Changes noted in education

Important changes are taking place in the education of people living on farms, acording to reports given to Extension home management specialists at a recent U.S. Department of Agriculture conference.

Reviews of data from the Census Bureau and Office of Education indicated that though farm people haven't yet caught up with city people in formal education, they are making good progress in that direction.

A larger proportion of high school and college - age farm boys and girls are in school than ever before. The proportion of farm residents that are high school graduates is increasing rapidly.

The most - rural group of States increased their spending for public schools between 1950 and 1956 slightly more proportionately, than the most - urban states. The most - rural group increased the per pupil amount for current expenses of grade and high school by about one - fourth; the most urban States increased it by one-fifth.

Miracles of modern engineering inside new state office buildings

The new State Buildings plant, so to speak, all departs where the State Office Buildings of the state of Maryland, the State Roads Commission, with the exception of the Division and the Employment Security Administration, Workmen's Compensation Division and the Employment Security Administration, are located, bounded by Hoffman and Preston Sts., Madison Ave. and Park Ave. For the first time in the history of state, Madison Ave. is a two-way thoroughfare. Park Ave. and Park Ave. are one-way streets, Park Ave. is a two-way thoroughfare, and Park Ave. and Park Ave. are one-way streets. Parking is in contrast to being one-half block area.

Here are housed under one scattered all over the town.

The $16 million project has attracted the attention of Maryland's passing by since construction began in March, 1957.

As the buildings rose floor by floor into the skyline, few persons looking on knew of the miracles of modern engineering inside the walls.

MISCELLANEOUS wonders include the buildings themselves, equipped with curtain wall construction, the more than 2,000 windows shaded by heavy venitian blinds which play an active part in the air conditioning; the 1,800 ton air conditioning plant; the boiler plant; the cafeteria which seats 400 persons.

High on the list of engineering wonders are the automatic elevators which adjust automatically to the load and arrive automatically when best from the personal touch of an electronic action on timing gears.

All ceilings are accoustic and suspended so that the floor above is two feet from the ceiling below. Within that space is the electric and lighting wiring. The ceiling - walls are non-supported. Each floor supports its own wall.

The landscaping transformed the area into instant beauty the day it was done and composed the largest project in this area of the country.

At a cost of $170,000 trees, sod grass, hedges, ground covers and hedge plants were put in and included 35 honey locusts, 292 London plane (first cousin to sycamore trees) 13 willow oaks and 15 pin oak trees.

Also included are 107 hawthorne, 250 saucer magnolia, 33 star magnolia and 1,400 Japanese and American holly trees and more than 53,000 vines used as ground covers.

FROM THE point of view of the building superintendent, H. C. Evans, the State Office plant is the state's biggest responsibility.

Along with 49 members of his maintenance department, Mr. Evans "collects $150,000 rent from more than 50 state agencies in two buildings: the State Office and the State Roads Commission.

"They are self - supporting agencies and have to pay their own way," he states.

The cost of rental of the suites and areas the agencies occupy is $1.42 per square foot of occupancy, which pays for maintenance and operation costs.

The operating budget is a total of $490,000 a year which is paid for by the rent collected, $340,000 general state funds, State Roads Commission buildings pays an additional $121,000 rent.

WITHIN the State Office Building are 42 agencies in areas where they are considered "tenants" with lock and key and tenants rights.

The state of Maryland pays the cleaning bill which amounts to $80,000 and includes janitorial services of sweeping, cleaning, venitian blinds, waxing floors, dusting and general housekeeping.

This job is done by a firm under contract to keep the buildings spotless.

The 2,000 windows are cleaned by a separate firm also under contract. Costs of the window washing were not available at this princeing.

Not a state department expense are the furnishings in the buildings. Each occupant brought along his own furniture from former office locations.

Six uniform policemen are on duty on varied shifts in the state office plaza. They are among the 40 employees who serve as the operating agency under Mr. Evans.

Operating engineers number six persons. A maintenance superintendent; nine telephone operators; a telephone supervisor, two receptionists, two cleaners, nine carpenters, plumbers and electrical engineers, one bookkeeper, one stenographer and one supervisor of grounds are the help.

Community Chest makes allocations

The Executive Committee of the Community Chest has approved 1960 allocations for its member agencies after volunteer representatives of business, industry, labor and the professions spent more than a month reviewing proposed agency requests.

The agencies, originally requested $381,224 more than the $3,771,532 received by the Community Chest as its share of the $5,043,113 contributed by the Baltimore Metropolitan Area public to the 1959 United Appeal.

The Budget Committee and its Budget Panels did not cut across the board to make the agency budgets match the money available.

The Budget Panels in conference with representatives of the agencies examined each budget line by line and reduced only in those cases when they felt that a reduction could be made without adversely affecting the service the agency offers to the public.

Although all budgets were examined on a line by line basis, the Chest allocates money to each agency in a lump sum and places no restriction on how the agency will spend its allocation in 1960 except that no agency can exceed salary ranges approved by the Chest.

The agencies themselves are governed in their expenditures by their own boards, composed of area business and civic leaders who serve without pay.

The allocations made by the Chest to each agency were:

Oranges make spicy dessert

Oranges, at their sweet and juicy best now, make a colorful spicy dessert that's light enough to conclude the heartest dinner. California Port wine, spices and a touch of grenadine syrup give the delicious flavor that makes this such a special treat.

"Ported Oranges" require no cooking at all—just assemble the ingredients well ahead of serving time, and chill for several hours so the fruit absorbs the flavor of the spice. It's most refreshing.

PORTED ORANGES is made with four large oranges, one-fourth cup California Port of other dessert wine, one small stick cinnamon, three whole cloves, one-fourth cup grenadine syrup, garnish, gall, flaked coconut, optional.

Pare and section oranges; combine with all other ingredients except coconut in a covered dish. Chill eight hours or overnight in refrigerator. Serve with flaked coconut, sprinkled on top, if desered.

William Adamses hold open house

with Lula Jones Garrett

By B. M. Phillips and Elizabeth M. Oliver, substituting for Lula Jones Garrett who is on Vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. William Adams (Willie and Vic) held open house on Sunday afternoon at their lovely Carlisle Ave. home.

Guests gathered in their fabulous new clubroom where members of her clubs, the Marquises and Charmettes, assisted the hostess.

For the affair, stylish Mrs. Adams wore a white sheer lame frock, shirtwaist style with a straight skirt.

Mr. Adams himself a style setter, wore one of those new mouse-breated blue sweaters trimmed in white. Very snazzy.

Special honorees were the Adamses houseguests, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cannon and Mr. and Mrs. William Knighton, all of Camden, N.J.

OF COURSE, since the open house was the same day as the Golf Giant grid contest, the men deserted the affair for a spell, but returned to enjoy punch, cocktails, a variety of salads and dainty sandwiches.

By the way, the Adamses' clubroom is a distinctive one. Particularly appealing, the formstone wall with the gems set in the walls, and of course, the fireplace which dominates the room.

And, cute, was the way Mr. Adams answered guests' questions before they were asked—he had little notations showing that the work was done by fellow businessmen.

NUMEROUS FOLKS called during the open house—so many it is hard to remember them all.

Among those we spied: Father Joseph I. Tyson, Chef Jim, of St. Peter Claver church; Congressman Samuel Friedel, Delegate and Mrs. Parker Quigley, State Senator Alvin Jones, City Council President Philip Goodman, George Russell, Mr. and Mrs. James V. McAllister, Henry Parks, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Isaac.

Also came, Delegate and Mrs. Richard Rombro, Bernie Nachelas, Mr. and Mrs. Askew Gatewood, Dr. and Mrs. Saul Perdue, Dr. and Mrs. Simon Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Woolridge, Mr. and Mrs. John Rich, Mr. and Mrs. James Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wimby.

And, Dr. and Mrs. Hayes Pressley, Maurice Looman, Irvin Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Oreman, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Seay, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Tate, Mrs. Lee Shipley, Mrs. Serena Forehand, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Young, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomas, Mrs. Evelyn Bass, Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Biggs, Mrs. Mary Adams, the newlywed Dr. and Mrs. Bruce Alleyne (she in a very striking green satin sheath).

Harold Jennifer, who led the Madison Time Charles (Mouse) Dorsey and Mrs. Carrie Scott.

ALSO SEEN ABOUT: Frank Reynolds, Caesar Jones, Mrs. Adele Hinton, Stick Alston, Richmond, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brown, Mrs. Mamie Briscoe, Mrs. Cato Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sheldon, Mrs. Robert Croston, Mrs. Ruth Brunson, Mr. and Mrs. John Stokes, Mrs. Myrtle Johnson, Mrs. Estelle Jones.

And, Mr. Adams's sister, Mrs. Lavinia Simpson and her son, William and Mr. Adams' daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Venable, Mrs. Nellie Barnes of Philly, Miss Mary Carrington, Mrs. Alice Cole and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lewis, Wardell Bunn, Clyde Martin, Mrs. George Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Stewart, Mrs. Dorothea Battle.

Also, Mr. and Mrs. George Jude, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Berry, Mr. and Mrs. James Burns, and Mrs. Adams' brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Quille (with Mrs. Quille serving as a hostess and very attractive in a black frock with an illusion lace top).

Mrs. Alice Cole and daughter, Eleanor; Mrs. Howard Dix and Mrs. Bernard Briggs and daughter, Vivian Owens.

Other hostesses included Mrs. Adams' paternal aunt, Mrs. Julia Abrams, her niece, Lewis Tate, was at the bar, and Mrs. Tate directed guests from the first floor to the clubroom.

Other hostesses: Mrs. Naomi Sullivan, Mrs. Irene Merritt, Mrs. Vivian Crawley and Mrs. Eloise Parker.

A DELIGHTFUL affair was the Saturday night cocktail and supper hosted by Mrs. Pauline Reynolds at her home.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Howard Nelson, Mrs. Margaret Simpson, Clifton Hook, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Alexander, Mrs. Carrie Scott, Mrs. Alma Williams, Elizabeth O. Abney and daughter, Martha.

Also present was Mr. Blanche Ennis, Catonsville, Md., a cousin, who celebrated her 71st birthday on Christmas Day.

NEW YEARS DAY marks the 22nd wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Gordy Tyler, 2417 N. North Ave.

They will celebrate the occasion at the home of Mr. Tyler's sister in Washington and enjoying the company of the children, Sheila, age 9, and Ronald, 4.

Before they began plans for the New Years celebration, the Women's Progressive League of Patapsco Park played Santa to 235 children at the Lions Club of Lutherville Heights. They also gave fruit boxes to six adult shut-ins.

Mrs. Alma W. Taylor is president of the ladies group, and Mrs. Laura Brockington is secretary.

Mrs. Gibson (Dorothy), and their son, Skipper, now living in Chicago, are holidaying with our cousins—the Kirk Lees, with Skipper spending sometime with the A. W. Mackays.

With the big grid championship game televised only on Mutual, the lucky ones who came a-calling on Sunday afternoon especially from the homes of those residents who could easily tune in Channel 4 in Washington.

Mrs. David Wright's beautifully remodeled home on Bryan Ave., was the scene of such a gathering.

Between oohing and aahing over Bea's new color scheme in her Chinese motif in a second floor bedroom, and the latest in modern decorations all over the house, guests watched the Colts and Giants.

If they had a mind to, they could view the game in the kitchen or in the kitchen. With or two sets, there was little chance of missing an important play.

Guests about were Mesdames Mary McPherson, Mildred Taylor, Mabel Byrd, Chita Shipley, Elaine Wright, Adelle Foreman, Gwendolyn Lynch, Mary Maitland, Bettye Phillips, Alice Branson and Miss Lola Watkins.

A HOST of pretty debs and their handsome escorts danced to the music of the Sherman Lewis orchestra at the Ramblin Rose Club of the Louis Tuckers Monday night as their daughter, Theresa Kees held forth for her deb friends.
