FOR A GOOD CAUSE — This is the kick-off dinner meeting of the United Protestant Appeal of the Council of Churches of Maryland held at the Lovely Lane Methodist Church, St. Paul and 22nd St., last week. Representatives of many of the participating congregations attended. The Council has a goal of $81,000 to supplement its budget so its services can be continued and expanded. C. Newton Kidd, investment banker, is chairman of the drive. The Rev. Arthur J. Payne of Enon Baptist Church is president of the Council of Churches and presided at the meeting.

Mrs. Nellie J. Paul hailed as friend and advisor to many

Mrs. Nellie Jones Paul was a loyal woman with a loving, sweet smile, quiet, unassuming manner, a devout Christian church worker and fraternal leader, a loyal, trustworthy, friendly advisor.

And, she was a loving wife and mother. Kindhearted, peaceful, sincere, helpful, observant, confident, a source of encouraging patience and confidence, and faith in God.

These are the words used over and over again by friends and associates who spoke at services for Mrs. Paul, 71, who died on Saturday at Provident Hospital, after years of illness. Mrs. Paul, also a fraternal leader, died in November, 1958.

Before his death and until her illness, the family lived in the 1300 block N. Calhoun St. for many years. The Pauls celebrated their 55th wedding in 1958.

THE REV. W. P. Mitchell of Bethel Payne Memorial AME Church, where Mrs. Paul was a member, officiated at the funeral services held at the church. Burial followed at Mt. Olivet Cemetery.

The statement describing Mrs. Paul's contributions to the community came in the form of resolutions from some of the many fraternal groups with which she was affiliated.

Highlight of these resolutions was her service as a consistent attendance worker over a period of 40 years. The Pauls celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary in 1958.

MRS. PAUL was born in Tuscaloosa, Baltimore County, March 8, 1887, the daughter of the late John and Martha Clegett Jones.

She was educated in the Baltimore County schools, and lived in the county until her marriage in 1902 to Mr. Paul.

There were four sons born of the union, two of whom survive. They are: William C. Paul, Magnolia, N.J., and James L. Paul, Baltimore. There are also nine grandchildren and ten great grandchildren.

Her smile and words of encouragement brought comfort to hundreds of members of Payne for more than 60 years.

"She had a smile when she was in pain. She never complained. Such a person ministers to the minister. I got something out of my visits to her sick room. I left cheerful because I saw she had hope, belief, confidence and faith in God."

Music for the service was by the church choir. Mrs. Lillie Johnson was at the organ. Following the regular service, members of the Order of Eastern Star conducted special rites with Brother Ronald C. Reid presiding.
