William J. Jones, artist, sculptor

A Requiem mass was said for William Joseph Jones, well-known local musician and sculptor, Thursday at St. Pius' Catholic Church where he had been a lifelong member.

Mr. Jones, 54, died Sunday at his West Lanvale St. home after a long illness.

He was a member of the Art Guild and Musician Union and had exhibited his works at the Art Museum and Flower Mart.

One of his statues is currently on exhibit at a local radio station.

He was also a tap dancer and taught guitar lessons to a city recreation center.

Mr. Jones served in the Army during World War II.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lillian Jones; his mother, Mrs. Rosetta Johnson; a daughter, Miss Chadiza Jones; six sisters, Mrs. Theresa Anderson, Mrs. Rosalie Stewart, Mrs. Verta Taliaferro, Mrs. Blanche Rogers, Mrs. Berdella Wilson and Mrs. Loretta Stokes; a brother, Robert Johnson, Jr.; his stepfather, Robert L. Johnson; and his uncle, Eldridge Jones.

Register to vote books re-open next Saturday

Welcome confident on primary election night

By BRENDA WRIGHT

Confidence and laughter filled the air at Sen. Verda Welcome's West Baltimore headquarters primary election night.

As the Fourth District state senator's election results slowly came in, 30 supporters kept a steady vigil in the spacious room, over the Met Theater at North and Pa. Aves., from the time the polls closed until the early morning hours.

Others filed in to the office with premature congratulations and left when they found she hadn't arrived, only to reappear an hour later with the same intentions.

With each tabulation posted on the bulletin board of candidates' names, her supporters questioned the slowness of the entries and expressed delight that Sen. Welcome was among the leaders.

The primary election night atmosphere, compared to the night before when the headquarters was crowded with "Re-elect Verda Welcome for State Senator" campaigners, was quiet and relaxed.

Monday, hundreds turned out for the woman candidate who had received so much opposition from her male competitors.

Small groups got together Tuesday night to discuss the machine trouble experienced by so many of the black precincts, saying, "It's a shame" and "What do you think they will do about it?"

Sen. Welcome and her husband, Dr. Henry C. Welcome, candidate for the State Central Committee, arrived at the headquarters at 10:45 p.m. and were greeted loudly by supporters and well-wishers.

Sen. Welcome, confident like her supporters, told the AFRO with a smile, "Sure I'm going to win," before turning to a supporter to discuss plans for the November general election.

Saying things looked good, she added, "From my own precinct, there was a 50 percent turnout and that is a little better than average for a primary election."

Sen. Welcome's precinct, the sixteenth of the 15th ward, carried 170 votes for her, 84 for Sen. Clarenbe Mitchell and 53 for Dennis Crosby.

Wednesday, the day after the election but while votes were still being tallied, five other members of the Welcome "Unity Team" had been elected.

They were: Dr. Henry Welcome and Dr. Emerson Julian, State Central Committee and Troy Brailey, Mrs. Lena K. Lee and Mrs. Jewell W. Rawlings, House of Delegates.

Sen. Welcome had this to say on the election results: "Naturally, I was terribly disappointed that our whole team hadn't been elected because we had all worked so hard as a team."

Then continued, "But realizing forces had combined and worked so hard to defeat us and especially me, I think we did very well indeed."

"I want to thank everyone for supporting us and the people elected will express [illegible] make a strong effort to provide a constructive program for the whole district."

When asked about the November general election, she replied, "The way it looks now we have no opposition."

At this reporter's first glimpse of a campaign headquarters workings on Maryland's primary election night, the entire campaign appeared well thought out and very much together.

With so much confidence, unity and goodwill, Sen. Welcome and her team are on the winning ticket.

dress, was arrested, charged with the homicide and lodged in the Toombs shortly after police arrived on the scene.

Reports also show that Mr. Brown had just returned from a 3-week vacation and the couple had engaged in an argument.

Witnesses told police the wife had attempted to run and stumbled inside the residence.

After the incident, the husband was seen sitting on the steps beside her body weeping, witnesses state.

When the AFRO reporter visited the attract ve Brown home on Tuesday, a woman who refused to give her name was weeping. She said she had been a classmate of Mr. Brown's at Dillard University.

A neighbor told the AFRO Baltimore relatives had taken the Browns' son to Baltimore.

Police said no reason was advanced for the killing. At his preliminary hearing, Mr. Brown was held on an open charge of murder for a further hearing and possible setting of bail.

Mr. Brown is a New York Housing Authority police captain stationed at the Fort Green Project n Brooklyn.

Mrs. Brown was the daughter of Mrs. Etta Bazemore, 625 Bentalou St., Baltimore and the late Milton. Bazemore, a well-known businessman, who for many years had a coal and wood firm on Saratoga St.

She was born and reared in Baltimore and was graduated from Douglass High School in 1947.

Inar her high school classbook, she listed her life ambition to be a nurse. the Provident Hospital received a bachelor's de-

She was graduated from School of Nursing here and redeived a bachelor's degree from Hunter College in New York.
