SERVICE DEMANDED IN INNER CITY

80 Drivers Seek Taxi Franchises

Only a few blacks are now owners

A Group of 80 black cab drivers, all members of the American Association, Inc., have filed a petition for a hearing before the Public Service Commission to determine if Baltimore will get 100 new cabs on the streets to fill, what they call, an ever increasing need to service the working inner-city residents.

If granted, the permits will be the first such franchises issued in this city since 1946 when the GI Veterans Cab Company was formed to supply jobs for World War II veterans.

Granting of the franchise is dependent upon whether the three-man Commission will find there is a "need to service the working inner-city residents" and that present cab service is insufficient.

When the request for hearing was first made known, Charles G. Griffin, president of Teamsters Local 426, fired a letter off to the Commission in which he stated:

* * *

"I have learned that a company known as the American Association, Inc., has filed an application with Public Service Commission for issuance of permits for additional cabs in Baltimore City.

"Our union, representing the drivers of Sun and Yellow Cab Companies are very, very disturbed that such a matter should come up for consideration by the Commission.

"We feel that you know that the city does not need additional permits and that because of severe shortage of drivers that exists at this time, that the issuance of permits to anyone else would merely be trading drivers who are already

Asked $2500 for Clark's return East

By ELIZABETH M. OLIVER

The AFRO learned early this week that a man who California bondsman offered to return John Clark, the local Black Panther Party leader, to Baltimore for a certain sum of money.

According to Nelson Kandel, attorney for the organization in what has become known now as the "John Clark Kidnap Affair," the offer made last week-end was do include the amount of the bail Clark was alleged to have "skipped" in Los Angeles County plus plane fare spent to come to said he was the son of a Baltimore and wisk him back to California.

Mr. Kandel said, "Mean- and other local members of time, while Paul Coates the organization were hurriedly trying to raise the money, they received another call from a man who identified himself as Joun Valdez Jr., son of the man who was supposed to have been in Baltimore to take Clark back.

"The caller said he could not go through with ransom negotiations because he had persons at the FBI and been in touch with some they told him to surrender Clark to the California courts or suffer the consequences."

Mr. Kandel quoted the Panther leaders as saying the man who claimed he was the son of the California bondsman asked them for $1,500 plus the plane fares, over $2,000.

Also coming as news is the information the Panther Party claims it has uncovered up the fact that the California persons were in Baltimore two weeks consulting with local police and other law enforcement authorities on "how to nab John Clark."

The incident finally came July 30 at the courthouse and startled Baltimore black citizens to disbelief that such an act could occur in such a mysterious manner in the very halls of justice.

Black Panther spokesmen also claim that the Baltimore indictments against Clark had been deliberately set in for trial to set the stage for the "abduction of John Clark."

States Attorney Howard Cardin and local police department officials deny any knowledge of the Panthers' claims.

They say they never saw any identification of the alleged bondsman, John Valdez, nor any papers he may have had on Clark's charges in California nor his "skipping bail" there.

Drug hearing for Kennedy clan youths

BARNSTABLE, Mass. (UPI) — Robert F. Kennedy Jr. and Robert Sargent Shriver III, with family members including their senator-uncle by their side, were given a juvenile court hearing Thursday on marijuana charges.

"The experience has not been a pleasant one for them," said Shriver's father, the former U.S. ambassador to France.

The suntanned but solemn-faced boys, both 16 appeared for about 45 minutes before Judge Henry L. Murphy in the juvenile session of District Court on charges of illegal possession of marijuana and conspiracy to violate the state's drug laws.

The proceedings were private, as required by Massachusetts law in juvenile cases. Disposition of the cases was not known, and may never be known.

* * *

Kennedy was accompanied by his mother Ethel, his uncle, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and a lawyer Robert Clark Jr. of Brockton.

R. Sargent Shriver Jr. and his wife, the former Eunice Kennedy, were with their son.

Young Kennedy was wearing a cast on his right wrist which was broken last month when he fell from a tree while trying to retrieve a pet falcon. The bird was recovered two days later on July 10, the day the two boys allegedly were involved in the drug incident.

After the proceedings, the elder Shriver said "This is, of course, the first time they have been involved in a court hearing and the experience has not been a-

Name-the-monkey winners next week

Rhyming names, royal names, long names and short names.

Hundreds of names have been submitted in the AFRO Name the Monkey contest which closed midnight Tuesday.

Young AFRO readers, 16 years of age and under, entered the contest to name the two 10-month-old Diana monkeys who live at the Druid Hill Park Children's Zoo.

Next week the AFRO zoo reporter will pick the winners.

Mobutu receives VIP treatment

WASHINGTON

When two great men meet, despite the language barrier, there can only be harmony and understanding between them.

Such was the case at a reception given by Dr. James E. Cheek, president of Howard University and Mrs. Cheek at their home for Lt. Gen. Joseph Desire Mobutu, president of the Congo and Mrs. Mobutu, Tuesday evening.

The meeting was termed significant in that the reception held by the Cheeks was the first in a black community. There has never been a black head of state, while in Washington on a State Visit, whose program included a reception at the home of a prominent black family.

A dent, though small, has been made in the international field and many viewers termed it as a welcome, long overdue occasion.

As a token of goodwill and friendship the Congolese President presented Dr. Cheek with the Order of Zaire, one of the highest decorations in that country. It ranks first after the Order of the Leopard.

Judge raises juvenile age

U.S. District Court Chief Judge R. Dorsey Watkins ordered today (Friday), "all those between 16 and 18 years of age when arrested, except in the case of capital offenses, who are currently confined in city jail and other sites of incarceration in Baltimore City awaiting trial be released to the juvenile authorities as expeditiously as possible."

The ruling came after he handed down a finding setting the juvenile age up from 16 years to 18 years.

A reporter boarded the train carrying the Notre Dame team to the Southern Methodist game. To get a new slant on a story, he talked to the student manager. "I understand," he said, "that you carry a chaplain to pray for the team. Would you mind introducing me to him?"

"Be glad to. Which one do you want, the offensive chaplain or the defensive?"

Our Baltimore Nixons, Agnews Are Not Related To The Others

By ELIZABETH M. OLIVER

Two interesting Baltimoreans were "household words" in their own homes long before their namesakes, President Richard Nixon and Vice-President Spiro T. Agnew, came along.

They are Marshall Agnew, age 76, a retired contractor and deacon of Union Baptist Church, 1005 Wolfe St., and Roosevelt Nixon, 44, a World War II Navy veteran, now gentleman farmer, country club owner and East Baltimore liquor store proprietor.

Both say they are not related to the two men who are the chief executives of the United States, have not studied law nor acquired any new watches lately.

Mr. Agnew, fondly known as "Marsh" to close friends, hails from Miami, Florida, the home of his father, the late Will Agnew who enjoyed singular popularity in his own community "way back there."

Our Baltimore Mr. Agnew has been a widower for 10 years.

* * *

Our Nixon who bears the name of another U.S. president, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, is a Democrat, a realtor and an unusual businessman whose Glenwood Country Club Rte. 32, West Friendship, Md. is completely filled up with engagements through Labor Day.

Owner of a 140-acre estate which is 20 miles from Baltimore, he resides on the land and raises grain for the 17 horses in the country club stables.

Mr. Nixon's wife, Mrs. Mildred Nixon, is an accountant of some note but is home now, "kept pretty busy" with their two sons, Reginal, 16, a June, 1970 Park School graduate who will begin studying City Planning and Architecture at Lake Forest College, Ill. in September and Randall, 13, a Park School 9th grader.

* * *

The Baltimore-area phone book lists 70 Nixons, none of them with the first name of Richard.

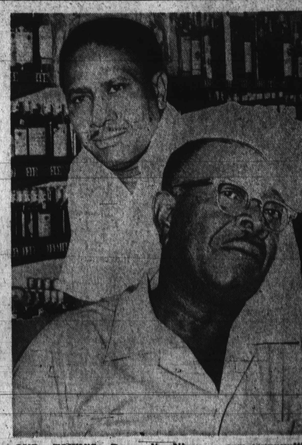
The Spiro T. Agnews, once of Baltimore County, are not among the 10 Agnews in the local phone register.

However, Mrs. Helen Agnew, a B. and O. Railroad employee, is listed and her son is Wayne Agnew, age 11, a School 69, 8th Grader.

Robert L. Agnew, also listed, said he would like to have his photo in the AFRO but hesitated until he asked his wife.

Dr. Hewes D. Agnew resides near Johns Hopkins Hospital in the 1600 block McElderry St. area between Caroline and Bond Sts., where 22 other medics are located.

JAMES CROCKETT — Chairman of the Board of Directors for the American Association, Inc., a corporation of black cab drivers, seeking a franchise to set up a new cab company.



OUR TOWN'S Roosevelt Nixon (above), businessman and gentleman farmer and (below) Marshall Agnew, church deacon, enjoy prestige in their own communities as private citizens, have never "run" for political office nor "stood" on any platform.
