In our Churches

By PAM WIDGEON

Are you having vacation Bible school, a church anniversary or is there someone in your church that deserves recognition? Send the information to the church column so others may know about it.

Readers are also invited to send copies of their church programs to this column which will print news items free of charge.

St. Peter Claver and St. Gregory the Great are sponsoring, "Project Wonder Bible School" a summer vacation Bible school which is held on the neighborhood streets.

The staff of 28 lay and Franciscan Sisters utilize the streets in two areas as their classrooms. They stay one week on each street, try to gather children who may miss classroom Bible school.

The program will be carried to seven locations in northwest Baltimore.

Last week's program was held in the 1600 block of McKean Ave. and 1800 block of Brunt St.

Next week's program which is the closing week will be held at Baker and Payson St. and 1300 block of Stockton St.

Children in grades one to six are welcome. The program is held 3:30 to 5:30 p.m.

Granville Collins and Mrs. Laura Hardy are co-chairmen. Michael Johnson, and Mrs. Sheila Showell are program chairmen. Mrs. Betty Showell is directress.

Art display set for Md. Institute

Works by undergraduate students of the Maryland Institute, College of Art are currently on display at the Mount Royal Station Gallery.

Works from several major departments at the Maryland Institute provide a clear indication of what today's aspiring artists are doing.

Painting, sculpture, photography, printmaking, and interior design are among the departments which are represented in the annual Student Summer Show.

Although many of the works represent unconventional treatments of familiar forms, the exhibit is diverse.

Works range from the representational to the abstract and from the traditional to the experimental.

A unique feature of the summer exhibit is a film which captures the whimsical, illusive quality of colored light in soap bubbles floating over the zoo. The projector is operated by stepping on a mat located on the floor below the screen.

The Student Summer Show is part of a continuing series of exhibits sponsored by the Maryland Institute at its Mount Royal Station Gallery throughout the year.

Visitors are cordially invited to browse in the gallery which is open Monday through Friday from 9:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. The Student Show will be on display for the duration of tht summer.

Many of the works are for sale.

Zeita Harris was just 11

Eleven-year-old Zeita Harris, described as "nice and happy-go-lucky," died Monday morning, of unknown causes. She had been confined to Rosewood State Hospital for two years.

Funeral services today (Friday) at 11 a.m. at the Morton and Dyett Funeral Home. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Harris, 3902 Maine Ave.

Other suvivors are her two sisters, Misses Sharon and Chermaine Harrid; four brothers, John Henry, Nathan, Jr., Ekelo and Darren Harrid; and, two aunts, Mrs. Dorothy Byrd and Mrs. Lillian Elvey.

Burial will be in Baltimore National Cemetery.

William Johnson buried Tuesday

Funeral services for William Johnson, 37, 1720 St. Paul, were held Tuesday at the William March Funeral Home. Burial followed at Mt. Auburn Cemetery.

Mr. Johnson died after suffering a heart attack on July 14, at the Medical Center in New Jersey where he had been taken after complaining of stomach trouble.

He attended Ebenezer Baptist Church.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Delores Johnson; his mother, Mrs. Rebecca Johnson; four daughters, Misses Kelly, Jovan, Jacqueline and Lorraine Johnson; and two sons, Ricky and William Johnson.

Mrs. Geneva Billings buried on Thursday

Funeral services were held Thursday at the Herbert E. Nutter funeral home for Mrs. Geneva Billings of 1918 McCulloh St.

Mrs. Billings, a diabetic for over two years, died in her sleep while visiting a friend, Mrs. Grace Hydes.

Born in Bowie, Md., Mrs. Billings was a daughter of Hall Wallace and Mrs. Jessie Billings of Charlotte, N.C.

She attended the public schools in Charlotte and returned to Bowie where she was employed as a housekeeper for 45 years.

Mrs. Billings was the former wife of Thomas McKenny of Baltimore.

For over 25 years, Mrs. Billings was a member of Grace Presbyterian Church.

She had been a member of Les Bonnes Fillies (The Good Girls) Social Club, since 1929.

Her son, James McKenny of Baltimore, told the AFRO, "She loved to bowl and play tennis in her earlier years."

Mrs. Billings also is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Jessie Mitchell of Camden, N.J., aunts, Mrs. Connie Spears of Charlotte, N.C., Mrs. Louise Louis of Washington; uncles, Frank Billings of Philadelphia, and Robert Billings of Camden, N.J.

Burial was in Arbutus Memorial Park.

scholarly academic character of the couple.

Charming Mrs. Fraser invited the AFRO into the spacious living room. Various brightly done paintings hung on the walls. Art objects graced credenzas and tables.

Dr. and Mrs. Fraser were especially pleased that the honor of succeeding Martin and Elizabeth Jenkins as the First Couple of Morgan had been bestowed on them.

Dr. Fraser said that: "Being 67 years old and almost near retirement age, I had no idea this time last week this would happen. I had settled down to a life of quiet study and teaching. I had to do a lot of thinking before I took this job."

He continued, "Dr. Jenkins called me on last Friday morning. He asked me if I would take the job.

"I told him that I would have to talk the matter over with my wife and would be able to give him an answer by 4 p.m. I feel this position is a culmination of my career."

Mrs. Fraser noted that they would not move into the College's Presidential home located on College Ave. in Morgan Park, adjacent to the rolling acres of the campus.

The presidential home would probably then be unoccupied until the Board has named a permanent head.

The studious, unpretentious scholar continued: "When I met with Dr. Jenkins about four that day, I talked with him for about two hours before I gave a final okay.

"I had to learn all of the problems and situations involved," he said.

"I really had no idea that I was even being considered for the job. By the time I had gotten on campus Tuesday people were congratulating me."

Dr. Fraser has been at Morgan for 23 years. His present post is director of the National Science Foundation's 14th Institute in Science for Secondary Schools. It prepares secondary science teachers for continued work in science.

Dr. Fraser will continue on a very limited basis his work with the institute while serving as acting president. The institute has a program which continues during the regular academic year.

Stabbing into the head with the finger to give his quiet, thoughtful words emphasis, Professor Fraser said, "I will continue the urban thrust of Dr. Jenkins. I feel Morgan can and has made significant contributions to the state and to the country.

"My door will be open to every student who wishes to see me," as has been the direct practice for years at Morgan."

He emphasized, "I believe in student involvement through the Student Government. This has been one of the assets of the Jenkins' Administration.

Being asked to whether he would close the university if students presented a petition to work in political campaigns this fall, Dr. Fraser told the AFRO, "That matter will be taken up with the Faculty Senate when the time comes, and will be given all necessary consideration.

"We shall deal with all problems which come upon us honestly. Any man stepping into the shoes of a giant as Martin Jenkins has much to do, but I don't expect any problems."

The Morgan campus has been buzzing with rumor after rumor for the last two weeks as students and faculty in residence for the summer session realized that the time for a successor was drawing near.

President of the Morgan Student Government, Edward Smith, told the AFRO that he had "no comment" on the Fraser appointment. Asked if that were his official statement, Smith said, "That is my official statement."

There had been reports on campus for the last three weeks that students had already related to the Board of Visitors' committee whom they wanted as president.

The AFRO learned that on a whole students desired someone totally unrelated to the present Maryland educational system. This person would be better able to deal with certain state officials who are "doing everything in their power to retard the excellently bright prospects of Morgan as an urban university."

It seems that the Morgan proposal made by Martin Jenkins at the Morgan Centennial in 1967 is being pushed as hard as possible and some unpersuaded state officials are doing their best to kill the idea before it becomes too widely accepted by the public.

A prominent Baltimore lawyer, who asked not to be identified, told the AFRO recently, "The idea of Morgan becoming a university is one of the best fresh, new ideas to come along in a long while. It will do much to revitalize Baltimore City and the state. But some people around the state fear Morgan will compete with the University of Maryland to occupy a top position in the state system.

According to Dr. Fraser, the idea of university status will be at the top of his list for continued development during his administration, however brief it might be.

Still the search for a permanent Academic chief at Morgan continues.

Dr. Fraser feels that his naming as interim university chief will give the State Board of Trustees "a reasonable amount of time" to find a successor.

Names which have repeatedly cropped up as potential permanent president are?

Dr. Vivian W. Henderson, president of Clark College in Atlanta.

Dr. Eric Lincoln, professor of Sociology at Union Theological Seminary in New York.

Dr. King Cheek, president of Shaw University in Raleigh.

Dr. Harold Delaney, former Morgan Jean, now associate dean at the State University of New York.

Dr. William V. Lockwood, vice president of the Community College of Baltimore.

In talking with persons interested in the Morgan presidency the AFRO learned that rumors have filtered down from Annapolis relating that Governor Marvin Mandel has been attempting to use his influence to have a person named whom he would be able to control.

Nonetheless, Mathias J. DeVito, chairman of the State Board has impressed the AFRO with his concern for the black citizens — and white citizens — of Maryland in his detailed search and efforts for a competent independent leader to take the reins at Morgan.

Yet the search halts temporarily while the seekers replenish themselves to prepare for an exhaustive effort to bring continued quality and honesty to a position of national eminence.

CALVERT COUNTY:

ing Milton Allen rather than continue prolonged discussions so that he will have ample time to organize and campaign in such a manner as to guarantee him victory in the September primary.

In closing Mr. Murphy declared his support for Mr. Allen's candidacy and asked that all voters join in this "atmosphere of cooperation and give their wholehearted support to Milton Allen."

Speaking for himself Mr. Allen reemphasized the closeness with which he and Mr. Murphy had worked in order to reach the withdrawal decision.

On the matter of the office itself, Mr. Allen said his platform would revolve around his belief that the States Attorney's Office as it is presently operating "is a sick office and I think I have the cure for it."

Mr. Allen revealed that for the past three years he has "made a thorough study of the office and I have facts and figures that no one else has to show how inefficiently it has operated."

Specifically he attacked the office as being run "by fresh young men right out of college who are playing with dynamite. They allowed hundreds of cases, burglaries, rapes, murders to gather dust in the files while they went after the more attractive cases.

"This neglect," he said, "has been discribed as being an overload too heavy for the courts to handle but I will show through fact and figures that this is not so."

Mr. Allen is a senior member of the law firm Brown, Allen and Josey. He has been lauded as of the finest criminal attorneys.

Echoes of strawberry shortcake, memories come to Mrs. Jenkins

Former Morgan State College president, Dr. Martin D. Jenkins and his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Lacey Jenkins, are preparing to vacate their campus home sometime soon.

But first they will tour Eastern European capitals, Berlin, Germany, Warsaw, Poland, Moscow and Leningrad, USSR, Budapest, Hungary and Prague, Czechoslovakia.

Traveling very light by plane, the couple married 43 years come September, looks forward to shedding all responsibility.

Determined to collect no souvenirs, they'll sleep late and wander around abroad, seeing the sights "wherever their noses lead them."

However, when the AFRO talked with Mrs. Jenkins Thursday, she said the spacious Morgan Campus house seemed to be echoing memories both happy and sad, like a song that is ended.

Morgan's first lady, stately 5 ft. 4, arrived on the campus with her husband 22 years ago and was noted immediately as a good cook (especially on strawberry shortcake) and a gracious hostess.

As the days grow shorter before leaving, she recalls her last strawberry shortcake was made in May.

Since the desert is a seasonal thing with her, she marks sentimentally, "That was my last strawberry cake here."

Mrs. Jenkins also says with a jolly chuckle, "I won't be preparing many more curry sweetbreads, Martin's favorite dish, here either. But cooking will resume when we get in the new house."

The Jenkinses's new home will be in suburban Washington when he takes his post in late August with the U.S. Department of Urban Affairs.

When they move into the house which is much smaller, Mrs. Jenkins will take with her 150 cook books. When she came to Morgan she says she had "about 300."

Also moving with couple will be their collie, Prince, age 2 years on Sept. 4 and Ming Toy, the 8-year-old Siamese cat.

The rugs are already purchased but selection of furnishings will come later.

MRS. MARTIN D. JENKINS

Thoughts of the new cottage only returned Mrs. Jenkins on Thursday to memories of their Morgan home.

She said, "We had a very pleasant 22... years here. Everyone has been kind. The students were always wonderful.

"We have enjoyed every moment and have made some very close friends here. It has all been a delightful experience, difficult to end. We hate to go, but time is catching up with us."

Of all the experiences of two score years, Mrs. Jenkins points to the one liked best, the seven years she worked as a volunteer gray lady at Montebello State Hospital.

She recalls, "I was in charge of the birthday parties we gave on the second Tuesday of every month for patients born during the month. I like hospital work and work with the elderly.

"Next, I liked the work with the children at the Knox Presbyterian Church in East Baltimore, putting the children to bed, giving them lunch and washing the dishes."

Mrs. Jenkins also enjoyed the six years she was on the board of the YWCA, her social clubs and many bridge games with close friends at home.

Not liking to brag, she says bridge is sort of hobby at which she considers herself "pretty good."

Among fondest memories of course are those of any college president's family, the times when students gathered in the home, sang their songs and talked over affairs and problems.

Mrs. Jenkins points out here that the 22 years contained many, many meeting, with students she can never forget.

Also lingering there are memories of all the guests who came as honorary degree recipients. Among them the slain civil rights leader, Dr. Martin Luther King, an unforgettable personality.

Mrs. Jenkins, always fashionably but quietly dressed, is remembered by all who knew her for her beautiful hats.

On this point, she says she will not wear a hat on the European tour but take the line of least resistance and trouble and don simple cottons that will not wrinkle and comfortable shoes.

She likes mini skirts for young and shapely ladies only.

Quite modern, she has an extensive collection of recordings by black artists, Brook Benton, Eartha Kitt, Leslie Uggams, Mahalia Jackson Belafonte and Duke Ellington.

Dr. and Mrs. Jenkins met 44 years ago in Terre Haute, Ind., his home after she traveled from Gary, Ind. to study at Indiana State Teachers College.

They were married a year later. On Sept. 4, they will celebrate their 43rd anniversary in their new home.

Dr. Jenkins is a native of Vigo County, Ind. where his father was a contractor and builder of bridges.

The family had a large farm where they raised turkeys and chickens.

At an early age, Mrs. Jenkins moved from her native Pittsburgh, Pa. to Gary.

The much traveled couple usually goes on vacation at Christmas time.

Most memorable of her two times abroad with Dr. Jenkins was their sentimental trip to Europe in 1960, a sort of second honeymoon.

Dr. Jenkins had been traveling for the government two months and Mrs. Jenkins met him in Portugal.

The highpoint of the vacation ended at the high state affairs for the third inauguration of Liberia's president, Dr. William V. Tubman. — EMO
