139 Blocks Ready For Clean Block Check

Other kids could not get support

Nearly 200 blocks signed up for the 36th AFRO Clean Block Campaign but only 139 blocks completed their registration before the deadline.

In many of the blocks youngsters desiring to rid their surroundings of litter and filth, met with discouragement and opposition, they just simply could not get any support from the neighbors.

In some blocks that have 30 to 50 houses, three to four people are the only ones out sweeping and keeping up the block, but they are determined to carry out the job started, according to the report of the Clean Block director, Mrs. Jeanette B. Leath.

* * *

She continued in a message to all citizens, "It seems to me a neighbor would be proud to know that there are those in the block that care."

If each neighbor would just keep the front and rear of his home clean, there would be little work for the cleanup to do.

How can you not help these young people, when they could be destroying property instead of respecting it.

I see some people sitting on steps that are filthy. The pavement is covered with trash when it would take only a few minutes of their time to sweep the sidewalks and wash the steps. The air would be much cleaner and healthier, Mrs. Leath observed.

* * *

Recent registrations include:

1300 E. Fayette St. Madeline German, captain; Pamela Lunkin, co-captain; Mrs. Mamie Coleman, advisor.

Other Workers are: Sandra Oakley, Debra Oakley, Karen Oakley, Savon Oakley, Cynthia Coleman, Brenda Coleman, Tina Craddy, Cornell Jackson, Merkase Goodwood, Franky Goodwood, Marshall Best, Hermon Best, Kenny Best, Carl Oxykemy, Priscilla Jones, Calvin Jyles, Pamela Lunkin, Chester Yergon, Clemon Yergon, Elaine Yergon, Phyliss Oxykemy, Benny Coleman, Gwendolyn Jackson.

Clean Block Sidelights

By Michele McRE

The August 7 meeting of the AFRO Clean Blockers was officially started when the Clean Block director Mrs. Jeanette B. Leath, asked the representatives from the various blocks to stand and recite the "Lord's Prayer."

The "Clean Block Lady" told representatives of new blocks how happy she was to see them. Mrs. Leath also distributed movie jamboree tickets for the Apollo Theatre which will be held Thursday morning at 9:30 a.m.

An explanation was given about the distribution of trash containers to each block. Mrs. Leath told the workers that because of the great demand for the cans, only one would be delivered per block this year.

* * *

Clean Blockers were visited this week by Ralph W. Holmes, representative from Humble Oil Company who promises 10 trash cans to help with trash container problem in various blocks. Mr. Holmes also gave small tokens to the children.

The workers were reminded how urgent it was for them to turn in all of their registration papers so they would be fully registered.

Later, during the meeting, we were entertained by residents of three Clean Blocks. The first to entertain was the 1600 block of Braddish Ave. "Crackerjack," was danced to by Yvonee Wilson, Jan Brown, Francine Moore and Thomas Brown.

Linda Garner and Patricia Garner sang, "Please Make the Love Go Away." "I Found That Girl" was sung by Thomas Brown, Yvonee Wilson, Jan Brown "Mother Popcorn" was danced to by the three cutest Go-Go dancers, Yvonne Wilson, Jan Brown and Francine Moore, who were wearing bathing suits with silver singles made by Jeanette Gadner, co-captain of block.

Last, we were entertained by residents of the 1300 block of Argile Ave., Sharon Graves, Darlene Allen Sheila Graves, James Graves, Gary Walker, Anthony Allen, Willie Walker, and Junior Richardson who was the lead singer for the group. The group sang and dance to the tunes of "Puppet Man," "Revolution," and "Signed, Sealed, Delivered."

Warning to victorious Blockers

Victory reports in the 36th annual AFRO Clean Block campaign are due weekly.

The victory report, when properly filled out, provides a detailed account of the work done in each block since the campaign began, Mrs. Jeanette B. Leath, director said.

The reports must be filled out and either mailed or brought to the Friday morning meetings, held at the John Eager Howard Recreation Center, 2100 Brookfield Avenue, or they may be brought to the AFRO Clean Block Office, 628 N. Eutaw St.

Blanks for the victory reports were included with Clean Block material received by all captains at the beginning of the drive.

Just in case some captains have misplaced or used all the victory report forms, more are available at the Friday morning meeting.

Captains who may have difficulty filling out the report should call upon their adult advisors for assistance.

Frank Ellis resigns CAA director job

The city Hall office of Mayor Thomas J. D'Alesandro 3rd received Thursday from Frank J. Ellis his resignation from his $25,000 post as director of Baltimore's Community Action Agency.

Mayor D'Alesandro, however, is out of the city and will return Wednesday, an administrative aide said he would advise him of the anticipated resignation prior to his return.

The aide said the mayor had no particular person in mind for the Ellis post, but would wait for recommendations from the CAA Commission, headed by Clarence W. Blount, now a 5th District State Senate candidate.

Commission recommendations are not expected by way of protocol until the mayor's official acceptance of the resignation.

* * *

Mr. Ellis had been under suspension without pay lowing a grand jury indictment charging him with forgery, larceny larceny after trust involving some $5,000 in riot relief funds.

He was later convicted and sentenced in federal court to serve two years in prison. Having strongly denied the charges all along, Mr. Ellis is now free on bail pending outcome of an appeal.

Meanwhile, Linwood M. Ivey, associate director, was named acting CAA director, and has been running the agency since the Ellis suspension. His name is expected to be among whatever set is sent to the mayor.

* * *

Mayor D'Alesandro also faces another commission replacement, that of the late Charles R. Law, mortician, to the Civic Center Commission.

The mayor's aide said Thursday he had not given the matter much consideration since Mr. Law's death a few weeks ago.

Reason, he said, was that little attention has been given during this vacation time period to filling vacancies on any city boards and commissions. — MAX JOHNSON

Scout training set for senior citizens

Andrew "Boots" Johnson, district executive, Constellation District of the Boy Scouts of America, will conduct a six weeks leadership training program at the Metropolitan Senior Citizens Center.

The sessions beginning August 19 will be held each Wednesday at the Center located at 1110 St. Paul St.

The classes will be the second series of training for the elderly to prepare them as active leaders in the Boy Scouout and Girl Scout Troops planned to start in the fall. Sponsored by the Center the Troops will be run completely by the membership of the agency.

The scout program will be open to inner city boys and girls. Many of the facilities of the Center which are ordinarily used by senior citizens will be geared to the youth program.

According to Leon M. Woolf, executive director, many men and women from the Center's membership plan to volunteer their services as scout leaders. He said that this type of programing at a senior center is a completely new innovation in the field of gerontology.

Mr. Woolf explained through this program many retired persons will be able to share with youth the experiences, knowledge and skills they have acquired in their years of employment.

The Metropolitan Center is the pilot project for the pending Waxter Center for Senior Citizens. The new municipal complex to be located in the Mt. Vernon area will be administered by Baltimore City Hospitals.

Grant to aid 400 school dropouts

The U.S. Department of Labor announced this week approval of an urban Neighborhood Youth Corps program at Baltimore to give work experience, skill training and education to 400 school dropouts.

Regional Manpower Administrator William R. Curtis said the department had approved a $1,225,180 contract with the Community Action Agency of Baltimore to provide opportunities for 400 out-of-school enrollees 16 to 17 years old.

The redesigned program calls for the disadvantaged young boys and girls to have an opportunity for skill training plus gaining work experience on the job.

* * *

New entrants to the programs will receive allowances equivalent to 75 percent of the state Manpower Development and Training Act allowance for a youth without dependents which is currently $48 a week.

Youths who are heads of households will receive 100 percent of the allowance plus $5 per dependent.

Blair reveals assets, challenges Mandel

C. Stanely Blair, Republican candidate for governor of Maryland, on Thursday filed a the worth statement with the office of the Secretary of State in Annapolis and challenged Gov. Marvin Mandel to follow his lead.

Mr. Blair and his wife filed a notorized joint statement of net worth showing assests of $163,746 and liabilities of $7,359.

Their principal assets include their 123-acre farm and home valued at $59,000; cash deposits of $34,165 and other real estate valued at $12,000. Stock holdings total $890.

In addition, Mr. Blair's wife listed personal assets including $25,500 in savings and loan accounts; stock in TWW Inc., valued at $5,400; stock in Chris-Craft Industries valued at $325; and life estate in 40 shares of Whiteforord Packing Co. Inc., with an annual income of $6,000 to $10,000.

"I feel very strongly that anyone holding the high office of governor of Maryland should not personally benefit from that office, Mr. Blair said.

The former Maryland Secretary of State, who made copies of his net worth statement available to the press, said the voters of Maryland are entitled to know everything about the men seeking the governorship.

"A man who has something to hide should not be governor of this state," he asserted.

Mr. Blair said the incumbent governor had publicly stated that he would bare his finances if elected. However, after his election by the Maryland General Assembly, Gov. Mandel reneged on his promise, he said.

Instead Gov. Mandel filed a statement of net worth with the office of Secretary of State with orders that it was not to be made public, Mr. Blair stated.

Candidate says blacks needed at policy levels

John J. Douglass, a black Democratic candidate for the House of Delegates in the 3rd District, charged this week that a communication gap exists between the people and the General Assembly that must be corrected.

One correction, he said, is that black citizens have thorough representation in all policy making positions at all levels of government.

Here is some more of what Mr. Douglass said in a position paper:

"As a citizen, parent and teacher, I am concerned about the crises in our social environment, in the decay of our city, in the failure of our schools, in the dissent and unrest among our young people and in the growing polarization between our black and white citizens.

"I ask the citizens to face the seventies with me in presenting solutions for these problems.

"I am quite confident that there is a segment of black and white voters, in the 3rd District who are willing to consolidate their efforts in electing people who will provide the thorough representation that is so desperately needed in order that the seventies will be hailed as productive and prosperous years for all of our citizens."
