Should sex education be barred from Maryland public schools? This explosive issue is the subject for Channel 67's "Primary Question" program today at 8:30 p.m.

The subject is the fifth in this nine-program series of live debates between two teams of Baltimore area college students. The programs expose viewers to highly controversial issues and a wide range of viewpoints.

Light House keeping

Career girls have long set the pace in general all-over fashionableness in this country. It could be that because they are in the heart of things, whether business or play, that they develop a knowhow of getting the most for their dollar and of having a sixth sense of what adds to their chic. Now, with assists from their companies, not only do the business concerns stand to improve images, but their feminine employees will share the boost that comes with that feeling of knowing they are putting their best foot forward.

When the First National Bank branches put their ladies into smart blue jumpers, six or so months ago, and had the sagacity to eliminate too much of the sameness by having the blouses variable, it struck a great note with the girls. Wall Street had long had their girls in uniform, and of course, the airlines began from the start with smartly designed ensembles.

• • •

A new $3.5 million stewardess ensemble, which features a longer look will be introducted by United Air Lines late this month. The wardrobe, designed by Hollywood coturier Jean Louise, will include as its basic garment a red jumper which will come to the top of the knee, and a matching red midi-length great-coat which will cover the knees. The ensemble will be worn with shiny black boots.

What's new? If you have adopted your makeup mirror as your best friend, get ready to have it replaced by a more efficient one.

The new makeup mirror has four light moods, one each for day, office, evening and home.

The mirror uses a new lamp that reproduces a true pure north light reproduction at any dial.

Fashionette: Skirt lengths go down for fall, but heads go high hat for the new season.

• • •

Crowns are tall, taller, tallest. Hats will rise upward to balance the lengthened skirts and all types of brims, wide and sculptured, will emphasize the stretched out look of the body beneath, says the Millinery institute of America.

• • •

The Beauty Bit: From Leslie Uggam's beauty tips comes this on selecting shades of makeup.

Miss Uggams says the biggest problem lies in knowing which shades are right for you. Her skintone is reddish brown, or what some would call bronze. She has dark brown eyes and hair.

She says that sometimes she uses a little moisture lotion for a skin covering and a touch of tranparent powder. Other times she uses a cake-type foundation in a light bronze shade.

• • •

For added glow on special occasions the Star says she uses an amber blusher brushed lightly over her cheekbones. Her eye makeup is black except for shadow, and here she alternates between emerald green and various shades of beige, according to mood and what she's wearing. She likes beige-pink lipsticks, slightly on the brown side.

And the brillant Miss Uggams adds the economy tip: "Go easy on your pocketbook and buy small sizes of cosmetics until you discover your right shades.

Recipe of the Week: For a new bread thrill try these quick made, delightfully different rolls.

Use 1 cup finely crushed potato chips, ½ cup sliced or sliced almonds, ½ cup grated Parmesan cheese, 2 cans (8 oz. each) Refrigerated Quick Snowflake or Butterflake Dinner Rolls, and ½ cup Italian salad dressing.

Grease 12 muffin cups. Combine potato chips, almonds and cheese; set aside.

Separate dough from each cup into 18 snowflake or 12 butterflake pieces. Dip each piece in salad dressing; coat both sides with potato chip mixture. Stand 3 snowflake or 2 butterflake pieces on edge in each cup (be sure rolls stand on edge so they fan out as they bake). Sprinkle rolls with any remaining potato chip mixture.

Bake at 375 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes until golden brown. Serve hot.

Reheat, loosely wrapped in foil, at 375 degrees for 5 to 10 minutes until warm.

To make ahead, prepare, cover and refrigerate up to 2 hours before baking. Bake as directed.

A home recipe Italian salad dressing may be substituted for bottled Italian dressing.

Economy meals for good eating

Today the time is ripe for bringing home a good supply of fresh tomatoes. Why waste a minute telling how juicy and succulent tomatoes are.

Use 1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin, ¼ cup cold water, 2½ cups fresh or canned tomatoes, 1 teaspoon minced onion, ½ small bay leaf, ½ teaspoon sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, Pepper, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ½ cup finely chopped cucumber and ½ cup finely chopped celery.

Soften gelatin in the water. Cook tomatoes, onion, and bay leaf — about 20 minutes for fresh tomatoes, 10 for canned. Press through a sieve and measure 1¾ cups (if not enough, add boiling water). Add hot, sieved tomatoes to gelatin and stir until gelatin is dissolved.

Season with sugar, salt, pepper, and lemon juice. Chill. When gelatin mixture begins to stiffen, add cucumber and celery. Mix well. Pour into a mold or pan rinsed in cold water. Chill until firm. Serve with salad dressing on lettuce or other salad greens.

Economically speaking, is how completely usable they are; only the stems are waste.

Even tomatoes with slight irregularities can be used, sliced or chopped. Simply cut out cat'faces (hardened areas around the blossom end) and healed growth cracks; don't worry about lopsidedness, or slight roughness. But avoid tomatoes with worm damage, soft and discolored areas, and puffy tomatoes.

Tomatoes have tremendous versatility. They dress up salads and sandwiches, make great soups and sauces. They show up in the best of main dishes: chicken and rice with tomato, meat loaf, Spanish liver, fish tomato stew, and countless Italian and Creole dishes. And don't forget that raw tomatoes, so rich in Vitamin C, are outstanding all alone. Any time is tomato time.

Here's a day's menu for good eating using tomatoes and other foods that are plentiful and reasonably priced:

BREAKFAST
Orange Juice
Pancakes
Milk
Coffee or Tea

LUNCH
Vegetable Soup
Hamburger on Bun
Fresh Plum
Milk
Coffee or Tea

DINNER
Jellied Tomato Salad
Barbecued Chicken
Baked Potato
Spinach
Ice Cream
Milk
Coffee or Tea

This recipe for a cool summer salad, Jellied Tomato Salad, is for the dinner meal.

Use 1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin, ¼ cup cold water, 2½ cups fresh or canned tomatoes,
