Baltimore And All That Jazz

ARCHIE MANGRAM JR.

.... From the brim to the dregs It flows sweet and clear ....

The above taken from the hit tune of a few years ago, 'It Was A Very Good Year,' describes, beautifully James Moody's four nights in Baltimore.

The music from Moody's horn did indeed flow sweet and clear. He and his Tori combined to almost blow the roof off of the Royal Roost. Playing Alto, Tenor and Flute, James displayed all of the fluid grace that has made him a top jazz artist for ever twenty years.

On tenor, it was obvious that James had done a lot of listening to the late John Coltrane. He was playing the rapid style with little effort to get the 'Sheet of Sound,' as Coltrane's playing was once described.

The first tune that he played on Alto the night that we heard him was the classic 'Moody's Mood For Love,' This solo by Moody, because so well known that words were wrote to it by King Pleasure and even this became a Classic.

Moody brought in an organ player by the name of Bobby Pierce who was out of sight. He is one of the best young organ players that we have heard in a long, long, time.

To make a long story short, Moody and his group smoked, cooked and in general upset the patrons in all of the sets that he played. His selection of tunes were superb. The pacing was excellent and the music was very entertaining. Chalk up one for Street and House.

The Three Sounds were at Lennie's Club 24 last Saturday and they had one heck of a set there. They are an up and coming group with a lot of merit. There will be more about them in a latter column.

* * *

There will be a Jazz Cookout at the Glenwood County Club this Saturday. The sponsors have lined up an All-Star cast including: Jimmie Wells, Vibes, Arnold Sterling, Alto Sax, Lewis Hamlin trumpet, Johnnie Pelite, Drums, Dennis Fisher, Organ, Carlos Johnson, Alto Sax, Mickey Fields, Tenor Sax, and a few others.

You can bring your own lunch or cook it there (provided you bring a grill), or there will be food available (at a nominal cost).

This promises to be a swinging set. I would suggest that the sponsors get a good sound system because it is outdoors and this tends to dilute the sound.

We had a chance to listen to a relatively new instrument called the Moog Synthesizer (rhymes with vague). It is really not an instrument exactly. An electronic system is hooked up to a small computer and is able to reproduce a variety of sounds.

Sometimes like an electric piano, sometimes like an organ, even sound like human voices at times.

They had four that appeared with the Boston Pops Orchestra a few days ago on Channel 67. There are not many available at this time. I mentioned it however, because I feel that it will not be long before a jazz musicain gets his hot mitts on one.

When this happens the possibilities are endless for broadening musical horizons.

So don't be surprised if you get an album one day in the future and it reads Thelonius Monk on the Moog Synthesizer.

Regents meet on disorder

Richard W. Case, vice chairman of the University of Maryland's Board of Regents at a special Regents meeting on Wednesday introduced interim procedures for administering the existing rules governing student conduct at the University until public hearings can be held on the entire student code.

Mr. Case made it very emphatic that the Regents were not implementing any new student rules but detailing existing authority as stated in the "University General and Academic Regulations."

He made it clear to the Regents and the large number of newsmen present that the Board "is not being pressured."

Student uprisings on the campus in the spring led to large numbers of Marylanders protesting that something be done to uphold order at the school.

* * *

Central tenets of the interim procedures are —

(1) The power to suspend or expel a student from the University of Maryland is hereby delegated to the president of the University.

Any prior action of this Board which might be construed to be inconsistent with the delegation of power hereby made is rescinded to the extent of such inconsistency.

(2) The president is hereby authorized and empowered to delegate the power to supend or expel a student from the University to the chancellor of each of the campuses.

(3) A Committee on Student Discipline shall be appointed for each of the campuses of the University by the president or by his delegate. The Committe shall not be composed of not less than three nor more than nine members.

(4) These rules shall apply to all cases involving the suspension or expulsion of a student by the president or by his delegate, the Chancellor.

* * *

Important University Regulations which will apply to all ALL students include:

Violation of Fire Regulations;

Behavior which jeopardizes the safety or well-being of the University community;

Possession, use, or distribution of illegal drugs on University property;

Destruction or theft of personal or University property;

Unauthorized use of buildings;

Intentional obstruction or disruption of authorized activities on University property.

Sarbanes urges federal aid in school crisis

Delegate Paul Sarbanes, candidate for the Democratic nomination from the 4th Congressional District, today (Friday) called for the establishment of a federally financed National Foundation for Education to relieve the financial crisis of the schools at the local level.

As evidence of the crisis locally, Mr. Sarbanes cited overcrowded schools, split shifts, inadequate staff, and the widespread discontent he has found in talking to parents in the 4th Congressional District.

"The crisis is financial," the 37-year-old lawyer contended. "Our local and state taxes are, per capita, among the highest in the nation, We know that education is important, we know that our schools must be improved, but we have little left to invest. We will need significant amounts of federal assistance if our school children are to get the education they deserve."

In arguing for a major federal commitment to improve the nation's schools, Mr. Sarbanes pointed out that "current federal expenditures pay less than 7 percent of the nation's costs of public education. Local governments foot 52.7 percent of the bill, while states support 40.7 percent.

"Last year, state support role 12.9 percent over the year before, local support year before, local upport rose 10.7 percent, while federal support actually declined by 1 percent. In the past five years, and local funding together have increased more than 17 times as much as federal increase for education."

* * *

Mr. Sarbane, who I a member of the Governor's Commission to Study the State's Role in Financing Education, contends that only the federal government can compensate for only he federal governmen t he serious inequalities, among states and local governments, in ability to pay for education.

Under the Sarbanes proposal, a National Foundation for Education would award grants to state educational agencies and local school districts to meet educational needs as determined by state and local authorities. At least half the grant allocations would be made under an equalization formula, of the sort now embodied in some federal programs, to put more money where more is needed.

In setting forth his proposal today, Delegate Sarbanes criticized his opponent, Congressman George H. Fallan, for being "indifferent to the fiscal crisis and the educational crisis that the people of his district are facing."

He said of the incumbent: "Fallon has worked for a highway trust fund but has paid insufficient attention to our greatest trust — our children."

CALIFORNIA.

AND BACK.

$234

Including all Federal taxes.

A lot of people figure the cost of air travel has gone up, like everything else. If you're like most, you probably figure it costs close to $300 to fly coach round-trip to California.

But it doesn't.

Right now, you can fly there and back on American Airlines for only $234. And you don't have to take a Midnight Special to do it.

You can leave any day of the week, any time of the day. (Except Friday and Sunday afternoons and evenings.) All you have to do is stay in California at least seven full days. And not more than thirty.

And if you bring your wife and kids along, we can save you money there, too. With our special, low, family-discount fares and our California Treasure Chest discount coupon book.

We might also point out that even though you don't pay the full fare, you'll still get the full treatment. From the time you take off to the time you land.

So when you fly to Los Angeles or San Diego this summer, fly there nonstop on American Airlines. You'll enjoy the trip a lot more. Because it'll cost you a lot less.

It's good to know you're on American Airlines

Birthday Tribute

DIXON — A Birthday Tribute to the memory of my husband and father, GEORGE A. DIXON, on his birthday, September 5, who passed away April 3, 1957:
Loving memories never die,
As years roll on and days go by.
And in our hearts a memory is kept,
Of our husband and father, we loved
And never will forget.
Loving Wife,
LILLIAN DIXON
and CHILDREN

WALKER — A Birthday Tribute to our dear son, father and brother, LORENZO WALKER JR. on his birthday, September 5, who passed away September 1, 1970:
There is an open gate
at the end of the road
Through which each
must go alone,
And there is a light
we cannot see
Our Father claims
His own;
Beyond the gate,
your loved one finds
happiness and rest,
And there is comfort
in the thought
That a loving God knows best.

DORSEY — In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, GEORGIA DORSEY, who passed away September 2, 1959:
God saw the road was getting rough,
The hills were hard to climb;
He gently closed her living eyes
And whispered: "Peace be thine."
Her weary hours, her days of pain,
Her weary nights, are past;
Her ever-patient, worn-out frame
Has found sweet rest at last.
