Astoria to get McLawler Trio

Take a drum, a violin and an organ, put them together and let your imagination run wild for this is exactly what happens when Sarah McLawler takes over the stage at Club Astoria with her very unusual trio.

Sarah has long been recognized as one of the outstanding jazz organists in the business and has long been a standard night club name but it wasn't until she got the idea of combining this intrument with a violin and drum that she started climbing up the road of fame.

For musical kicks and something different, and catch the Sarah McLawler Trio at the Astoria, Feb. 1-28.

CAMPUS NOTES

Sounding off on 'sounds of jazz'

By LAVANIA RICE
INQUIRING REPORTER

QUESTION: Do you agree with the statement that the "Appreciation of Jazz Comes With Maturity?"

James Smith — "On a whole you could say yes, there is some particular feeling that I dislike about some expressions in fa certain jazz artist, yet I do consider myself mature."

Isaac "Sonny Miller — "No, because a person can be quite mature, and not necessarily like jazz."

Charles Hollingsworth — "Yes because it is an intellectual form of music and intellectual greatness only comes with age and wisdom."

Sarah Cousin — "No, most people do not understand jazz as much as they would like to think that they do. For this reason jazz has no age boundary."

Theodore Hobday — "Emphatically no, the idea in itself is ridiculous."

Vernetta Watson — "Yes, because it developes with age. When you are young you are not appreciative to instrumentals, and abstract beats, thus the trend leads many to rock and roll fad."

Dolores Williams — "Yes; and no further comments."

Violetta Williams — "No, the majority of the people who think that they understand jazz are often putting on a front. actually, I would say that there is no age as far as understanding "Jazz" is concerned."

PERSONALITY OF THE WEEK:

This week's very popular personality is Robert S. Smith Bobby is a graduate of the Baltimore City College, and at the present a student at Morgan State College.

Bobby is a math major and upon completing his fone years at Morgan he is planning to enter grad school to better prepare himself for a future in the field of industry or government work.

Among Bobby's hobbies are: swimming, basketball, and football, but he does not take an active part in any, yet.

His highest interest lies in hot rods, and speed boats the faster he owns, and during the summer he often takes part in various local races.

Bobby is very easily recognized by his pleasing smile and his favorite greeting "Hello, Fellow Brother."

Bobby's favorite colors are black, green, and brown, which constitute the majority of his wardrobe. I might add that Bobby also looks quite neat in his attire.

SPEAKING OF PEOPLE

Paul Smith — A student at the Baltimore Junior College is still considered one of the basketball's teams most valuable players.

Jimmy Collins — A resident of North Carolina is planning on celebrating his up coming birthday in Washington, New York, and Philadelphia.

Ralph Williams — A student at Morgan State is making plans to join the choir next semester, but number one on his list is maintaining his 3.0. PLACES AND THINGS

The "Chits" a charity club consisting of young ladies on Morgan's campus had their first affair on Saturday. The affair was a luncheon at the Sphinx club's all purpose room.

The members of this club are: Carolyn Bell, Lillian Brooks, Sara Cousin, Lillie Clayborne, Rose Coleman Juanita Carter, Carole Poulson, Lavania Rice, Sonja Perkins Marguerite Grier, Barbara Greams and Anette Cherry.

At this luncheon a program committee was formed and offices were elected. They are: Lillie Clayborne president; Sara Cousins, treasurer; Lillian Brooks, vice president; Lavania Rice, business manager, Sonja Perkins, secretary.

The group also planned a very elaborate affair which will be held the last of March.

Get Rated "A" Blend Whiskey $1 A Fifth Less, Says Expert
By Winfred Van Rye
People who know whiskey Retail know how to get better quality yet pay $1. less a bottle.
Distilling is controlled by authorities down to each detail. The key fact about whiskey quality is this: Experts grade the best blends as "A". Inferior blends are rated B or C. Yet you can pay more for a B or C blend than an A blend.
How come? Because high liquor prices include many things with nothing to do with quality. In high priced whiskey, about $1 goes for costly shipping, warehousing, cracking, big national ads, jobber's markups.
Don't pay for things you don't get! Under U.S. Gov't distilling regulations PRIDE OF BALTIMORE Blended Whiskey is rated industry-wide as on the same level in every respect, as the highest priced A Blends.
Age and quality are in PRIDE OF BALTIMORE without high prices because it's blended and bottled here. You save the money other whiskeys must spend on things that add nothing to whiskey quality.
