Count blessings, minister urges

The Rev. Emanuel G. Terrell, pastor of Lee's AME Church, Kensington, Md., urged his congregation to begin the New Year counting its blessings instead of complaining.

In his sermon Sunday, the Rev. Mr. Terrell observed that your spiritual conditions could be much better and our physical conditions much worse.

"We should take inventory of ourselves," he declared adding. "Let us start the New Year afresh and throw away all of the old dead branches and let the new blossom out."

ANNAPOLIS DOINGS

By ELOISE RICHARDSON

Scribe pays visit to hometown of Indianapolis; Mr. and Mrs. Social Club holds its annual holiday frolic; Music impressive at Mt. Paran Church; Two in interesting jobs.

Well, here I am on a non-stop flight toward home after the usual enjoyable visit during the holidays with my mother, Mrs. Eliza J. Stephen and my sister and brother-in-law, the Cromwell Ricketts and friends out in Indianapolis, Ind.

As a matter of fact, more of my family for we built our Christmas family dinner on Sunday.

Other members of the family there were my sister and her husband, the William Johnsons (Mildred), my niece and her husband, newlyweds, the Sherman Robinsons (Five Jayne) two nephews, William and Charles Johnson and Miss Marian Jackson, all of Dayton, and another nephew and his family, the Oryal Browns (Connie) and baby daughter, my grand niece, Karen.

The occasion took many reminiscences and certainly it was a wonderful time to feel the real worth and love of a dear beloved mother. As a mother who has given so much to her children, I can be honored only by saying what Lincoln said about his mother: "All I am and all I hope to be, I owe to my mother."

As usual, friends from near and far visited with their gracious hospitality as an honoree.

A brunch—bridge for twelve in the home of Mrs. D. Carlisle Venerable (Mary) as hostess—and whether or not, I received the highest bridge score, so got the first prize, and received other distinguished gifts from my hostess and friends.

Also a breakfast bridge with Mrs. Bruce Dawson (Mabel) as hostess; supper party with Mrs. Carlisle Hughes (Laura) as hostess; a luncheon with Mrs. Abbie Chandler as hostess.

Also a theater party to see Porgy and Bess with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whitney (Verla) as host and a New Year's party with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Butler (Gladys) as hosts. Some of you may remember the Butlers, Mrs. Hughes and Mrs. Venerable from having been here.

AS A VISITOR I was welcomed to many, many affairs, but the following I cannot forget: The annual Christmas frolic of the Mr. and Mrs. Social Club, one of Indianapolis most outstanding social clubs. Mr. and Mrs. Todd Reynolds (Violet) are the Mr. and Mrs. Social of Indianapolis and they were married in Macon, Georgia, as my hosts.

A reception by Mrs. William Cannon in honor of her newly-wed foster son and his bride, Robert H. Hughes (Ann) from Perry, Ga., a reception by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Allen (Madeline) and Mr. and Mrs. George Boden (Alma) in honor of Mrs. Mary Ross of Los Angeles.

Also the guest of Mrs. Oliver Stewart at the annual Christmas tea for the National Council of Colored Women's Philanthropic.

Also the guest of Wallace Woodfolk (Stephen Foster Foundation) at his annual Christmas dinner where I also did "The Earliest Angel."

Gifts were received from Mesdames John T. Flack (Maude), Lois Mendenhall, D. Carlisle Venerable (Mary), Robert Whitney (Verla), Leonard Moss (Georgia), Ethel Cox, Eugene Winburn (Edna) and Otis R. Bryant (Grace), Miss Sarah Meriweather and Wallace Woolfolk.

I also attended the church of childhood, the Mt. Paran Baptist Church, a leading one in big city.

If one is hungry for good church music, there is the place to really feast. Mrs. Alonzo (Blossom), an outstanding church musician is the place as the mindfed of music there with "Night Choir, the Mormon Choir, a junior Choir, a Women's Chorus, and the Celestial Choir.

The Celestial Choir is crowded to the capacity for more than 19 years and one can feel that she is interested in her work. Better than the Women's Chorus, each group is comprised of at least 50 voices.

There one will also experience anthems and participating in sacred cantatas, spirituals and gospel songs, making a special date for members of the congregation to feel a fervent inspiration whichever type of music they appreciate most.

One can see why the members, Mesdames Ethel Bell, Hunter, and the Rev. Plummer D. Jacobs, associate pastor, are the most outstanding in demand to deliver such wonderful sermons.

MRS. JONES, a sweet singer, is very right in being so active in church music, also she is a teacher of the church music course in the Sunday School department of the National Baptist Convention and in charge of music at the annual Congress at a state and district level.

A very pleasant person in every capacity, in that she has trained most of the choirs with the choice she has had of choices.

The Celestial Choir (the young people's group) has as its soloist, Miss Doris Lisemby soprano, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Shaw, a June graduate of Shortridge High School.

One of her teachers was Sergeant Walls Wilson, another leading musician around Indianapolis, and she has also had the honor of being taught by Arthur Jordan College of Music.

When she returned to New York City with the Youth Council of the local NAACP last spring, she sang on the national program with the Cleveland Choral Society.

Miss Lisemby was the first church girl to receive the annual Junior Citizenship at her high school, and did so two consecutive years.

When Martin Luther King appeared as a speaker in Indianapolis, Miss Lisemby was a soloist on the occasion, she having been auditioned for the same.

DURING MY visit I also visited Lincoln High School, one of the schools where I taught for the school year 1926-1927. The school girl immediately indicated to me that I was with somebody's teacher. He was with the Mr. and Mrs. Social Club, a very outstanding young man, a leader in his community and a very attractive young man. Incidentally, he is married to the former Miss Lillian Hunter, a teacher in the Indianapolis Public Schools.

I particularly refer to Mr. William Fountain, Mr. Hughes is a product of the public schools and who has an LLB degree from Indiana University School of Law, is serving his second year as Marion County (Indiana) deputy prosecuting attorney and is a successful practitioner.

He married the former Miss Lulu Mae Thomas of Bloomington, Ind., and to father two daughters, Mrs. James Wright, a recent December bride and student at Howard University, and Miss Willa Hughes, senior at Shortridge High School.

TWO PERSONS serving in unique ministries, Mrs. Dawson, Mrs. Clarence Dawson, who is a sorteress to deaf people, and Mrs. Hughes, who is a chaplain at a hospital.

Another Boy Scout Troop is under her supervision, a house man, a cook, maids and housekeepers, and does all the work from the manager and does all the shopping for family meals and entertainment.

Also she is the mother of a young man who is a graduate of Howard University and is now a student at Yale Divinity School.

Mrs. Dawson is also a conductor in the Church School of Religious Education of the National Baptist Sunday School Congress, a member of the Indiana State Board of Christian Education and a member of the staff of the Indiana Federation of Colored Women's Clubs.

She also serves on the YWCA and YMCA and the Federation of Colored Women's Clubs.

Her work includes ministering of medicine to the sick, to deal such a serious

Castro man was aboard downed liner

WILMINGTON, N.C.—Carlos Ramos of Havana, a public relations officer in the Castro Government, was among the 34 persons killed when the turbo-prop airliner crashed near here Tuesday morning.

The National Airlines DC8B "apparently disintegrated in the air from an unknown cause," said John E. Moffis, vice president of the airline. He made the statement after visiting the scene of the crash.

Vice Adm. Edward O. Mc-Donnell, retired U. S. Marine Corps 64-year-old Medal of Honor winner, also was among the 29 passengers and five crewmen on the ill-fated flight from New York to Miami.

THE PLANE went down shortly after 2:31 a.m., when the plane was last heard from. Bodies and debris were scattered all over the farm of Richard Randolph, of Boiling. Two bodies were still missing at press time.

Mr. Randolph told officials he heard the plane, which he said sounded like it was missing and "then there was an explosion and everything shook and he went back to sleep. His son discovered the wreckage the next morning.

cial prejudices must be combatted. In the long perspective of history, the right to vote is the most important of the stronger pillars of a free society.

"Our first duty is to protect the right to vote all citizens enjoy. In spite of Constitutional guarantees and notwithstanding the fact that for almost 90 years this still deprives some citizens in this country of the equal protection of the law."

"EARLY IN your last several years, I noticed that people whom would help eliminate several practices discriminating against the basic rights of Americans.

"The Civil Rights commission's proposals represent constructive recommendations. I hope that those with authority will matter the actually considered in the current session. I trust that Congress will promptly act to the world that our Government is strong for equality under law for all of our people.

THE COMMISSION proposal is one of the liveliest political issues current. The President's confidence to give an all out endorsement to the Commission's proposal has attracted wide attention.

Two candidates for the Democratic nomination have already endorsed the proposal. They are Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and Sen. J. Kennedy.

Vice President Nixon virtual is assured of the Republican nomination, is believed to lean toward the idea of federal safeguards. He has spoken strongly in favor of the proposal in public, perhaps, possibly because of the President's full-arm attitude.

THE PROPOSAL grew out of the Commission's investigation in Alabama where, rather than enforce the registrars of voters, officials closed the polls and cancelled elections.

THE COMMISSION'S REPORT proposed also that local officials be permitted to file suits against persons who violate voting rights, if the authorized counsel can show that 50 per cent of the population the vote is denied.

Also, it proposed that the Attorney General be empowered to sue for 10 per cent of eligible colored persons not registered to vote, and a single colored person, if he is interested.

SPEAKING IN Chicago last year, Mr. Wilford W. Wilkins, president of the Illinois State Bar Association said that "the Negro lawyer has contributed the great bulwark of our democratic institutions. That this is so is a matter of world record. Our Negro lawyers have given to the world a glorious tradition. Their contribution must stand as one of the proudest chapters in our history. We hope that we have done our share in the battle for human rights. We hope that we have done our share in the battle for human rights.
