ALLEN IS CHOICE FOR PRIMARY

State's Attorney Race Narrows

Art Murphy withdraws, backs Allen

A picture of unity was displayed yesterday morning as Arthur G. Murphy, accompanied by Milton Allen, announced his decision to withdraw from the race for State's Attorney (an office also sought by Mr. Allen) because, he said:

"I am convinced that at this time, I can best serve the black community by remaining in my present position as Community Relations Specialist and Chairman of the Commission on Law Enforcement and the Administration of Justice where I can attempt to strengthen community relations and continue to work toward improvement of the entire criminal justice system as well as inspire other blacks to enter the field of law where there is a critical need."

The announcement ended the flood of speculation that predicted the candidacy of both Mr. Murphy and Mr. Allen would split the vote in the September primary and result in the defeat of both candidates.

Expressing his concern for community togetherness and his respect for Mr. Allen who is one of Baltimore's most outstanding attorneys Mr. Murphy said of his withdrawal:

"This will leave Milton Allen with his many years of experience as a specialist in criminal law practice and one familiar with the problems of the State's Attorney's office that need solving, the lone black candidate in the race.

"Both of us working together in our respective areas can perhaps make the entire criminal justice system what it ought to be. Therefore, in view of my concern for the needs of the black community in particular, I am withdrawing from the race and endors-

NAACP and Urban League move to stop talk of rift

NEW YORK — Moving quickly to stop a rift between the NAACP and the Urban League over their evaluations of the Nixon Administration's stance toward black people, spokesmen for both organizations sounded a note of "togetherness" here Monday.

The night before, on Sunday, Whitney Young, executive director of the League, in his keynote address to the 60th Annual Convention, had indicated a more moderate appraisal of the administration than the NAACP projected serveral weeks before at its annual convention.

In strong language the NAACP accused the administration of being anti black; while Young adopted a position that there had been a shift in the administration's views in recent weeks as the President sought to establish broader base support for his policy.

With the apparent divergent views receiving wide attention, the appearance of Clarence Mitchell, director of the Washington Bureau of the NAACP at Monday afternoon's press conference was the signal for efforts to establish whether there had in fact, been a break between the two organizations.

Mitchell, obviously recognizing the basis for questions, responded to questions about the views of two organizations by

FATAL CRASH:

Wife dies as bus driver arraigned

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (UPI) — The wife of bus driver Hubert Daye died of a stroke Tuesday shortly before he was arraigned on seven counts of involuntary manslaughter stemming from last week's crash that killed seven Long Island school children and injured 52 others.

Mrs. Henrietta Daye, 45, of Montclair, N.J., died in the dispensary at Allentown General Hospital where her husband had been confined.

Word of Mrs. Daye's death was received as the bus driver was being arraigned before Justice of the Peace Richard Levan and held under $7,000 bond.

He was not told of his wife's death and was taken back to the hospital and readmitted, while they awaited a physician before telling him.

Daye, also of Montclair, was served with seven warrants charging him with the involuntary manslaughter after his surprise release from the hospital where he had been confined since the accident. Upon his release, he was taken to nearby Wescoesville for arraignment.

The hospital said Mrs. Daye, who was being boarded at the nursing residence across the street from the hospital, complained of chest pains when she awoke this morning.

She was taken to the hospital emergency room and they advised her to stay there. She said she was leaving, presumably to go to her husband's arraignment, then collapsed at the door of the emergency room.

Daye was in a coma for several days and reported in serious condition, although the hospital said Monday he was improved to the extent where members of his family only were permitted to visit him.

CAPTAIN LOUIS R. HARPER

New fire captain was first on list

By AL RUTLEDGE

Louis R. Harper, 41-year-old veteran firefighter became the first black Captain in the history of Baltimore Fire Department.

Promoted to the rank of lieutenant six years ago, Captain Harper is only mildly surprised that he has gone so far in a profession which he didn't intend to pursue in the first place.

"I joined the department," he explained, "hoping to eventually go into electronics. This job paid more 14 years ago when I joined, than the job I had so I thought I'd stay here a while."

Captain Harper has communications license for radio, telephone and amateur standards. Now he only "now and then fools around" with his ham equipment, I'll stay with the department," he declared.

• • •

Among his reasons for having remained a professional firefighter Captain Harper pointed out the "need to erase some of the lingering old habits developed by the system so long ago that some guys just do them almost naturally."

Racial prejudices Capt. Harper said are held pretty

SEARCH GOES ON FOR JENKINS SUCCESSOR

Acting Morgan President Is Official

By PAUL F. EVANS

The long, hard search for a president of Morgan State College has been ended temporarily!

Assuming the helm at the college as acting president next week will be well-known scholarly Morgan professor, Dr. Thomas P. Fraser.

An air of drama, intrigue, doubt, suspicion, eagerness with all of the other effects of a first rate drama has plagued the entire Eastern-Seaboard since Martin D. Jenkins, fed up with the practices of a lily-white state Budget Bureau, decided that the time had come, after 22 years of brilliant service, to call it quits.

People have called the AFRO from S.C., N.Y., D.C., and Pa., all with the eager question on their lips: "Who is it? Who is it?

Mathias J. DeVito, chairman of the State Board of Trustees and chairman of the Morgan president selection committee, temporarily quenched the thirst of thousands with his late Thursday afternoon announcement in the office of President Jenkins at Morgan.

On Wednesday evening the AFRO visited Dr. Fraser and his wife at their comfortable Wheeler Ave. home, which typifies the

AFRO CONTEST CONTINUES:

The infant monkey smiles at reporter

BY BRENDA WRIGHT

The AFRO zoo reporter is visited the Baltimore zoo this week, the male monkey smiled at me.

From his smile and chatter, it seemed to me he had heard about the Name the Monkey Contest and is looking forward to his new name.

Maybe he even heard some of the names AFRO readers have been suggesting.

The AFRO will award a total of $50 in prizes for the best names submitted in the Name the Diana Monkey Contest.

$25 for the best name for the male monkey

$25 for the best name for the female monkey.

The contest will end Aug. 4, and only persons 16 and younger may enter.

The monkeys which can be seen daily, including Sunday, between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m., at the Druid Hill Park Children's Zoo, were brought to Baltimore from Liberia, West Africa last November.

Here are some suggestions youthful AFRO readers have submitted to Miss Vernita Moody, 15, 701 W. Mulberry, suggested Lester for the male monkey

JAILED — Former Baltimore City policeman, Leslie Wayne Walter, 24, began serving a 12-year sentence last week at the Maryland Penitentiary for the rape of a 38-year-old hospital worker in Druid Hill Park's Lovers Lane, August 27, 1968. The decision was upheld in 1969 by the Court of Special Appeals and again last week by the Maryland Court of Appeals. Mr. Walter was a K-9 trainee at the time of the assault.
