AFRO publisher inspired collection

The late Dr. Carl J. Murphy inspired his interest in volumns by and about Blacks, Clarence L. Holte, foremost collector of such books, said here Saturday.

Mr. Holte was speaker for the Book-A-Month Club's open meeting held in the Morgan Christian Center Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Holte, said to own the largest private collection of books by and about Blacks, met his first African when a student at Lincoln University. This aroused in him a desire to know more about Africa. His questions led him to realize how little he know and how little information was available on the black man.

He cited a visit to Dr. Murvyn's home in 1955 in company with Dr. Nnamdi Azikiwe of Nigeria. He found that Dr. Murphy had a large collection of books by and about black people comparable to the 1500 volume collection of William C. Bolivar of Philadelphia and the 2,000 volume collection of Henry Slaughter of Washington. The 4,000 volume collection of Arthur Schomberg, now housed in the 134th Street Branch of the N.Y. Public Library is probably the best known collection.

Mr. Holte's collection is probably the largest private one in existence. It consists of some 7,000 books, about 90 percent out of print. Some were published 200 years ago yet very few are in poor condition. Many are first editions. The biographical collection contains about 325 titles. There is an anti-section about sixty titles. About one-third of the collection deals with Africa gleaned on his ten trips to Africa. For the past 28-years Mr. Holte has carried his living in the field of marketing, pioneering particularly in the field of black consumers. Thus he has been able to combine his vocation and his avocation.

The speaker was introduced by his sister, Mrs. Blanche McDonald, member of the club, assistant superintendent of Montrose School for Girls, Mrs. Martha B. Ammons, charter member, now living in Mt. Vernon, N.Y. gave the history of the club.

The other charter member still active with the club is Mrs. Ethel J. Day, secretary.

Mrs. Doris J. Carter is president and Mrs. Margaret Johnson treasurer.

Members are Dr. Robert T. Ford; Dr. Daniel Skinner, Mesdames Lillian S. Watty, Jeannie F. Robinson, Pauline V. Hobbs, Saretha Greene, Frances T. White and Consuella S. Wilder.

Mrs. Lillian A. Lottier charter member, now inactive, was chairman of the group in its formative days beginning in 1926-27. Mrs. Lillian S. Watty, joining in 1928, was the first duly elected president, serving three years and later serving another three years.

Club members and their husbands and wives are entertained at a dinner in honor of the speaker at his sister's Fairview Road home following the program. Mr. and Mrs. Joel Manley, Mr. Holte's daughter and son-in-law, students at Howard U. Dental School were among the out-of-town guests. Others were Miss Consola Frisby of Philadelphia, Miss Jean F. Barnes of Richmond, Mrs. Esther A. Parker of N.Y.C. and Old Saybrook, Ct.

The hostess was assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Bradford James and Mr. and Mrs. Mason Hawkins.

Rolling toys can be dangerous

Parents are cautioned to think about traffic accident hazards in "toys that roll" in a holiday safety campaign by the Maryland State Department of Education. Toys that roll say school safety officials, should be on parents' lists of potential hazards along with those that may burn, poison, cut, shock, and puncture.

Hellen N. Tullis, Department safety specialist, listed these cautions to toy buyers, based on accident statistics experience:

Sidewalks are no place for ball playing. Sidewalks, slanted for rain drainage, caused dropped balls to roll into the street. Usually, she says, the ball is followed by the child.

Sidewalk is the place for tricycles, coaster wagons, scooters. skate boards, and roller skates. Mrs. Tullis cited as a negative example a case this month in Washington, D.C., in which a 13 year-old boy was killed when he rode a play wagon into a street intersection.

If you buy a bike, says Mrs. Tullis, make sure there is a safe place in your neighborhood for cycling.

The state specialist reminds parents that a child driving a bicycle in traffic is handicapped by age, experience, and the special vulnerability of the bicycle itself.

Coppin students named to Who's Who

Twelve Coppin State College students were recently named to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

These campus leaders and scholars are: Constance Brown, Shirley Demory, Walter Douglas, Thomas Gross, Joseph Johnson, Kathleen Larkins, Patricia Minor, and Norma Taylor — senior elementary education majors; James Dingle and Ollen Douglass, senior social science majors; David Randall, a senior majoring in general science; and Joan Tate, a junior majoring in English.

These students have assumed leadership roles in a variety of organizations and activities. Many are or have been active with the sororities and fraternities, in the Student Government Association, on the college newspaper and yearbook staffs, as class officers and representatives, on sports teams, and as freshman counselors and tutors.

Some have participated in local, state, and regional conferences of student and professional organizations.

Each student's academic and extra-curricular record reflects a broad range of interests, a concern for optimum individual development at the undergraduate level, and a desire to serve the Coppin community.
