sonal conversations on the phones while citizens wait to be served.

In addition, AFRO reporters have called to the attention of the various clerks the misspelled or illegible words entered on the record.

All protests as to conditions in the Court of Common Pleas have "done no good" thus far.

Therefore, Paul Chester's running for the office is a service to the black community.

Happily, Mr. Chester comes before the citizens with the highest qualifications, superior to any other candidate.

Mr. Chester has an AB was graduated from Morgan State College and has degree from Howard University, a Webster degree from Columbia University and a law degree from the University of Baltimore, studied at Johns Hopkins University.

He is now a chemistry teacher at Northwestern High School. A veteran of World War II he served over seas and in the capacity of regimental administration with the Army.

From an old East Baltimore family, he is a member and former trustee of Waters AME Church, the NAACP, American Federation of Teachers Local 340 and the East Baltimore Old Timers Club.

His wife, Mrs. Georgeanna McMechan Chester, is head of the department of music at Edmondson High School. They have been married 28 years.

Their daughter, Miss Paula Chester, is his campaign treasurer and music teacher at School No. 95.

Mr. Chester's hobbies include golf and just this past Saturday he won first place in the Third Flight at the Teachers Scotch Colonial Club Annual Golf Tournament held at Pine Ridge Golf Course. An avid golf, he is often seen at the course at 5 or 6 a.m.

Developing further skills through hobbies Mr. Chester has mastered the game of chess and photography. His unusual portraits and landscapes "say something," he says, because he uses the camera "for the love of it."

Campaign literature given to citizens lately is uniquely designed and "gets the message over" as to his battle to become clerk of the Court of Common Pleas.

However, what few persons know is that the Chester family alone is responsible for campaign expenses. They are all just that dedicated.

Mr. Chester spends every day and night personally visiting businesses whose if Court of Common Pleas. "is the only court which takes our money but won't hire black citizens."

Mrs. Chester told the AFRO, "The expense is almost unbelievable "doing what we have to do."

"If each person who has ever obtained a business licenses come through the Court of Common Pleas. "is to marry from the Marriage License Bureau, would give us just $1, we could make it."

the flaming second floor.

In the fall, Mrs. Diggs suffered a broken hip but she was also severely burned over the entire upper part of her body while trying to locate her children.

Funeral rites for the children were held at Ht. Calvary Cemetery last week. Final arrangements for Mrs. Diggs have not been completed.

A spokesman at Provident Hospital told the AFRO that Sonya the four-year-old daughter of the dead woman is still confined to the hospital but will be discharged "very soon" to her father.

preliminary hearing and or presentment to the grand jury.

"The preliminary hearing is important in that there can come information (if any) as to the charges and if the state indeed has evidence that the suspect committed the crime. Next the grand jury should hear the evidence.

"These steps should be taken within a day or two not six weeks later."

Judge Watts said he granted the release on the petition of Legal Aid attorneys who placed them before him in writs of habeas corpus.

The petition set forth facts that revealed one youth age 17, arrested in July, was represented by no lawyer and was accorded no preliminary hearing.

The teenager was also held under $7,500 bail automatically set for the charge of robbery.

Meantime, the youth waited in Baltimore City Jail with adult suspects and without a preliminary hearing nor presentment to the grand jury.

Hoover suspension sought over King

CHICAGO (UPI) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover should be suspended for trying to "white mail" the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the Rev. Jesse L. Jackson says.

Jackson, head of Operation Breadbasket of the SCLC, held a news conference Monday about an article published in Time Magazine.

The article says King, late head of the SCLC, met with Hoover in 1964 and was confronted with wiretap transcriptions revealing alleged extramarital activities by King.

Jackson called on President Nixon to suspend Hoover as director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and demanded that Hoover's "fitness for holding office" be reviewed by:

The attorney general and the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division; a panel of black jurists and lawmakers; eminent civil rights leaders; and a group of black and white psychiatrists.

"We contend that Mr. Hoover has stooped to the lowest rungs of viciousness and maliciousness in his underhanded dissemination of information regarding a deceased man, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who committed his life and finally gave the last full measure of devotion to the cause of social justice and advancement of racially and economically disinherited."

Jackson said he did not know about a meeting between King and Hoover and "even if it was true it's irrelevant because Dr. King's contribution to his people was not one of sexual prowess but one of commitment to liberation."

Jackson charged Hoover was guilty of "complicity in a plot designed in essence to 'whisemail,' as formerly in 'blackmail', and to intimidate Dr. King so as to prevent him from carrying out his civil rights activities.

"Mr. Hoover's belated dissemination of information regarding a dead man who can no longer defend himself constitutes an incredible sordidness and unfairness with reference to Dr. King.

"It was designed to hurt and humiliate the innocent survivors of the deceased, including the universally loved Mrs. Coretta Scott King and her young children, and the already heavily aggrieved and noble parents, Dr. and Mrs. Martin Luther King Sr."

Jackson said Hoover's alleged revelations "reveal the dangerous quality of unaccountability and actualized potentiality for tyranny in that surreptitiously gathered data on intimate matters not relevant to national security have been and still are being collected by Mr. Hoover's bureau with his knowledge."

Jackson charged that "the sexual proclivities of white men of public prominence have never been so detailed by the FBI" and described Hoover's interest as pointing to a "peeping-Tomism interest of the white male in black sexuality, especially as it concerns the intimate, bedroom activities of the black male."

The Clifton Wainwright Funeral Home is handling arrangements. After 5 p.m. today (Friday) the body will be on view at the church.

Mr. Wainwright was a lifetime member of Morning Star and onetime Sunday School teacher.

Burial will be Sunday in White Haven, Md.

Frank W. Wainwright

Funeral services for Frank Wilmer Wainwright will be held 12:30 p.m. Saturday at Morning Star Baptist Church, 1063 W. Fayette St.

Mr. Wainwright, member of an old Baltimore family, was 58, and lived at 5205 Liberty Heights Ave. He was a government employee.

Born in Baltimore, Mr. Wainwright was the son of the late Martha Philips Wainwright and Stephen Wainwright. He was a graduate of Dunbar and Carver High School and held diplomas from Air Force Schools.

He was employed by the department of Defense at Department of Defense at Ft. Meade, and was up for promotion when he became ill a month ago.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lena Wainwright and six children.

They are: Frank, Ralph, Berkeley and Levin Wainwright and Mrs. Miriam Chavis and Mrs. Gertrude Hughes.

Also surviving are four sisters, Mrs. Katherine Long, Mrs. Gertrude Shands, Mrs. Alma Ferguson and Mrs. Lillie Harris; and five brothers, Thomas, George, Eccleston, Golbert and Clifton Wainwright.

Also surviving are nine grandchildren.

—30 State agencies

(FROM PAGE 1)

Department of Chesapeake Bay Affairs; Department of Game and Inland Fish; and the Budget and Fiscal Planning Agency.

There are 32,432 state Commission report. Of this number 25,179 or 78 per cent are black. Number 266 employees are listed as Oriental, American Indian or Spanish surnamed.

Of the black work force, 48 per cent are employed in unskilled jobs as compared with only 13 percent of the white workers.

Only 17 per cent of the black are categorized as managers professional (the largest category) as compared with 27 per cent of the whites employed. Of the 266 other minority employees, 206 (77 per cent) are categorized as professionals.

The next largest category of employees is office and clerical. This category includes 24 per cent of the white work force — but only 15 per cent of the blacks.

Black males constitute only 40 per cent of the total black workforce, while their white counterparts make up 57 per cent of the white work force — a difference of 17 per cent, the report says.

Black employment is singularly concentrated in one department. The new Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, combining all of its agencies, employs 34 per cent of the total work force. However, 54 per cent of the blacks are employed in this department.

The report continues, 3,623 black people (92 per cent of those working for Health and Mental Hygiene) work in hospitals or institutions and 78 per cent of those are in unskilled jobs. These unskilled 2,812 black employees constitute almost 40 per cent of the total black work force.

In conclusion, the report says, 14 per cent of the black employees work in six state colleges (Morgan, Bowie, Coppin, Salisbury, Frostburg, and Towson).

Of all the black professionals employed by the State, 36 per cent are working in Morgan, Bowie, and Coppin, the three predominantly black colleges, the report concludes.

The University of Maryland, the State's fourth largest employer, was not included in the Commission study.

Cemetery announces new vets' program

Spokesmen for Arbutus Memorial Park announced this week that the cemetery will provide a free grave for every honorably discharged veteran of the United States Armed Services for a limited time.

A special section containing 2,000 burial places has been set aside as a Garden of Honor and will be dedicated to the memory of those who have served their country.

Al Carpey, special consultant to the cemetery, said the offer is being made because Veterans' cemeteries in the area as well as elsewhere in the country, are almost filled to capacity.

The management of Arbutus, Sulphur Spring and Shelbourne Roads, believes that each veteran is entitled to a free grave.

Veterans' wives and their minor children can also be protected under a separate program.

And for, through family connections, a veteran is entitled to a plot in Arbutus anyhow, he may still be buried in it without normal costs, or the family may elect to bury him in the special section set aside for veterans.

Persons interested in the program are advised to contact the cemetery by telephone, 242-2700, or in person.

velopment as for recreation.

"I understand that centers in Baltimore were to receive $8,000 each.

"When the guidelines changed, the council talked things over and decided that what they wanted most was to start a store, since one of the merchants in the neighborhood for a long time had been exploiting people."

"We waited for nine months before any money came, and finally we got some after we heard that they were about to send back $2,500 and went up to press our plan," Mr. Spriggs explained.

Because most of the neighbors feel that Miss Gaver was too dedicated to please the CAA hierachy, according to Mr. Spriggs, they are circulating a petition in support of her move for re-instatement into her job.

Last week, Miss Gaver was relieved of her duties, neighbors believe, because she insisted on giving away free lunches to adults when they were intended for deprived children in the area.

Miss Gaver was quoted by sources as saying she would not refuse to give any hungry person a lunch whether he was a child or not. She reportedly followed her own views in the matter and continued to distribute free lunches to adults after ordered to desist by her superiors.

An agency spokesman, however, said reasons for Miss Gaver's dismissal "go back many months and include a variety of actions."

In a letter of dismissal to the counsellor, Wendell Wright, head of CAA activities on the East side, told Miss Gaver she was being dismissed because of "insubordination to your supervisors, negligence in performance of your duties, and other violations of agency policies and conduct detrimental to agency programs."

"The poverty politicians have had it in for her ever since she and five others raised the question of where money intended for the poor was going when she was at MUND," Mr. Spriggs told the AFRO.

The ousted counsellor herself believes this to be is one for which the federal government appropriated $600,000 through the State Department of Education.

"We did not know the money was available until two weeks before the program was scheduled to begin, Mrs. Eleanor Snyder, nutritionist in the City Department of Health, told the AFRO.

"All our arrangements had to be made on a crash basis, and what we tried to do was devise a program that would not only provide a nutritious lunch for poor children, but would also help improve their eating habits and their appreciation for a clean and well ordered environment," the nutritionist continued.

"That is why it is important that the ingredients include two ounces of meat — a variety of cold cuts — bread, butter or margarine, two servings of either fruit or vegetables and a carton of milk," Mrs. Snyder explained.

"The thing that would help in future would be more notice from an agency with the money that it is available," she concluded.

Willis Rogers, fiscal officer with the City Department of Health, explained that the school lunch program was split between bidders for the contract by the Board of Estimates because ABC Caterers, the low bidder with three tenths of a cent less than the next highest, was regarded as too small to take care of the entire program.

The next highest bidder was ARA Services which is a nationwide organization, according to Mr. Rogers.

"The Board decided to split the contract and to permit ABC to service the east side of town and ARA to serve the west side," he said.

Costs paid for each lunch by the Department, designated by the State Board of Education to administer the program, is 59 cents. This includes a two per cent built in profit and costs of packaging and delivery to 174 centers across the city.

Also to be figured into the costs of the program is a certain amount as salaries of those in the City Department of Health who administer the program.

The lunches are distributed not only from CAA centers, but also from locations of the Model Cities Agency, the Department of Recreation and Parks, the Department of Education Community Schools and the Md. Food Committee which operates through churches.

One official told the AFRO that it is hoped that the free lunch program will supplement the Public School system's lunch program because the latter has been expanded from 5,300 to 8,300, a number that the system thinks is close to its capacity.

—New black

Maryland black students require special effort and attention in order to help the university provide for them the educational services for which the state and nation are paying.

It is alleged that the university has recruited its freshmen largely from the Maryland counties. If this is true, should it not also recruit students from the Maryland cities?

The university must no longer delay improving its image among the black students within the State of Maryland. I believe that the first responsibility of the university is to the high school graduates in Maryland. If Maryland black high school graduates do not apply for admission to the university, the university has failed to function in its proper role as the state university.

Another matter in which my interest is expressed is the urgent need for more equitable representation on the Board of Regents of the principal minority in the State of Maryland. The board's composition must contain all the elements which truly reflect the population of the state.

There must be another black regent on the board. Other minorities must also be represented fairly.

I strive to improve the relations among the university, its students, and the community through my service on the Board of Regents at the University of Maryland."
