Teen-age sweethearts make it on their second time around

By LULA MACKAY

Back in their high school days Charles H. Byrd and Rose Gwynn were sweethearts, and a half of a foursome that was practically inseparable.

Rose and Charles drifted apart, but the other couple are now the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Strothers of New York City.

* * *

Saturday the foursome was back together, and on the happiest of occasions, for the new Mrs. Rose Gwyn Wallace and Mr. Byrd were being married on this time around, and the Rev. Mr. Strothers was one of three clergymen officiating at one of the prettiest weddings of the season.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES H. BYRD were married in Baltimore, Saturday: Mrs. Byrd is the former Mrs. Rose Wallace.

The ceremony took place in the chapel of the Epworth United Methodist Church at three in the afternoon. Bishop Edgar Love, the Rev. Edson M. Amos, minister of Epworth Church and the Rev. Mr. Strothers were the officiants at the original double-ring ceremony devised by the three.

For her wedding Mrs. Wallace wore a deep rose satin dress, street length, and designs with yoke, bracelet-length sleeves and back panel of Chantilly lace. Her headpiece was a pink pouf and brief veil worn off the face. Wrist-length white gloves and pink hose and shoes completed her ensemble. She carried her mother's Bible topped with a bouquet of multi-colored posies.

Miss LaVerne Wallace was attendant for her mother. She wore a buttercup yellow and white lingerie dress, yellow shoes and headpiece, and carried a nosegay of tiny carnations.

John Ward, another of the high-school friends was best man for Mr. Byrd.

Lewis T. Gwynn gave his sister in marriage.

The wedding was witnessed by members of the families and a few intimate friends. A reception for several hundred guests began a half-hour later in the church hall, which was decorated with a profusion of flowers. Merelith Birch's Acombo provided the background music.

Joining the receiving line with the wedding party were Mesdames Elbert Strothers of New York, Andre Pitts, Henry Welcome, Ruth McNeil, Mary Gwynn Lewis, Louise Gwyn Williams, Helene Gwynn; Miss Elinor Bell and John Gwynn.

* * *

Among the out-of-town guests were:

Mrs. Fannie Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. Garliss Morse, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Baker, Mrs. Ethel Morse, Oliver Moss, Miss Mary Morse, Mr. and Mrs. Patillo, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Holmes, of New York City; Mr. and Mrs. James Green of Buffalo, N.Y.;

Mrs. Doris Tyler, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Caswell, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Stokes of Philadelphia; Miss Alma West, Miss Ruby Coleman, Mrs. Warrena Hannah, Miss Mildred Sharpe, Dr. G T. Woods and Mr. and Mrs. Lamont Gould of Washington;

Mr. and Mrs. James Archer, Chelltham, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Horace Morse, Richmond, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Steats, Milford, Del.; Mr. and Mrs. M. Froe, Columbus, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pazaurek, Salisbury, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gagner, Scranton Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Norris, Los Angeles, Calif.; and Mr. and Mrs. William Porter, Long Island, N.Y.

Rum, the great mixer swings best in summer

In its everyday use rum is considered the most versatile of social drinks, and because it blends so delightfully with fruits, fruit juices and liquers, it is especially valued as a summer thirst-quencher.

Today the consumer can choose from three basic types of rum — the light-bodied kind, of which the Puerto Rican rums are the prime example; the full-bodied dark rum typical of Jamaica; and the light-bodied, pungent and aromatic rum from Java.

* * *

The lighter rums also come from the Virgin Islands, Haiti, Santo Domingo, Mexico, Venezuela and other places. The full-bodied rums are usually associated with Trinidad, Barbados, Demerara (Guiana), Martinique and New England, in addition to Jamaica. Most areas can produce both light and full-bodied rums, but each locale is better known for its traditional type of rum.

Regardless of whether it is light or dark, each rum has an individual character depending upon the area from which it comes. For this reason, we describe rums as Puerto Rican, Jamaican, Cuban, and so on, to denote their character and flavor as well as their place of origin.

The largest-selling rums in America today are those made in Puerto Rico, followed by those of the Virgin Islands.

Because rum is a great "mixer," rum cocktails are moving up fast in popular appeal. For example, the Daiquiri — a blend of rum and lime juice — is rapidly overtaking the Manhattan as America's second most popular cocktail, not far behind the front-running Martini.

The Daiquiri is especially appealing to those who enjoy flavored drinks. Recognizing this fact, Ronrico, maker of the well-known Puerto Rican rum, has introduced a complete line of canned pre-mixed Daiquiris. These include the banana, peach, cherry, blackberry, strawberry, and apricot Daiquiri, as well as the classic Daiquiri itself.

Chilled in the refrigerator, the Daiquiris in their snap-top cans are available and totable as a can of beer. They are ideal for beach or picnic and are a real boon to the summer-time hostess who would like to serve rum drinks to her guests but up until now has been discouraged by the difficulty encountered in preparing and mixing tropical drinks.

For those who prefer the more exotic rum cocktails, Ronrico offers canned Zombies, Mai Tais, Pina Coladas, Rum Punches and Rum Sours. In all, there are 12 pre-mixed cocktails available and the consumer should have no problem in finding one or more to suit his or her particular taste.

TJD proclaims drug crusade

Marihuana, Is it addicting? Where are the latest findings about the Drug? Or, L.S.D. does it cause birth defects? And does Alcohol destroy the cells of the brainy

Answers to these and many, many more questions are being provided as several thousand youth and adults present the latest educational literature on various aspects of the total drug problem to their neighbors during the annual drug education crusade.

Sponsored by the Council of Alcohol-Drug Education, Youth Division, an independent, non-profit organization, the Crusade is the first state-wide effort ever attempted by the organization. The campaign reaches its high point during the period July 26th-August 2nd when a majority of the church and civic groups conduct their door to door educational Crusade.

Individuals and groups who are truly concerned about the problem and interested in doing something about it are urged to volunteer their services. Just one hour of your time, any day, any hour, is all that is asked.

* * *

Each volunteer will be provided a kit of educational materials, envelopes and an identification card. If working as an individual, the volunteer will be assigned approximately 15 homes in the immediate neighborhood. As a member of the group, the captain will have the responsibility of making the assignment.

Among the leaflets being distributed is one on "How Drugs Affect Your Driving". This is the latest information available on this subject... Heroin, L.S.D., Pep Pills, Alcohol, Glue Sniffing, and "What Drugs Are And What They Do" are also being made available.

All of the literature is free. This educational literature is presented to each person visited, regardless of their interest in the work the Crusade.
