SLAIN ... LETE, Dwayne Boyer, killed by a bullet from a ... sergeant's gun, is shown above on two of the m... occasions when he was a track trophy winner and added two more prizes to the 50 he had won by the time he was 16 years of age. (LEFT) following a track meet at Morgan State College in 1968 at the age of 14, he receives the Jesse Owens certificate from the world-famed sprinter himself. (RIGHT) Boyer in May this year at the age of 16 when he won the 100-yard dash. The young athlete and Cheryl Poirier, center, who won the 50-yard dash, are shown receiving awards from University of Maryland Coach Nick Kowolskiles for their performance in the AAU Junior Olympics. Both photos are from the Boyer family album which contains many other pictures, clippings and certificates of excellence at track meets across the country. Sgt. Harry Gonzales of Western District was dismissed when the state refused to prosecute for the death which occurred on Western Maryland Railroad tracks above the 2500 block W. North Ave. as Boyer and other unknown youths were running from the scene of attempted robbery of a 70-year-old man shortly after 6 p.m. Nov. 21. The bullet entered the back of the left shoulder and was taken from his right chest by the medical examiner. Dwayne would have been 17 today (Friday) Dec. 4.

Injury problem target of CCC medical study

The fourth annual seminar on "The Medical Aspects of Sports," will be held tomorrow (Saturday) at Catonsville Community College.

Programming covers virtually every phase of physical preparation and care of the young athlete.

Dr. Herbert W. Lapp, representing the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty, has announced a series of lectures by leading authorities.

These include Dr. Elsworth Buskirk of the University of Pennsylvania, Dr. Stanford Lavine of the ... of Maryland, Dr. R. Stanley Cohen of ..., Dr. Joseph W. Berke ... of Walter Reed Hospital and Johns Hopkins University, and Mrs. Randall C. Coleman of the Maryland State Commission on Physical Fitness.

The seminar is designed to uncover means of preventing and dealing with the increasing number of injuries occuring among athletes of high school and college ages.

Bullets' Foe sizzles at 37

The Cincinnati Royals, who invade the Civic Center tonight (Friday) to oppose the Bullets, are headed by one of the phenoms of the National Basketball Association.

He is Johnny Green who, in 12 years has traveled from New York to San Diego to Philadelphia to Cincinnati, and once (1966-67) was even the property of the Bullets.

• • •

Green, who turns 37 years young on Tuesday, has moved ahead of Milwaukee's Lew Alcindor to lead the NBA in field goal percentage, official statistics reveal. Green, who paced the association during the 1969-70 season at .553, is shooting at a .591 clip through games of November 30. Alcindor is second at .576.

• • •

"I think John is the type of player that is unusual in the sense of a George Blanda," said Bob Cousy, Green's coach.

"He never ceases to amaze me. He seems to maintain his youthful enthusiasm. I think he could play until he's 40 if he continues to approach the game the way he does now."

Morgan to host takedown tourney

Morgan State College's first invitational takedown tournament will be held 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., tomorrow (Saturday) in Hurt Gymnasium on the South Campus.

The five participating colleges will be Gallaudet of Washington, D.C.; Johns Hopkins, Loyola, University of Baltimore and Morgan.

The purpose of the tournament is to put emphasis on thetakedown and going for a fall from the phasis on the takedown and wrestling coach William Brown.

McCormick to continue salute to 'Unsung Hero'

The 1970 "Unsung Hero Awards" Banquet, honoring Baltimore area schoolboy football players, will be held Dec. 18, at the McCormick Building, 414 Light St.

The late Charles P. McCormick who founded the award in 1940, died in June.

However, the company will continue to present the Charles Perry McCormick Scholarship Award to the Unsung Hero of the Year. Last year's winner, Michael Kavanagh, then a student at Patterson High, and now attending Villanova University, is expected to be present at this year's dinner.

The speaker this year will be Weeb Ewbank, former coach of the Baltimore Colts and now general manager and coach of the New York Jets, the only coach in professional football who succeeded in developing two last-place professional football teams into world champions the Colts and the Jets.

On the afternoon following the dinner, the Colts will meet the Jets at Memorial Stadium, marking Weeb's first official visit to Baltimore since he moved on to New York in 1963 to coach the Jets.

As has been the procedure through the years, one high school athlete will be selected by coaches and football officials to represent each of the 24 schools participating in the Maryland Scholastic Association's football program and, from among this group, the 1970 Unsung Hero of the Year will be named.

All selections will be made under the direction of the Maryland Scholastic Association.

Morgan's new loop to meet

WASHINGTON — Morgan State College and five other institutions will formalize their break with the Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association (CIAA) here Tuesday.

Morgan's interim president, Tom Fraser, athletic Dr. King V. Check, the director Embra Bowie, and president-elect, will join delegate Talmadge Hill at the initial meeting of the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference (MEAC) at the Shoreham.

Howard University, Delaware State College, Maryland University-Eastern Shore (formerly Maryland State), A and T State University and North Carolina Central, all defectors from the unwieldy, 18-college CIAA, will be joined here by South Carolina State College in the new loop.
