a conformist but there are bounds of reason . . ."

The 200-pound, 6 ft. 2 former police officer was critical of "horse trading" that goes on in the legislature but says it is necessary. "I don't think there is anybody down there who didn't have to trade at one time or another," he stressed.

"You just can't do it straight from the shoulder. Nobody has the power," he continued. "You have to do a lot of really hard and soul-searching down there."

Mr. Jordan, a native of Kansas City, attended Washburn University in Topeka, Kan., and graduated from Wilberforce University, Ohio, with a Bachelor of Science degree in commerce.

Then he taught school and later joined the Kansas City Police Department where he rose to the rank of detective sergeant.

Chosen by Liberia to reorganize its police force, Rep. Jordan later conducted preliminary flight programs for the Liberian army and constabulary pilots. He worked for eight years in Liberia.

When he returned to Kansas, he was promoted to lieutenant but resigned shortly thereafter, saying that the promotion carried little responsibility.

In 1963, he launched his political career having established himself as a businessman. He received decorations from both the Liberian and French governments for his police work.

Anybody can make a hard liquor. A soft whiskey is something else.

The difference between hard liquor and soft whiskey is more than just a matter of taste.

What makes Calvert Extra soft is the way it is distilled and blended.

So while soft whiskey has a unique taste, it is also as smooth and mellow as the best imported Scotch and Canadian.

It took us many years and thousands of experiments to develop the unique taste of soft whiskey.

It wasn't easy.

But we think you'll agree it was worth it.

faculty members at the colleges; accepted a listing of priorities for fiscal 1972 capital budget; and adopted a proposal for "formula budgeting" for the state colleges.

The adoption of formula budgeting for higher education by many states came about to resolve conflicts between college administrators and state budget officials.

The Board of Trustees for the State Colleges suggested the adoption of formula budgeting for the colleges because it will provide clear monetary estimations which can be applied to all colleges.

These estimates will make it possible for the governor to know the cost of educating each student when making out his own budget for the state and alleviate the state budget bureau from undue control over itemizing individual college needs.

In a new proposal which will be included in the board's own budget; that is, the budget used by the board for staffing, etc. will be appropriations for disadvantaged students.

Morgan State has for some time included within its budget appropriations for "compensatory education." These funds are for students coming to college, who because of inadequate prior preparation may not be completely equipped to do college work.

These students take additional courses in reading, mathematics etc. to help erase the inadequacies.

This program has now been applied to all of the colleges after years of success at Morgan; with national acclaim the program is being adopted over the country.

The plan calls for an allowance of $275 per disadvantaged student. A disadvantaged student is defined as one who scores below the 35th percentile on Scholastic Aptitude Tests (college boards).

Bowie State has 485 students classified as disadvantaged, it will receive $133,375; Coppin State with 683 disadvantaged students will receive $187,825; Frostburg with 75 such students will receive $187,625; Frostburg State with 1,607 disadvantaged students gets $441,925; Salisbury State with 398 receives $57,200; and Towson with 385 will get $105,875.

Carrol withdraws from D. A. contest

Leroy Carroll, who filed for the office of State's Attorney for Baltimore City before the July 2 deadline, withdrew from the rale this week, and in doing so issued the following statement.

"During the past week, I have been asked by many persons why I chose to run for the office of State's Attorney for Baltimore City. Today my reasons for withdrawing are the same as the reasons I first decided to run.

"I ran because I was convinced that Baltimore City, with its large black population, needed a man who understood the real problems confronting a community in which a high proportion of those charged with crimes are black and in which a high proportion of the victims of the crimes are black.

The solutions to the problems of administering the State's Attorney Office and seeing that justice is done both to the victim of the crime and to the defendants themselves do not lie in the remedies put forth by most of those running for the office of State's Attorney.

'In our adversary system of justice, the courts must increasingly depend upon the State's Attorney to provide that kind of information and leadership which will enable them to render just and fair decisions and to bring about just and fair dispositions of all cases.

"In the past, the State's Attorney's Office has operated more as an advocate for a cause than as an instrument for the fair and impartial administration of justice.

"The only type of a man truly qualified to be the State's Attorney of Baltimore City is a man who recognizes the awesome problem of administering justice fairly and deals with it accordingly.

"When I first filed for the office of State's Attorney, I thought that I met that criterion. I was a former Assistant State's Attorney for Baltimore City and defense attorney with considerable experience in the area of the trial and handling of criminal cases.

"In my opinion, the only man qualified to deal with the present problems confronting the State's Attorney's Office is a man who has been close to those problems and who can view those problems from the standpoint of that group of people most immediately involved in the day-to-day problems confronting a State's Attorney.

I withdraw because 'I think that there is such a man already committed to running and winning the office. That man is Milton B. Allen. I defer to his superior skill and knowledge in the field of criminal law. I offer him my unqualified support and urge all members of the community to do likewise."

LAWRENCE HALL, right, owner of the Dolfield Barber Shop at 3531 Dolfield Ave., is presented with a trophy signifying that Mr. Hall won first prize in the Afro-hair style section of a barbering contest held Monday night in the Washington Hilton Hotel. Mr. Hall's victory was over 15 other contestants in that division of the demonstrations which included conventional and "free style" sections also. Other barbers at the Dolfield shop — John Brooks, Cornell Cartrell and Miss Faye Nettles — also entered. Presenting the trophy is Pinkney A. Howell, candidate for the House of Delegates from the 5th District.
