three-fourths of block participation, Myron White, 13, of the 1800 block of Collington Ave. finds that he still has a problem keeping the alley clean.

This is his first time as a leader and maybe by next year, when and if he decides to become a captain, he will have solved this problem.

He attends Woodbourne Junior High School and is aiming for a career in the sport world.

Jocelyn Brown is another old timer. This is her second time around.

There are 35 homes in her block 1600 N. Payson.

Even with her experience at the job, Jocelyn still has a problem keeping the alleys clean because of unregular trash collection.

She is 14 and attends Lemmel Junior plans to be a specialist — a pediatrician.

Cleaning up the block is the hardest job Kevin Taylor, 13 of the 1400 Argyle Ave. has. He doesn't get too much cooperation from neighbors in the block and there are only 5 children. This is his first time as captain.

Ann Randolph gets most of her help from mom, a friend, Mary Tunstall, 14, and her 15-year-old brother Vince. She finds the trash on Monroe St. her biggest headache.

There are 47 houses that Ann must keep clean in the 1900 block of Lauretta Ave. This her first time on the job.

A student at Calverton Junior High, Ann wants to be a pediatric nurse. — EDITH HOUSE.

is almost in the heart of the black community.

"We wanted to bury her here because it is close by and convenient for visits. We had to bury her at another cemetery about six miles away."

Judge Evans' ruling only invalidates the racial policy of the Hillcrest Cemetery, but means that Mrs. Watson can now be reburied there should the Allens so desire.

Dr. Allen said there has been no family decision yet on this point.

The Allens are both well known physicians in this Anne Arundel County area, and long time residents as was Mrs. Watson who lived with them.

He is a Republican member of the House of Delegates, and minority whip in that chamber, first of his race to be elected from that county.

Dr. Allen, up for reelection this year, said he did not believe the suit would hurt his chances of being returned to office, though he faces formidable opposition in the Sept. 15 primary, and in the general election should he survive the early contest.

"I don't think it will reflect a great deal," he told the AFRO. "Everyone with whom I have talked, both black and white, is in complete accord with what I did."

Dr. Allen said there are marked growing tendencies in his area that all people must be treated fairly and equally.

Two members of the 1400 block of Argyle Ave., Roslyn Andrews and Esther Jones, danced and sang to the tunes of "I Can't Get Next To You," "Revolution," and "Psychedelic Shack, which closed a very enjoyable show.

Fentress to use phone campaigning

David Fentress, Republican candidate in the 4th Congressional District, announced Wednesday he is developing an electronic survey system designed to measure the views and attitudes of registered voters in his district.

Mr. Fenitress, who is Maryland's deputy insurance commissioner, explained;

"This project, which will begin in about two weeks opportunity to speak to will provide me with the opportunity to speak to practically every registered voter in the district between now and election and election day.

"Although it is physically impossible for me to engage personally in a conversation with each of these voters, every one will have an opportunity to hear me express my views and to feed back to me their comments.

"The system incorporates computer concepts with old fashioned conversation on the phone."

Basketball clinic here at rec centers

The Schaefer Brewing Company's touring summer basketball clinic, featuring Marques Haynes and the Fabulous Magicians, will be presented in Baltimore, August 10-14, in cooperation with the Baltimore City Bureau of Recreation.

The schedule for the two-hour clinics, all at 6 p.m. follows: Monday, August 12, Carver Vocational High, 2201 Presstman; Tuesday, August 11, Cherry Hill Jr. High, 2700 Seamon Ave.; Wednesday, August 12, John Eager Howard Jr. High, 2100 Brookfield Ave.; Thursday, August 13, Mergenthaler Vocational High, 2500 Hillen Road; Friday, August 14, Community College of Baltimore, 2901 Liberty Heights.

Marques Haynes, who is billed as "the world's greatest dribbler," founded the Fabulous Magicians in 1953 and built the team into an international favorite.

While the Magicians are all top players, they would not have gained worldwide acclaim without their hilarious routines, bagful of basketball tricks and creative high-jinks.

Haynes has played in nearly 6,000 games in his professional career, entertaining fans with his amazing dribbling, fantastic style and unorthodox shooting.

Youngsters will receive instruction in various aspects of basketball play; the Magicians will demonstrate the finer points with some comedy thrown in and Baltimore Neighborhood Basketball League teams will be selected to scrimmage the Magicians during the clinics.

AFRO NEWSBOY WINNERS — Winners of the AFRO Newsboy Contest met in the President's office on Monday morning to receive their prizes. In picture one, AFRO president, John Murphy, III, congratulates William Porter, Jr., first place winner and his father, William Porter, Sr. Father and son, along with a friend will visit Jamaica in August. In picture two, George Lee, John Eager Howard Jr. High School and attends John Wesley United Methodist Church.

The second place award of $300 went to Gilbert Nipper of the Northwest area with a total of 584,300 votes. Third place winner, Fatha Mohamed of the Northwest area with a total of 430,000 votes, received a $200 award for his fine efforts.

In fourth place is Michael Seey of Govans with 352,000 votes and $100.

The other 35 winners received prize money ranging from $10 to $50, in all, $1,500 and a trip to Jamaica was given away in prizes.

Although the title of the contest was "Newsboy", girls entered and some were big prize winners. Even some of the boys admitted somewhat shyly that their sisters helped them deliver papers.

Mr. Murphy grinned, "That's women power for you". He even advised some of the other newsboys to take their sisters along with them, since these youngsters made out so well.

Among the winners was a senior citizen, Mrs. Geneva Smith, 71 of the Southwest Area. She has been serving AFROs for three years in her area.

Mrs. Smith told us that an incident on Scott St. prompted her to start selling papers in her area.

A member of Leadenhall Baptist Church since 1948, Mrs. Smith is a 1917 graduate of Atlanta University. She was one of the $30 winners.

Mr. Murphy asked for ways to improve the contest. Mrs. Smith suggested that instead of calling it newsboy contest it should be re-named news carrier contest, since females do participate.

Another winner suggested that during the contest, each contestant should have his picture in the paper.

During this time, the president revealed a new plan for the contest. Instead of sending the first place winner to Jamaica, he will fly down to Florida to visit the New Disneyland that is planned for completion by next year.

The winner will also visit Cape Kennedy, which is approximately 30 miles from the new Disneyland.

Most of the youngsters were shy and just about speechless when the president talked with them.

He smiled, 'I know they have to open their mouths to sell papers."

Some of these youngsters sell up to 300 papers a week. Along with their sales are problems that they shared with the AFRO president.

The major problem that confronted most of them was collecting money from some neighbors.

Mr. Murphy showed concern about this problem and promised the group that he would look into the matter.

With $3,000 worth of prize money being distributed, the president asked the youngsters what they had planned for the money. Some are going to buy new clothes; some are planning for school; others are putting theirs in the bank.

39 AFRO newsboy winners meet company president

William Porter of Glen Burnie, grand prize winner of the AFRO Favorite Newsboy Contest, along with 38 other winners visited the office of the AFRO's President, John Murphy, III, where they received their prize money and a delightful conversation with the president.

William, who is 15 years old, has been an AFRO newsboy in Glen Burnie for the past two years. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs William H. Porter Sr. (Cora). Mr. Porter was present with his son to receive the prize.

William became the winner with 1,209,900 votes. As first prize winner, he will receive an all-expense paid trip to Jamaica for three and $100.

He is a 9th grade student at McArthur Jr. High School and attends John Wesley United Methodist Church.

August scorcher

Weather officials report that the week-end will see no end to the humid and torrid temperatures Baltimoreans have experienced the past five days.

As summer turns the corner into August (tomorrow) (Saturday, the 72 per cent humidity and mid-90 degree heat are expected to remain and extend through Sunday.

Strong, gusty winds will precede thunder storms Saturday evening as the thermometer rises to 95 by day and falls to go down below 75 by night.

Weather prophets also predict that August will witness many heat records broken with dry spells to add to the misery.
