sistant superintendent for secondary schools responsible for the transfer, said, "in the interest of the school system, the change should be made. This is the first time that a letter of this type has been sent out, since I have been here." Dr. Bell has been in his post a year.

Dr. Bell had sent a letter to Mr. Jones on June 30th telling him, "... you are transferred from School No. 402 to School No. 400 as a social studies teacher; effective September 1, 1970.

Mr. Jones said that previously there had been a dispute with an administrator at Northern.

Members of the Teachers' Union occupied the board room and the lobby as they made plans Wednesday night to spend the entire evening in the building.

Dennis Crosby, president of the BTU, said that the sleep-in was a test case because if the Administration was allowed to transfer one teacher without due cause, this could lead to other such transfers.

Mrs. Pat Roberts, field representative of the BTU, said that the method of transfer "was a breach of contract" between the school administrators and the teachers of Baltimore City.

In a meeting with Dr. Bell on Tuesday, Mr. Jones and his attorney were told that the matter would be reconsidered and final notice given on Wednesday.

However, on Wednesday morning, confirmation was given of the transfer

It was later that afternoon that members of BTU decided to demonstrate. They entered the 25th St. building about 1:30 p.m. and stayed until closing time.

Standard procedure for security is to let no one enter the building after 6 p.m. The BTU waited and entered the board room, intending to stay the entire night.

As of Thursday morning, the building was still occupied by the BTU and the Department of Education was operating with the front door locked

Dr. Thomas D. Sheldon, superintendent of schools, not available for comment.

Robert L. Karwacki, president of the Board of School Commissioners, told the AFRO Thursday morning: "I spoke to the BTU members this morning because a Level III (hearing before Dr. Sheldon) on this same matter is set for Friday (today) Any hearing on a level IV is a meeting of School Commissioners; is premature."

member, coordinated the activities of the numerous church organizations and served as church spokesman.

The Rev. George Kellam and the Rev. Mrs. Agnes Alston presided at the Wednesday night wake. Bishop Smallwood E. Williams, pastor of Washington's 10,000 member Bible Way Worldwide Church, was main speaker and appeared in white and gold robes.

The Rev. Mrs. Sarah Johnson acknowledged the more than 1,000 cards, telegrams, letters and messages of sympathy and read resolutions from Gillis' groups and officials, local citizens and city and state officials.

Highlighting the expressions from individuals and 20 clergymen was the talk of Dr. Lillie M. Jackson, NAACP president emeritus and founder of the Freedom House who praised the Rev. Mr. Jackson as "the kind of loving, good and kind Christian, the likes of whom we may never see again."

In the interracial group was St. Ambrose Orthodoxe Church Rector, Father Henry Zerhusen accompanied by several sisters and members of the congregation.

The wake services which extended through 1:30 a.m. Thursday, stretched the printed three-page program to hear talks from an added group of ministers "who represented every church: faith, race and creed" in Baltimore.

In addition to many other choruses, appearing were the Gillis Male Chorus, combined Choirs, Community Ensemble, Baltimore Fellowship Choir, Interdenomination Choir of Washington and Baltimore, Revivalist Ivory Gospel Singers.

Roland Smith, Gillis organists and pianists and organists from other groups were accompanists.

The secret order services included those of the Rev. Mr. Jackson's lodges and the Arch Social Club.

The final rites at noon Thursday witnessed the Rev. Sidney Daniels, pastor of Emmanuel Christian Community Church, presiding.

Mrs. Pauline Wells Lewis, church clerk read the obituary.

The eulogy was given by the Rev. George Baynard, pastor of New Shiloh Christian Community Church. The Rev. Benjamin Shell, pastor of Ivory Temple Christian Community Church gave benediction at the graveside.

In the eulogy the Rev. Baynard termed the Rev. Mr. Jackson as one of God's chosen ones and said, "A servant of God does not die. When God called, he answered here am I."

The Rev. Mr. Baynard also recalled the fortitude and courage of the deceased pastor who, when Gillis started with just five members and the church was cold, picked up coal from the railroad tracks for fuel for Sunday services.

Among many tributes were those by Bishop W. E. Fuller Jr. of the Atlanta, Ga. First Episcopal Diocese of the F.B.H. Church of America; Baltimore City Solicitor George L. Russell and Morris Blum, radio WANN who first broadcast the Rev. Mr. Jackson's Open Heart Hour in the 1940's.

Some 20 local and out of town clergymen assisted.
