Light Hous keeping

By LULA MACKAY

If you are too pooped to pucker don't blame it on "tired blood", at least until you have consulted your doctor. Tired blood can be the catchall diagnosis for listlessness, muscular sluggishness, weight gains or lowered heart rates. "Old age" and "working too hard" are also common scapegoats for physical ailments. But, say the Professional Communications Associates, an increasingly frequent reason for these conditions is the thyroid.

This small gland is often involved, they say, in decreased appetite, chills, falling hair, scaliness of the skin, decreased heart output, constipation, poor memory, hearing loss, swelling, and decreased blood volume.

Dollars and Sense: No matter when you bought your house, it's likely to be worth lots more now than when you purchased it.

This is good if a buyer is knocking on your door right now. But if you plan on keeping your house, it's bad if you haven't done what you should to protect it. The State Farm Fire and Casualty Co. point out that if you are like most people, you are probably unaware of just how much the value of your home has gone up. Inflation, repairs and improvements, even the personal possessions, you've added, boost the value.

A recent survey revealed that more than 55 per cent of all insured homes in the country are underinsured. Those owning homes for three to 10 years are the people most unaware of increased value. Many homeowners, thinking only in terms of mortagage, only partially insure their homes, then compound this mistake by not increasing coverage as costs go up.

Better check with a competent broker occasionally.

For Beauty Sake: Some women over 30, who could be mature beauties, are missing out just because of a few simple mistakes.

A stunning New York model, who happens to be over 30, offers these tips to help you regain that young look:

• • •

Take off the heavy makeup. Too many women have the erroneous idea that thick makeup will hide the little signs of aging. Heavy foundation and powder, in fact, make tiny lines appear deeper and slightly enlarged pores look twice as big. Facial masks (the kind for dry skin please) used before applying makeup will help tighten the pores and refine the skin for a smooth young look. Blushers in a cream form are perfect for adding a light translucent color to skin that is paling. Powder should be translucent and used sparingly.

Concentrate on good basic skin care. Torough removal of makeup every night with pure baby oil so that you don't have to rub the skin (this can stretch it) is the number one way to baby your skin. A light film of oil also can be effectively used as an over-night softener to replenish diminishing natural skin oil and to help prevent moisture loss from the skin's surface;

Get rid of over-teased, over-set, obsolete hairdos. If you need glasses, consider contact lenses. Big lavender girls, but glasses don't help your youth image. Throw away the costume jewelry. Again, pendants, giant dangling earrings and fake gold chains may look great on teens, but over-30's should keep jewelry real and at a minimum.

Receipt of the week: For one of those long work days when time for doing a dinner is short, try this Chicken Divan, which is tasty, easy to do, and is made from ingredients that you are likely to have on hand.

This dish is made with a package of frozen brocoli spears, slices of cooked or canned chicken or turkey, a tablespoon of melted butter or margarine, a can of undiluted condensed cream-of-chicken soup, heated, and a half cup grated process American cheese.

If you do not have brocoli and do have asparagus, use the latter. Though asparagus should be fresh.

Cook broccoli as label directs. Arrange chicken in a 12"x8"x2" baking dish. Top with broccoli and butter. Combine heated soup and cheese and pour over brocoli. Brown. Light under broiler. Makes four servings.

What's new! A new collection of frosted lip glosses is designed to taste, smell and look like fresh fruit.

The five flavors and shades—cherry, strawberry, nectarine, coconut and pineapple/come in round plastic compacts topped by clear transparent covers, and can be applied by brush or fingertip.

Economy meals for good eating

What nut isn't a nut but a member of the pea-and-bean, or legume, family? The answer is the ever popular peanut.

This year's crop is expected to reach two and a half billion pounds, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service. That's a lot of nuts! And it means peanuts and peanut products are a good food buy, so reach for them at breakfast, lunch, dinner, any time — or anytime you're in the mood for a tasty and nutritious food.

Children and peanut butter go together like the proverbial horse and carriage. And this is one instance where the youngsters' preference coincides with sound nutrition. Peanuts are high in essential protein, fat, mineral, and B-Vitamin content.

Peanut butter sandwiches and salted peanuts out of hand are just the start of delicious peanut menu plans. Peanut butter adds oomph to cooking — from pancakes and puddings to sauces and sweets. Chopped peanuts add crunch to baked goods, salads, and casseroles. Crushed peanut brittle is superb on ice cream. So for rich taste, crunchy texture, and lots of old-fashioned oomph — reach for peanuts and peanut products.

Here's a menu for a day's good eating using peanut butter and other foods that are plentiful and moderate in price:

Breakfast
Orange Juice
Peanut-Cornmeal Griddlecakes with Syrup
Milk
Coffee or Tea

Lunch
Tunafish Sandwich
Waldorf Salad
Vanilla Milkshake

Dinner
Meatloaf with Onions
Mashed Potatoes
Crisp Coleslaw
Applesauce
Milk
Coffee or Tea
Peanut-cornmeal gridcakes are a delicious and energetic way to start the day.

They are made with 1 cup cornmeal, 1 cup sifted flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 tablespoon sugar, if desired, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons peanut butter, 1 egg, beaten, and 1¾ cups milk.

Sift dry ingredients together. Combine peanut butter, egg and milk and add to dry mixture. Stir only enough to moisten flour. Drop by spoonfuls onto greased griddle. Cook slowly until surface is covered with bubbles, turn and cook until bottom side is brown.

Makes four servings.
