ADAH K. JENKINS

Jeannette Walters, distinguished Baltimore soprano now residing, in New York City, is preparing programs for her concert tour booked for next season in southern cities and colleges.

The singer, who is a artist diploma graduate of Peabody, where she studied voice with Mme. Alice Duscheck, was presented in concert recently at First Baptist Church, sponsored by The Boosters Club.

Hers is a voice of commanding resonance and lustrous quality, which she handles with elegant artistry and discriminating musicianship.

The Baltimore program displayed her gifts in arias from "La Gisaonda," "Cavalleria Rusticiana" and "La Forza del Distino;" the Mozart "Alleluia," Schubert ledier (arts songs) and chanson (French art songs) by Dupare, concluding with a group of spirituals.

Ably supporting the artist was Ernest Ragogini at the piano. The sponsoring organization is headed by Mrs. Viola Wright.

Miss Walters (Mrs. Percy Brown in private life) received wave notices from the press following her appearance in chamber opera last spring, continuing her operatic career. Miss Walters is coaching at the opera workshop of Manhattan School of Music.

Her husband, Percy Brown, formerly with the music department of the Baltimore public schools is head of the music department at a Black-Spanish Brooklyn elementary school.

In addition to graduate work at New York University, Mr. Brown is music director of the 14 District. He and his wife met at Peabody where he majored in music education.

Edward Walters, brother of the singer, and also a Peabody graduate is with the Navy Band in Washington, D.C., having completed recently a tour of Mexico and the west coast.

His wife, the former Miss Helen Bishop (Peabody), teaches music in Montgomery County.

Peabody summer series opened Tues. June 22 with a lecture by Asher G. Zielnik on "The Alleged Standards of Music Education."

At 8 p.m., William Bland performed a program of contemporary piano music in Leakin Hall. On Mon., June 29 Martin Berkofsky, pianist, will be the artist.

Students of Mesdames Lantha Clark and Gladys Davis were presented in recital on a recent Sunday afternoon at Metronolitan United Methodist Hall.

Pianists performing works by Beethoven, Schumann, Dett and composers of educational material were; Keith White, Donna Lantha L. and Ernest P. Clark, Jr., Denise King, Daren Jiggetts, and Sharrie Waters Wactor Pierce, Leon Ringgold, Katiny Briggs, Carolyn Holmes, Marie Jones Ira Jiggetts, Ester Harrison, Lynn Muldrow and Kevin Sullivan.

Organ pupils heard in compositions by Bach, Stainer, Schumann and Dvorak were: Kevin McClain, Lantha L. Clark, Marie Lee.

Free bus service for senior citizens

Mondawmin Shopping Center merchants have made a chartered bus for shopping and check-cashing expeditions available to residents of Lakeview Tower, the city's first public housing development for the elderly, and to residents of St. James Terrace Apartments.

The bus, provided, free of charge, by the 62 firms in the Mondawmin Merchants Association, according to Robert C. Embry Jr., commissioner of Housing and Community Development.

Frederick O'Neal, president of the Mondawmin Merchants, said the bus will be made available to Lakeview and St. James twice a month. It will pick up residents at the entrance to their high-rise apartmest building, leave them at Mondawmin for four or five hours of shopping, lunch and browsing and then return them to their homes.

• • •

The first chartered bus was in service on July 10 from Lakeview, in the 700 block Druid Park Lake Drive. The next bus will be in service later this month.

St. James Terrace Apartments are in 800 blocks N. Arlington Ave.

Old Taylor Presents: 6 Ingenious Americans.
These black men helped change the world!

Nearly all of these Ingenious Americans were poor and came up the hard way. Most had to work their way through school. Yet each, in his own way, made a lasting contribution to mankind.

These busts are available for just $5 each (that's what they cost us). They're 8" tall, made of antique bronze cast stone, and bear a complete history of the subject. To get them—just fill out the coupon below.

Matthew Henson was an assistant to Admiral Peary on his now-famous expeditions. On the final trip, when Peary lay exhausted and crippled with frostbite, it was Henson who pushed on and became the first man to locate and stand on the North Pole.

Dr. Charles Drew, an expert on blood and its components, introduced the idea of a blood bank. Today, when someone needs blood, the hospital makes a call to the local blood bank. Within minutes the proper type is there. Dr. Drew made it possible to save lives by storing blood.

Dr. Dan Williams worked as a barber to get through high school. Eight years after graduating from medical school, he opened a man's chest and sewed up a knife wound of the heart sac. Dr. Williams performed the world's first heart operation.

Norbert Rillieux developed a fast, inexpensive method of refining sugarcane in 1846. Before this time, it was a luxury for the very few. Because of Rillieux, sugar became inexpensive enough to make all our lives a little sweeter.

Lewis Howard Latimer, son of an escaped slave, became an electrical engineer and an inventor. He invented a method for making carbon filament in an incandescent lamp, which he patented. Eventually he became a noted aide to Thomas Edison and one of the Edison Pioneers. Today, a school in Brooklyn, New York, bears his name.

Benjamin Banneker became a prominent surveyor, mathematician and astronomer. When Major L'Enfant, the original architect of Washington, D.C., packed up and quit, the job was turned over to Banneker, who had transcribed the Major's plans. Banneker played a key role in putting the White House, the Treasury and the Capitol where they are today!

WIDOW—Mrs. Charles R. Law, widow of the funeral director and civic leader, enters Baltimore's Enon Baptist Church for his Thursday noon funeral. Accompanying her is Father Robert Powell, rector Holy Trinity Episcopal Church.

Funeral services held for Charles R. Law

"I come to say farewell to a man with one of the grendest hearts I ever knew. He was a giver not a getter. No one had to ask him, he was always willing to give to a good cause.

"Let us not end on a sad note but rather let us say 'thanks for the memory?'"

The Rev. Marion C. Bascom, minister of Douglas Church was speaking at the Thursday noon funeral of Charles Roy Law.

Mr. Law, distinguished as a funeral director and civic leader, died last Sunday of leukemia at the age of 62.

In attendance at the hour-long rites at Enon Baptist Church where Mr. Law was a longtime trustee, were state and city officials, including Mayor Thomas J. D'Alesandro 3rd, and representatives of communities from all walks of life.

• • •

Seven ministers and four other public figures, including City Solicitor George L. Russell spoke at the service. They characterized Mr. Law as a leader of great integrity, a true giver of himself and a man who tried to help somebody. Some 150 others lined the sidewalk.

Over 700 persons outside attended the service. Funeral directors from across the country also attending included Carnie P. Bragg, Patterson, N.J., who succeeded Mr. Law as president of the National Funeral Directors and Morticians Assoc., Inc.

Of Mr. Law, he said, "Charlie learned a long time ago that you truly give when you give of yourself.

Mr. Law was the first Marylander to head the 2,000 member organization.

Mr. Stevens of Steven Bros. Funeral Home in West Palm Beach, Fla. remembered Mr. Law as a "wonderful person who was enthusiasd with his work.

"You could reason and talk with him. His dream was to see the mortician convention come to Baltimore. It's a sad thing that he did not live to see his dream come true."

Others who remembered Mr. Law and paid tribute to him were Lloyal Randolph, 4th District of Baltimore, who represented Governor Marvin Mandel and Dr. Henry H. Green, President Emeritus, H.M. Club.

Dr. Arthur J. Payne, minister of Enon, presided.

Other ministers participating were: Father Robert M. Powell, rector, Holy Trinity P.E. Church; the Rev. Reginald J. Daniels, minister of the Madison Ave. United Presbyterian Church, the Rev. James A. Everette, minister of Shiloh Baptist Church, Turner Station;

Also the Rev. Robert T. Newbold Jr., associate executive secretary, Department of Ministerial Relations, United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., the Rev. Marion C. Bascom, minister of Douglas Memorial Church and Bishop Monroe Saunders, of the First United Apostolic Church.

The church choir, directed by Mack Statham, sang. Miss Margaret Lindsay and Earl Chaney were soloists.

• • •

Active pallbearers were members of the Mt. Horeb Lodge, No. 24, F. and A.M., (P.H.A.).

Honorary pallbearers were: members of groups with which Mr. Law was affiliated. The Prince Hall Masonic Family, Grand Lodge 33rd degree, P.H.A.; Hiram Consistory No. 2, P.H.A.; Jerusalem Temple No. 4, A.E.A.O.N.M.S.; Kappas, Swags, H.M. Club, Couples Club, Civic Center Commission, for which he served as commissioner.

Also trustees of Enon Baptist Church, State Board-Maryland Funeral Directors, Auxiliary of Funeral Directors and Morticians Association, National Officers of Funeral Directors and Morticians Association (out of town undertakers), and Funeral Directors and Morticians of Maryland.

• • •

Among the Mourners were 14 of the funeral directors who apprenticed under Mr. Law. In his eulogy, Rev. Mr. Bascom stated "this is a pretty good batting average for anyone." One of them, Arlington S. Phillips, directed the services.

Mr. Law is survived by his wife, the former Mary-Elizabeth Cater, of Atlanta, assistant professor of languages at Morgan State College, two sons, Charles C., a student at Fisk University and Louis E. Law of the American University in Washington, D.C.

Also two brothers: Albert of Gary, Ind. and Andrew Law of Riverside, Calif.

Burial is at the Arbutus Memorial Park.

CIVILIAN OF THE WEEK

Mrs. Lillie Hungerford

MRS. HUNGERFORD

By KIT GORE

Mrs. Lillie B. Hungerford manages the AG Reference Library in the First Army Headquarters and from the many letters of commendation she has received, she does an outstanding job.

This charming, outgoing lady is a native of Louisiana where she graduated from Gilberts Academy in New Orleans and Southern University in Scotlandville, majoring in education. She later studied Fashion Design and Sewing at New Orleans University, Photography and Painting at Maryland School of Photography, and completed Cortez Business School in Baltimore. She has also finished several courses in law.

Mrs. Hungerford taught school for a number of years in Baton Rouge, La., Before assuming the position of Principal which she held until 1945 when she enlisted in the WAAC and served as First Sergeant of a WAAC company.

This dynamic lady came to Baltimore in 1946 and started her own photographic studio, later expanding the business to include dress designing, sewing and legal typing. In 1951 she accepted a Civil Service job at Fort Meade.

Deeply involved in numerous outside activities, she is a member of St. James United Methodist Church, where she serves on the Usher Board and works with many of the church organizations. She is A member of Naomi Grand Chapter, OES, 1205 Eutaw Place, (HGA). She has served as Worthy Matron of Morning Star Chapter No. 13, OES., Office of Esters; as Marshal, Daughters of Sphinx; as an officer in Lady Knights, Clara V. Bens Amaranth Ct. No. 1 and Rest of Seven Seals; Grand Marshal of Naomi Grand Chapter, OES, and Treasurer of Administration Council. Mrs. Hungerford is now Most Ancient Matron of Mattie C. Heath Court No. 3, Heroines of Jericho and has been selected as a Delegate to the Supreme of Masons and Eastern Star in Newark, N.J. on the 24th of July. In May she was selected Honor Guest, Mt. Moriah Chapter No. 1, Royal Arch, for their Inspirational Breakfast where she was presented gifts and a Certificate of Service. As a member of the American Legion Post No. 19, she is an Officer on the Executive Board and the Assistant Adjutant General.

As a photographer she practices her art with a Speed Graphic, a movie camera and a 250 Polaroid. Mrs. Hungerford also sews, crochets, paints, and travels extensively. Her trips have taken her to Cleveland, Boston, New York, Des Moines, New Haven, Atlanta, various cities in Kentucky, Indiana and Virginia. One of her favorite sports is baseball, and while in the service she coached a softball team. She now lives in Baltimore with her 3-yearold black and tan German Shepherd dog named Rex. As a member of the family, he rides in the front seat of the car with her and will crowd anyone who tries to dislodge him from the seat beside his mistress. He also awakens Mrs. Hungerford in the mornings at precisely 6 a.m.

Formal records consistently describe this delightful lady as efficient, always willing to accept special assignments, possessing tact and sound judgement and demonstrating comprehensive knowledge. Many letters commend her for her friendly, courteous and considerate attitude. Mrs. Lillie Hungerford truly personifies the exceptional and valued Civil Servant.—Advt.

Mrs. Sarah Queen, Macedonia pioneer

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah Queen, 78, were held Saturday at Macedonia Baptist Church, where she was a longtime member.

Mrs. Queen, died July 7, at the House in the Pines Nursing Home.

At Macedonia she was active with several church organizations, including the Social Committee, Missionary Department, Flower Circle and the Daily Vacation Bible School.

Her contributions, donations and energy were limitless, for she brought any number of children to expose them to religious training. She was admired and appreciated for her loyalty to her church. She had a charming personality and endeavored to create friendliness and kindness among the people with whom she lived and served.

Survivors are a daughter, Mrs. Jeannette Lowe; two sisters, Mesdames Elizabeth Lewis, and Jeanette Brown, son-in-law Rudolph Lowe.

Burial was in Arbutus Memorial Park.

A GOOD citizen is registered and prepared to VOTE. Register TODAY at Supervisors of Elections, People's Court Building, Fayette and Gay Sts.
