WAVE Fights Discharge

PENSACOA, Fla. — An enlisted WAVE is fighting the Navy's attempt to discharge her for becoming pregnant out of wedlock. She says sailors aren't discharged for sexual reasons.

Seaman Anna Flores, a WAVE communicator, has filed suit in federal court estiing an adm min-istrative decision to discharge her one year early.

The Navy is processing an administrative discharge for Miss Flores because she became pregnant and on May 28—which was to have been her wedding date — suffered a miscarriage.

MUSICAL MOMENTS

Baltimore Band has pleasing concert

A refreshing respite from the Baltimore heat and humidity was afforded in the area of the Druid Hill Park Mansion House to hear the Baltimore Municipal Band conducted by Weldon J. Irvine Sr.

A well planned and discriminatingly executed program by the integrated band was appreciated enthusiastically by a sizable audience.

Weldon Irvine, now in his 12th year as director of the municipal aggregation, has come to firm grips with the problems of these community concerts.

Each year there is a notable improvement over the two-hours largely of marches and popular airs that once characterized the outdoor concerts.

Programs now offer an attractive combination of contrasting styles, aimed to appeal to a cross section of the populace.

* * *

On a recent Sunday afternoon the classicists were engaged by the melodic overture to the opera "Merry Wives of Windsor", with its well negotiated fugue (themes flying from one section of the band to another).

One of the admirable assets of our municipal bands is the opportunity afforded soloists from the ranks.

On this occasion Sherrit Kura, flutist, displayed artistic technique in "Flute Flight", being partnered ably by the band, with Charles Bagley, assistant director, conducting.

"Flying Fingers," a clarinet quartet, was also an impressive demonstration. George Stevens, trumbonist, was heard in an impressive arrangement of "Sing Low."

For the jazz buffs trere was "The Empos," a swinging quartet, with trumpets, saxaphone and guitar (played by Mr. Irvine, who can perform on 17 instruments).

Another welcome addition to the municipal band concents is the participal of guest soloists from the talented musicians of the city.

On this particular concert Arthur Warner, baritone, was the confident and appealing soloist in "Stout Hearted Men" and "No Man Is An Island," with Spencer Hamond at the piano.

The soloist is a member of the Men's Chorus of Douglas Mem. Church, who was heard at a previous band concert, with Mr. Hammond conducting.

The audience joined heartily with inimitable Matthew Fraling for his "Sing Along" — always a delightful feature of the outdoor concerts.

* * *

The recent wedding of Miss Jamesetta Holliman and Dr. Goodwin-Collins Onyeledo at Christ Methodist Church was an occasion of especial musical interests.

For the ceremony Conrad Blake, Baltimore flutist and composer, wrote a suite entitled "The Golden Phase, for flute, clarinet, saxaphone, trumpets and percussion.

In seven movements the work embodied avant garde style with overtone of jazz and rock, entitled The Occasion — a fantasy, Prelude, Something Beautiful, Interlude, Day to Remember (dedicated to the bride, March of the Golden Circle (for trumpet and clarinet, The Silver Phase.

Selected Bach Chorales comprised the prelude played by Maurice Murphy, organist and choir master of St. James Episcopal Church, who also accompanied the guest soloist, Miss Joyce Britton, in the Mozart "Ave Maria" and solo from Bach "Wedding Cantata."

The soprano and Miss Holliman were class mates in the 1966 graduating class at Juilliard.

Mrs. Onyeledo, who is an accomplished pianist, heads the department of art and music at the Community College in Long Island, N.Y. where she also teaches theory and history of music.

Mrs. Onyeledo is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Holliman, well known in musical circles of the city, where Mr. Holliman has been for 45 years a member of the Baltimore Park Band and organizer-director of a community youth orchestra in East Baltimore.

Mr. Holliman taught piano privately for a number of years and is an instructor in the junior high school of the public system.

Late night movie return to TV-13

In response to viewer reaction, Paul D. Coss, WJZ-TV (Channel 13) Program Director, today announced that the Group W (Westinghouse Broadcasting Company) station will return late night movies to Baltimore.

In making the change he cited the need for an alternative to late-night network "talk-variety" shows saying, "The lack of any real program choice at 11:30 p.m. is doing a disservice to our community.

"Beginning Monday, September 7," according to Mr. Coss. "WJZ-TV will televise 'The Late Show' starting at 11:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. to be followed by 'The Dick Cavett Show.'

"We feel people want more of a choice after the late news," Mr. Coss noted, "and now there'll be a regular movie at 11:30 p.m., and 'The Dick Cavett Show' will not be scheduled in direct competition with the Griffin and Carson shows, both of which are frankly very similar."

Stars to be seen during the first few weeks of the new WJZ-TV Monday through Friday Late Show include: Henry Fonda, David Niven, Ava Gardner, Burt Lancaster, Gregory Peck, Anthony Quinn, Natalie Wood, Rod Steiger, Doris Day and Rock Hudson.

Teachers shun hotel lunch over job bias

PITTSBURGH — A civil rights luncheon during the recent American Federation of Teachers Convention here didn't quite come off as planned.

Sheduled for the Pittsburgh Hilton, the headquarters hotel, it was moved at the last minute to a Duquesne University dining hall when Richard Parrish, chairman of the luncheon, announced that management would not hire black personnel to serve the guests.

Parrish, vice president of the New York AFT local, said he had been negotiating with the rotel since March and charged that management was in collusion with the bartenders and waitresses union.

Leading the march from the hotel to the college cafeteria was George Wiley, president of the National Welfare Rights Organization, the guest speaier. Over 400 delegates followed him.

Parrish told the rescheduled luncheon that the hotel management contended Pittsburgh is 20 per cent black and the 25 per cent minority work force at the Hilton is well within fair employment standards.

* * *

"This is testimony to tokenism," said the veteran civil rights campaigner.

His investigation showed. Parrish said, that black

Curiously, David Selden, national president of the union, refused to announce the changed luncheon plans to the convention. This was revealed when, about halfway to the college, Albert Fondy, president of the Pittsburgh Federation of Teachers, galloped to the end of the line, complaining "Why didn't you tell someone what was happeningy"

Wiley told the teachers. "The poor and the black are engaged in a struggle for survival.

"If the problems of racism and poverty are not solved, this country faces either a gloody police state . . . or a bloody revolution of oppressed people."

He said too much of the money allocated for poor students is used for salaries and administrative expenses and not enough goes to benefit the poor directly.

* * *

Charles Harris, director of the Direct Action Coalition who marched to Duquesne, commended the teachers for their stand against job bias at the Hilton.

Also on hand were Nate Smith of the Black Construction Coalition, the Rev. Donald McIvane of the Race and Religion Council and other local civil rights leaders.
