Miserable weather and shoddy play by Colts made for unhappy Sunday at Memorial Stadium but the tie with Buffalo made it worthwhile for these fans.

George Taliferro rejoins old grid mates at Indiana

Dean George Taliaferro and Mrs. Taliaferro attended the first annual "Men's" football weekend held recently at Indiana University.

This weekend specifically honored the 1945 Big Ten Championship football team on its 25th anniversary. Dean Taliaferro was a member of that team and a second team All America selection as a freshman.

He was further honored by his selection to the Helms Athletic Football Hall of Fame for college and university football player. The Helms athletic foundation is located in Los Angeles.

The entire 1945 team reassembled on this occasion (one member absent due to illness in his family).

The program included a tour of present athletic facilities, presentation of other teams, presentation of memorial awards, attendance at the Indiana vs. Northwestern football game (I. U. lost 21-7).

For Mr. and Mrs. Taliaferro it was a chance to spend some time with their oldest daughter, Linda, who is a sophomore majoring in history.

Mel Groomes — assistant football coach at North Carolina A. and T. State University was a member of the 1945 team and in attendance along with his wife Mrs. Jean Groomes.

Bulls better than Bullets?

The Chicago Bulls invade Civic Center tomorrow (Saturday) night, and the probability is that Bullet fans will see another hotly-contested game.

The Bulls have been held lightly since entering the NBA as an expansion club, but up to now they have been playing better ball than the local team.

Following Tuesday's romping win over Portland, while Chicago was bowing to Milwaukee, the Bulls were paying at a .611 pace with a record of 11-7. The Bullets, on the other hand, were at .591, on the strength of a 13-9 log.

Yet Baltimore is in first placing in her division and Chicago is third in the Western Conferences' Midwest lodge. It is further evidence of the disparity in the NBA alignment.

Tonight (Friday), the Bullets are in Boston Garden for a tiff with the Celtics.

Boston is 9-10 for the year and in third place in the Atlanta Division of the Eastern Conference...LACY.

CC of B basketers open 24-game schedule Dec. 1

The 1970-71 basketball schedule of the Community College of Baltimore lists 24 games.

Coach Jerry Phipps' Red Devils are the current Maryland JUCO Conference champions and will compete with Prince Georges, Takoma Park, Montgomery, Hagerstown, Essex, Catonsville and Harford in a 14-game home-and-home round robin league chase this season in defense of their title.

Outside of league play the Red Devils will face several of the stronger junior college teams in the East.

These feature Broome Tech of Binghampton, N.Y.; Allegheny, and Robert Morris of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Mercer of Trenton, N.J., and Wesley of Dover, Del.

Another highlight of the tough schedule is a December 8 contest against the publicized Tom McMillan led University of Maryland freshman team. The CCB'ers will be hard put to continue their two game winning streak against the Baby Terps.

Coach Phipps is aided this year by assistant Marcus Jackson, former Indiana high school coach.

This season's squad includes many former Maryland Scholastic Association outstanding players: Robert Ayers, Douglass; Leo Dutton, John Chase and Marvin Guthrie, City College; Charles McKeldin, Northwestern; Gary Dingle and Tyrone Owens, Northern; Eric King, Edmondson; Leo Bundy and Danny Young, Carver; and Henry Giles and Joe Tucker, Dunbar; Robert Jackson, Marlin Sykes and Otis Nash, all of Harrisburg, Pa. are these excellent out-of-state additions.

'Unforgettable' moment awaited by Navy gridder

PHILADELPHIA — As a plebe, Eddie Burnette was in the stands when Navy played Army in the traditional football meeting between the service academies.

He calls even that experience his most unforgettable moment. On Saturday, Eddie will be a part of the glamour, a member of the Navy eleven down on the field. This year's experience should surpass that thrill of his initial trip here.

"I'l never forget my first Army-Navy game," says Burnette.

"When the midshipmen were standing out in the middle of that stadium with 100,000 people in the stands, and the announcer boomed 'Ladies and gentlemen, the Brigade of Midshipmen'

"You never forget that, and you can't imagine what it's like unless you've been there."

"Playing football is tough at the Academy," says the 5-9, 183-pound midshipman. "You have to make up all the class work you miss because of the travel and the games. I end up studying until after midnight most week nights."

Burnette is majoring in political science, carrying 20 hours this semester.

Burnette is impressed with the calibre of individuals he has met both on the Navy team and in the opposing lineups during the season. This year, Navy's schedule included Penn State, Washington, Air Force, and Notre Dame.

"The big fear of any defensive back is to be beaten deep on a pass pattern," explains Burnette, who is charged with covering split ends and backs coming out for passes into the Navy defensive secondary.

"I key on certain players to decide where the play is going, and then try to get into position to stop the play. You have to develop an ability to make quick decisions, and that's something a coach can't teach you."

Midshiman 2-c Burnete, son of Mrs. Irene B. Burnette of 5611 S. Laflin, Chicago, Ill., is in his second year on the varsity squad.

At St. Philip Basilica High School in Chicago, Burnette played offensive halfback and was captain of his team. He made All-Section and all-Catholic his senior year, and played basketball his last two years as well.

"I never thought about the Naval Academy unil it was suggested to me my senior year" he says, after playing for and receiving a congressional nomination, Burnette competed with the other nominees from his area and was admitted as a plebe in the class of 72.

Bears loon — 34 erb

Bears loon as definite for AC bowl

BULLETIN

Morgan State College was certified this morning (Friday) as one of the competing teams in the Boardwalk Bowl game, Dec. 12, at Atlantic Cly.

The formal invitation to oppose University of Delaware was extended at 9:45 a.m. by Gene Duffy, chairman of the NCAA's selection committee, and was accepted by Morgan immediately.

Morgan State's football Bears appear to be a certain choice as University of Delaware's opponent in the Boardwalk Bowl, scheduled to be played Dec. 12, in Atlantic City's Convention Hall.

While no positive commitment has yet been made to the Golden Bears, it is felt that it will be forthcoming this weekend, possibly as early as late Friday (today).

There are several things that lead to such a conclusion: (1) Morgan has had strong feelers from the Boardwalk Bowl selection committee, (2) inquiry came only two weeks ago as to whether or not the Bears were still interested in receiving an invitation, and (3) the last of the three teams in the final running for the bid, was beaten on Thanksgiving afternoon.

Temple University had remained in consideration because of the traditional rivalry between A. Philadelphia team and one from the neighboring state of Delaware. The latter, incidentally, held the inside track because, in addition to a fine 1970 record, the Blue Hens are the defending champions.

Temple, however, dropped a 31-26 decision to Villanova on Thursday. That loss marked the third of the season for the Owls and, seemingly, would drop them from a contending position.

The AFRO has it on good authority that Morgan, Delaware and Temple were the three teams still under consideration for Boardwalk invitations. The elimination of Temple would leave only Morgan and Delaware. . LACY

Sayers' replacement giving in-coming Bears new punch

When the Chicago Bears come clawing into Memorial Stadium Sunday, they won't have the incomparable Gale Sayers to throw against the Colts, but they'll have a problem of new dimensions.

The bad break for Sayers was a good break for Dick Gordon, and the veteran wide receiver could reach his goal in professional football as a result.

When Sayers was hurt, requiring surgery on his knee, the Bears had to emphasize passing. Thus Gordon got more chances to catch the ball and he could wind up as the National Football League's leading receiver and perhaps make the All-League team.

"If I can keep going at a pretty good clip, I'd say I have a chance to make all pro," Gordon said, "and that's been my goal. But until Gale was hurt, we just didn't have any passing offense.

"We used Sayers as our main threat, and he was tremendous, almost unbelievable. I hate to see anybody get hurt, but when he was, we tried to improve our passing."

The change has been the salvation of the Bears, who have won four of 10 games so far compared to only one in 14 last year. Gordon has caught 30 totchdown passes of the 17 touchdowns scored by the Bears this season, and the club has scored only two touchdowns rushing.

For the season, Gordon has caught 45 passes for 725 yards, and while he has run first or second in receptions all season, the injury to Washington's Charlie Taylor, in the lead until last Sunday, put the Bears' star in position to take it all.

"We've improved our whole receiving corps," Gordon said. "When Bob Shaw began coaching the receivers a year ago, he put new character in all of them. We've got a whole new passing offense."

Gordon's position with the Bears is somewhat surprising considering his past relationship with the club. Two years ago he was a holdout and began playing out his option last year. In mid-season, he signed a two-year contract covering 1970.

But Gordon has never made any secret of his dislike for his treatment, and during training camp and the exhibition season this year, he played little and said bluntly he was "snubbed."
