between the police and the community and, equally important, take the initiative to interpret to the community its proper responsibility concerning the control and prevention of crime."

The Governor's response to the Committee's recommendations is expected within the next few weeks.
