Forty at Morgan in honor society

Forty Morgan State College students who earned honor averages in their first semester studies have been initiated into Promethean Kappa Tau, the college's Freshman Honor Society.

The second semester freshmen heard President Martin D. Jenkins urge them to "achieve such a high level and to seek to develop creative imagination" in the initiation address.

Ceremonies were held last Wednesday in the Student Union Building.

Promethean Kappa Tau, only local honor society among the twelve at the college, was established to encourage high scholastic achievement among freshmen and to honor these students of first-year rank who do well academically.

Also, Robert Limerick, Joel McLeod, Reese Marshall, Gregory Miller, Joan Morris, Cynthia Owings, Benjamin Page, Ellen Pettiaew, Sue Poole, Barbara Quinton, Arnold Redmond, Lorraine Roberson, Franklin Showell, Robert Smith;

Pledged to the honor society were four students who entered the college at mid-year. They are: Dorothy Davis, Hugh Harris, John J. Richardson, and Houston Stansbury.

THE INITIATION and pledge charges were conducted by Eugene Stanley, acting assistant dean of the college.

Other program participants were: Warren Edmonds, Promethean Kappa Tau president, who presided; Miss Maxine P. Johnson, president of the Morgan chapter of Alpha Kappa Mu Honor Society for general scholarship, who extended greetings; Walter Robinson, who introduced Dr. Jenkins; and Dr. Ruth Brett Quarles, coordinator of Student Personnel Services, who made announcements.

Cherry Hill girls advised about posture

"If in fashion you would rate, on your posture concentrate," was the poetic advice offered to the girls by fashion stylist, Miss Eleanor Echo.

Miss Echo pointed out just as important as the new fashions in her collection were the posture tips.

Also participating were Beverly Grainger, Cynthia Jones, Rosia Cottingham, Athena Davis, Marian Campbell, Christine Moses, Brenda Washington, Deborah Curry, Cynthia Blackwell, and Marian Johnson.

The program was sponsored by the home economics department staff including Mrs. C. Shockley, chairman; Mrs. C. Franklin, Mrs. L. Williams and Mrs. R. Galloway.

Arena Players present 'Look Back in Anger'

"Look Back In Anger," by John Osborne, was performed by the Arena Players for one of their recent weekend series.

It is a striking study of the psychological problems involved in the marriage of a gently reared, protected girl ("Alison Porter" Jane B. Thorne) and a ne'r-do-well ("Jimmy Porter" (Alvin Turner), who has become embittered by the loss of his family.

The young wife loses prestige, friends and her family as she follows him from job to job, ending up in a one-room flat over a "sweet shop" in an English town.

The situation is complicated by a friend of the husband, "Cliz Lewis" (Joe Wilson), who is in partnership with Jimmy in the shop. He cherishes an affection for "Alison," who is cowed by his tactless revealing abuse of her husband.

The weekend visit of the wife's old school friend, "Helena Charles" (Joyce Smith) adds fuel to the domestic fire. At the instigation of "Helena," "Alison's" father "Colonel" Redfern arrives to take his daughter, who is pregnant, home to the family.

The third takes an unexpected turn, when "Helena" the proper church-going friend, estays behind to become Jimmy's mistress. After losing her baby, "Alison" returns to the flat, realizing she loves "Jimmy."

"Helena" gives the wife some sound advice on how to deal with the husband's psychological problems, "Cliz" also departs and all ends on a bright note.

ALTHOUGH THE story is not a complicated one, the production of the play and the character portrayal is by no means easy. It can be overdone to the point of being ridiculous or be so insipid that it falls flat.

Irving Turner did a most convincing characterization of the neurotic husband, hilariously happy one minute and bitterly despondent the next. June Butler made an excellent foil to him with repressed emotion that finally burst its bonds.

A most balance was achieved by Joe Wilson, who flies to his friend both and keep his affection for the wife on a platonic basis.

In his role of the Colonel, John Hicken was conservative and stuffy in the proper style, although at times he did not seem completely at ease. With his usual artistry Sam Wilson, founder and director of The Arena Players paced the action so as to keep suspense high—a difficult thing to do in such a wordy play.

SETS, PROPS, makeup and sound were handled adequately by Churchill W. Johnson, Irvin Turner, James Dow, June Thorne and Delborne Boykin. Beverly Burrell, R. Royal White and John Hicklin were in charge of public relations, business and publicity.

During the intermission the audience enjoyed viewing and exhibition of 26 art productions by Henry Goodwin Lewis. They included oils, water colors, collage, (a modern art medium) and wood sculpture.

Coppin Bulletin praises religious program

The official Weekly Bulletin of Coppin State Teachers College for the week of February 29 carries the following commendation of the Religious Emphasis Day program:

"The highest praise goes to the committee on arrangements. The program was superbly planned and executed, and the key-note speaker was most appropriately chosen."

The keynote speaker referred to in the Bulletin was the Rev. James Clinton Hoggard, secretary - treasurer of the Department of Foreign Missions of the AME Zion Church, who also acted as co-ordinator, with six pastors of Baltimore, or of Baltimore area, churches as guest consultants on various panels which followed the general assembly.

The Assembly Committee responsible for the arrangements comprised the following faculty members: Mrs. Allie Cliff, Mrs. Flossie Desmond (chairman), Dr. Leonea B. Dudley, Henry Freeman (also in charge of music), Miss V. Mae Gray, William Stanford, and Mrs. Corinda Waters.

Also the following students: Elnor Bell, Claudia Davis, Joy Hinson, Sylvia Johnson, and Betty Robinson, Mrs. Hilda Clark, chief librarian at Coppin, acted as timekeeper.

DR. LILLIAN D. DEARING, director of Student Teaching at Coppin, has prepared a report on the Annual National Conference of the Association for Student Teaching, at the Conrad Hilton Hotel, Chicago.

Dr. Ford to chair meeting

Dr. Nick A. Ford, professor and head of the Department of English at Morgan State College, has been invited to serve as a workshop chairman at the national annual meeting of the Conference on College Composition and Communication, March 31 to April 2 in Cincinnati, Ohio.

The Morgan professor has a long record of leadership in the work of professional organizations. He served for five years as a member of the Board of Directors of the National Council of Teachers of English, and in 1958 was appointed a charter member of the Commission on the Profession of the NCTE.

He is also Chairman of Judges for the State of Maryland of the NCTE's National Achievement Awards Committee and is a member of the College Language Association.

SECOND PLACE CITATION—George G. Singleton, secretary-treasurer of CIAA, congratulates St. Augustine's coach Jesse Clements for Fred Cosam's surprise finish as runners-up in conference tournament. Raleigh five barely made the 8-team field, lost in finals to Winston, 65-44.

AGGIES STILL AROUND — Cal Irvin and his A and T College basketers failed to repeat as visitation tournament champs in the CIAA, honors they won both of the last two years. But Cal and one of the Aggie Stars, Jerry Powell, accept trophy as regular season runner-up from CIAA prexy Thomas Henderson at annual tourney in Greensboro, N.C.

7 pupils, 6 schools share PALMA essay contest prizes

Seven school children and six schools are the recipients of cash awards being made by the Pennsylvania Avenue-Lafayette Market Association to the winners of the sixth annual Lincoln-Douglass Essay contest.

More than four hundred entries were received, read and judged. The elementary schools submitted the largest number of essays.

The first prize of $10 was awarded to Edward Turner, a sixth grade pupil at Stowe School No. 118. Second prize of $5 went to Estella Gambrill, James Mosher School No. 146 and third prize of $3 went to Alicia Winston of Garnet School No. 103.

In the Junior High School Division, the $10 first prize went to Ronald Rowe, School No. 130, Booker Washington Junior High; $5 second prize to Janice Toppin of Lemmel Junior High; and $3, third prize, to Janice Bush, Booker Washington Junior High.

Only one prize was awarded in the Senior High School division, and that was to Philip Howard of Edmondson High School.

IN ACCORDANCE with the established policy of the Pennsylvania Avenue - Lafayette Market Association, schools attended by the essay contest winners also received cash awards in the amount won by the contestant.

Checks made to the school librarians went to the following winners: Lemmel Junior High $5; Booker Washington Junior High, $13; Edmondson High librarian, $10; No. 103, $3; Stowe Elementary, $10; and Mosher School No. 146 librarian, $5.

The Lincoln - Douglass Essay Contest is conducted annually by the Pennsylvania Avenue-Lafayette Market Association.

This year, contestants were given a choice of two topics, "If I were Frederick Douglass, I would . . ." and, "If I were Abraham Lincoln, I would . . ."

Bullets face rugged test as end approaches

The Bullets plunge into the season's final Eastern League basketball week end starting tonight (Friday) night in Allentown as the pennant race continues to boil. The teams shift here Saturday.

Sparked by big Bill Spivey's hot hand, the Bullets came back last week end to wrest the lead away from Easton and now must engineer a two game sweep from the Jets to clinch a tie for the flag.

It's a tough order. The Bullets have yet to down the high-scoring Jets in two previous starts.

EASTON, now a half game behind, has three left— at home to Sunbury, which has lost five straight, and home - and - home with fifth place Williamsport.

The Madisons visit the Bullets Friday and are host to Sunbury Saturday.

ALLENTOWN, which four times has averaged over-fifty per cent in shooting, once went sixty per cent, features 6 - 9 Ray "Chink" Scott, who hit 33 to win the first clash, 123-109, and the last - second free throws to take the rhubarb-filled one here. 82 - 81. Roman Turmon, playmaker Brendan McCann and Larry Hennessy.

Scott has fired 565 points this season, will the lifty Turmon who came to the Jets from the Harlem Globetrotters 15 games ago, has made 383 in this stretch, including 21 in the visit here.

HENNESSY, THE League's MVP in 1958 when it was Barre, hascaged 42 1 - the two games, 402 for the season.

The Bullets, of course, are banking on Spivey, to continue his sharp shooting. The big fellow tallied 31 at Wilkes-Barre, 53 in the big one overEaston and 44 Sunday versus Williamsport to hike his total to 933 for 25 games.

CAMPUS NOTES

Beatnicks who read poetry—standing on their heads yet

By LAVANIA RICE
SPEAKING OF PEOPLE

LOUISE SILER — Has been spending the majority of her time assisting Dr. Taylor in the Physics Department.

COMING EVENTS

Inquiring Reporter

QUESTION: In voting for the President, in 1960, what will be your major considerations? (G. A. S.)

BERNARD STEWART—"Previous experience."

MELVIN SCOTT — "Relative to a major consideration for a presidential candidate, I would lean heavily on the question of Civil Rights."

DONALD GWYNN—"I would consider what attitude the president and his political organization have most consistently exhibited in matters of world peace, national economy, and race."

HAVE YOU HEARD

The newest thing in the line of way out parties seems to be "Beatnick" sets where the invitees endeavor to read the master pieces of poetry in quite odd positions (on their heads). The setting is quite fitting for such titles as: "An Odeto an Ode", "Bread" "An Ode to a Crumb" of course these are read by candle light which makes everything much more effective.

In the line of fashion the semi-shaggy dog sweaters for both males and females is making a big hit.

Speaking of music, the numbers are rock and roll record is by the "drifters" what is it? This Mack is "Monogo," of course. This is the third million dollar seller in a row for this very popular group.

In the line of jazz, the Monk is still on top with his various LP's not to mention Nina Mitchell hasn't been doing such a bad job for himself either, but Del Sonia's "Sonteda", which has everyone wondering.

WELL FELLOW students that time is again here again so if you are one of those who procrastinate, you'd better get on the ball, because it is really later than you think.

There is roughly about 3-4 weeks away. This will be a lovely occasion for both students and instructors, on the second thought you might be one of those who don't know what I'm talking about, but it is best that you get down to some serious studying. Need I say more?

Military meeting To Mills College

Professors of Military Science and Tactics, representing 20 senior ROTC colleges and universities within this seven state Army area, will confer at Fort Meade on March 8.

Special topics to be discussed are compulsory versus voluntary ROTC participation; proposed curricula changes in the Army and Air Force ROTC programs; and plans for the 1960 ROTC summer encampment.

The conference will be conducted by Lieutenant Colonel E. Guenther, Chief, ROTC Branch, Headquarters, Second U.S. Army.

MISS GLORIA HINMON is crowned "Miss Omega, 1960" by Andrew L. Jackson, Jr., as Omega Gamma Tau Fraternity, Morgan College campus chapter, held its annual Sweetheart Dance, Friday evening.

Brotherhood Week program held by School 25 pupils

A program culminating Brotherhood Week activities at School No. 25 was given by the fifth grade classes of Mrs. Maxine Clarke and Mrs. Elsie Robinson.

The main feature was a playlet entitled "Brotherhood Street," with singing, dances and choral speaking.

Mrs. Alfreda J. Pinkney, principal, gave an inspiring talk on practicing brotherhood.

MUSIC WAS under direction of Mrs. Maria Cassel and Mrs. Cecelia Harris.

Participants were: Margaret Banks, Mary Lou Banks, Lorraine Barnes, Michelle Chase, Charles Coles, Theresa Coles, Donnie Davis;

Thomas enters Chicago meet, eyes new mark

CHICAGO (ANP). — John Thomas world champion high jumper from Boston University, will try to improve upon his 7 foot - 2 inch mark established during the AAU track meet in New York recently, when he makes his midwest debut in the Chicago Daily News Relays March 11 at the International Amphitheatre.

Thomas, the greatest high jumper ever, seems to improve his performance with the weeks. His 7 - 2 mark was a half - inch better than the 7 foot - 1½ inch record he established shortly after returning to the track following a leg injury.

Also entered in the Daily News Relays is Hayes Jones of Eastern Michigan College, co-holder of the indoor 60 - yard high hurdles record.

Wilt wins pro athlete honors

NEW YORK (ANP — Wilt Chamberlain, the N.B.A. record breaker, has been named pro athlete of the month and winner of the S. Rae Hickok award, after he nasedout Paul Pender of Boston by a single vote in the January balloting for the honors.

The famed "dipper" received the votes to 125 for Pender, the two - state middleweight boxing champion, who won a controversial split decision over former titlist Sugar Ray Robinson last Jan. 22. Some ring observers have called the verdict a "hometown decision."

Still in his rookie year, Chamberlain has broken every important record in the N.B.A. Recently he went away over the 2,000 mark to become the pro all - time high scorer.

Swiss visitor at School 102

Mrs. Mildred Brown's sixth grade class of the Thomas G. Hayes School No. 102, recently enjoyed a visit by Dr. Maria Vin Vigiland and Student in connection with their Social Studies unit on Democracy.

Dr. Pfister, who is a medical doctor, is in the United States as a member of the World Health Organization. She is working at the Johns Hopkins Hospital for a year.

Dr. Sinclair Harper, director of Eastern Health District, supplied the children with WHO News Bulletins that were rich in team work activities in many areas and contained real-pictures of natives.

Before she visited the school, the sixth graders engaged in many varied activities to increase their knowledge about Switzerland. Some of these activities included research at the Enoch Pratt Library, finding current news about this tiny country, gathering facts, looking at films, learning Swiss songs, and writing compositions.

Dr. Pfister also attended one of the P.T.A. meetings held during the month of February. Mrs. Geraldine Reynolds and her sixth grade class were invited as guests. Mrs. Anne L. Payne is the principal.

City College PTA schedules meeting

Department heads of the Baltimore City College will be the featured speakers at the school's PTA meeting, Thursday evening, March 10.

Participants in the English, Science, Modern Language, Math, History, and Business Education Departments will tell parents exactly what their departments expect of the students.

The business section of the meeting will feature a report by Robert Rosenbaum on the current campaign to raise funds for the Alumni-PTA Scholarship Fund.

Preceding the usual conference of parents and teachers will be a performance by the City College Concert Band under the direction of Dr. Donald Norton.

'Unsung' players seen key factors in title game

By SAM LACY

If the opinions of the rival coaches are to be taken seriously, the Dunbar - Douglass series for the city scholastic basketball championship very well hinge on the performances of two relatively unsung players.

Coach Sugar Cain of the Division 2 champion, Dunbar, says he and his team are entering the MSA opener with a healthy respect for the Duck's Louis Cornish.

Coach Mack Payne of the Division 1 titlist, Douglass, admits that he and his boys will have their hands full controlling Rudy Peterson.

Neither Cornish nor Peterson has gained as much publicity during the regular schedule as some other members of the opposing teams.

For Dunbar, the big gun all season long has been Charlie Leach. And at Douglass, Cornish has played the full year in the shadow of Frank James and Bill Hailey.

BOTH PAYNE and Cain talked for the AFRO as they drilled their teams for the second two-of-three series which begins tomorrow (Saturday) night at 8 o'clock at Morgan State College.

"We're going to be watching Douglas," shot back Cain, the 6-foot-2 inch, well defending champion Dunbar.

"Everybody keeps his eyes on Leach when Dunbar is playing," Payne continued. "I figure Charlie is going to get his points anyway, so you just have to chase him and try to stay close. I think the best way to fight them is try to cut down on Leach's help.

"THAT'S WHERE Peterson comes in. He's big and quick. He did a great job for Sugar against Loyola last week. I saw them play that one and I don't mind confessing that boy gave us something to think about.

"They've got a good, solid team. They whipped us early in the season, but we have jelled since then and it could be a different story. They may have a slight edge on their bench, but our bench is adequate and my boys are scrappers."

CAIN AGREED that Payne has every right to be concerned about Peterson.

"He came into his own after a pretty dull start," the Dunbar mentor stated. "I was very pleased over his performance against Loyola — I guess I should be. He practically won it for us.

"Mack seems to have an inspired bunch of kids over there (at Douglass) this year. That's the reason I say we'll be watching the whole club, period.

"If I were going to single out any particular boy to give us the most trouble, I suppose it would be Cornish. That fellow doesn't get the attention he deserves.

"In the game I saw, when they beat Poly to clinch their division title, he was a fine player. He doesn't shoot as well as (Frank) James does, but he's strong and smart and doesn't give up. He convinced me he gets the job done — and pretty doggoned well."

"It's a pretty big court, declared Payne, "but our boys like a big floor. They seem to play better on a large court."

Said Cain: "Morgan shouldn't give us too much trouble. The court there measures the same in width as ours. It's about ten feet longer and that's only a couple of dribbles. We'll beat the floor, if we can just beat the team."

Both Payne and Cain are graduates of Morgan State College. Both played basketball there.

Mack leans to the possessis style of play, in which the offense depends on a deliberate advance. The Douglass tutor impresses upon his boys the importance of controlling the ball, pointing out that without it scoring is impossible.

Sugar Cain, on the other hand, plays the game on a speed basis. He dotes on the fast break and works diligently on patterns designed to clear his men for quick shots and followups.

It should be interesting to see which system pays the dividends both seek.

SUGAR CAIN MACK PAYNE

gest output was a 71-point surge in beating Towson Catholic.

Dunbar scored a total of 817 points in 12 MSA contests, to bag an average of 68 per game. Douglass hit for 678 in 12 games for a 56.5 points per game average.

THERE IS one edge for the Ducks, however, if these figures are used as a yardstick. Payne's charges boast the better defensive reference.

Douglass surrendered only 487 points to the opposition in 12 games, an average of 40.6 per game against them. Dunbar gave up 614 points in the same number of essays, meaning that rival teams hit for 51.1 points per game against the Poets.

Bates High cagers turn back Pomonkey

By BOB PINKNEY

ANNAPOLIS — Bates basketball team, a fast breaking band of happy Warriors continued its dynasty over Pomonkey High School on its own boards by drubbing the visitors 72-59 in its season's home finale.

Never quite looking great but almost always adequate, the Little Giants were led at the helm by the red - hot shooting of 5-9 freshman Charles Kirby, who poured in 31 points for his highest total of the season and this mark was only three off the school record of 34 set in 1954 by Harold Covert who did the trick twice in wins over Bannekerand Douglass of Upper Marlboro.

Kirby, whose favorite shot is a neat one hand jumper, returned to the Bates lineup only Tuesday after being on the bench that for two games with an aggravating dislocated finger.

The 31 points equalled the team record for the season set by Little Walter Hunt in Bates' 73-57 win over Harriet Tubman earlier in the year. Kirby's previous high was against Mount High of Easton.

ACCORDING to the records, Carl Amos, Bates 6-1½ center of a season ago, was only one away from Coverts scoring mark with 33 in the Little Giants 66-59 victory over Douglass, and Elton Snowden did the same thing three years ago against Fairmont Heights.

As for the game itself, Bates was held to a 14-14 tie at the end of the first period, but and rolled to a 35-22 lead at the half and packed away the game by the end of the third quarter with an insurmountable 56-39 lead.

The only other player to hit double figures for coach John Holts outfit was Jerome Powell with 10-points and he turned in a stellar job on the boards.

An nuffe sant surprise was 6-5 Charles Hick, who in the last two games scored 29 points. Against Pomonkey, the lanky sophomore center was held to eight markers and had three fouls charged to him early in the second quarter. With the game way out of the reach of the losers, Holt inserted reserves Doug Williams, Harold Murry, John St. Clair, Carl Watts, William Owens and Albert Pearman.

Kirby, whose 31 points totaled 12 goals and three free throws, played the entire game.
