MISS DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

A TIME FOR GREATNESS

KENNEDY CAMPAIGN MANAGER MAPS STRATEGY — Larry Jackson, student campaign manager for Senator John Kennedy points out critical states the senator must win to be nominated at the Mock Democratic Convention going on today (Friday) at Morgan State College. Kennedy supporter looking on is Herbert Herowitz.

day (Friday) might well be the "real thing."

Ending months of intensive planning and weeks of heated campaigning, student practitioners of the art of politics turned the Morgan campus into a little California.

By Thursday, eve of the convention which was keynoted by Paul M. Butler, Democratic National Committee chairman, the campaign was almost over—except for the final caucusing, nominating and voting.

PROFILES OF favorite candidates hung from walls at every Morgan building; students sported big buttons, handbills were everywhere and all over the talk was politics.

Sponsored by the Ford Foundation — financed Institute for Political Education, the campaign was largely student-planned and student directed and provided a realistic lesson in citizenship.

Cecil Harris, one of the 13 Political Education Scholars, masterminded the convention, serving as Morgan's national chairman, while William Wagstaff, on orator of considerable repute, served as permanent chairman.

Each of the six most powerful "possible" and avowed candidates for the Democratic nomination in July had his cause boomed by a Morgan campaign manager.

Calvin Ferguson led the Edmund "Pat" Brown campaign; Nelson Williams boosted Senator Hubert Humphrey; James Williams campaigned for Senator Lyndon B. Johnson; Larry Jackson led the Senator John F. Kennedy drive; William Clayton battled for Adlai Stevenson; and Joseph James spearheaded the Senator Stuart Symington candidacy.

SENATOR KENNEDY seemed a pre-convention favorite. From Kennedy headquarters in Washington, D.C., came bundles of "Profiles" of Kennedy, literature proclaiming "A Time for Greatness," and big red, white and blue Kennedy buttons.

The Senator's headquarters staff was so delighted about the mock convention, that it even requested that Jackson send a telegram—collect — stating the result of the voting.

Missouri's Symington, who openly got in the race a few days ago, wasted no time in having his literature in for the convention.

By Wednesday, his campaign manager had assembled scores of placards, and banners, in bold black and white.

There was plenty going for Humphrey, too, and what was missing for the unannounced contenders, student artists themselves supplied.

WHILE THE convention is, "just make believe," it is realistic.

Under the expert guidance of political scientists G. James Fleming and Dwight B. Pettengill, director and assistant director, respectively, of the Institute, the convention paralleled closely in organization and technique the real thing.

Opened at 10 a.m. in Hurt Gymnasium, got under way with the invocation by the Rev. Howard L. Cornish, director of the Morgan Christian Center.

Then followed the "Star Spangled Banner," sung by Miss Evelyn Brown, contralto.

Chairman Harris called for convention business. Then followed words of welcome from Dr. Martin D. Jenkins, Morgan president, and Baltimore Mayor J. Harold Grady.

Mr. Butler keynoted and exited. Then came reports of the Credentials, Rules and Platform Committees and announcements.

This activity concluded the morning session.

NOMINATIONS OF candidates begin at 1:30 p.m. with the traditional roll call of states. Voting begins about 3:30 p.m.

AS A SPECIAL touch, Dr. B. Hayes-Strider, Head of the Morgan Department of Music Education, composed special convention music.

And particularly rewarding for the hard-working student campaigners was the $25 prize donated by the Most Worshipful Prince Hall Grand Lodge, F and A. M. for the delegation which best promoted its candidate, its state or itself.

The Morgan convention also paid a special salute to Oberlin College which is observing this year its 100th anniversary of holding mock political conventions.

In addition to Morgan Students, convention delegates include students from Salisbury State, Loyola, Coppin State Teachers College, Western Maryland, Notre Dame, Hood and Howard University.

OTHER STUDENT officers of the convention are:

John R. Risher Jr., parliamentarian; Barbara Fredrick, secretary; Hildegardes Boswell, ballot clerk; Edward Hayes, statics clerk; Carl Smith, sergeant-at-arms; Larry Jackson, chairman credentials committee; Matthew Gillette, chairman, resolutions committee; Clifton W. Henry, chairman, rule committee; Miss Sally Robinson and Augustus Doward, co-aids adviser; Miss Henrietta Horwitz, co-hostess; Miss Jean Lipscomb, assistant national chairmen.

mark for the important position of asst. superintent, Bureau of Recreation.

The only inking the public has had yet is the statement of some members that Harold S. Callowhill, superintendent, favored Alfred Cottrill.

Mr. Callowhill has denied expressing a preference.

In the face of charges of racial discrimination, it had been expected EEOC would have determined what factors influenced the decision in his favor.

If it was solely in line with Mr. Callowhill's preference, it was expected a statement would have been forthcoming on the reasons for that preference.

It has not in the past been the policy of EEOC to make such brief statements concerning an investigation.

THIS IS THE case in which Mr. Cottrill, 1002 Hanlon Dr., second on a promotional examination list with a score of 83.5 score, was named as assistant superintendent, Bureau of Recreation, over Harold J. Jennifer Jr., 3201 Carlisle Ave., who stood first on the list with a score of 87.7.

"The EEOC vote was six to two," Dr. Organek told the AFRO, "and the Commission also decided not to reveal how the vote went, other than numerically."

She did reveal, however, that Robert B. Watts, attorney, and one of the nine members of the EEOC board, was absent at the time of the voting.

THE AFRO was first to publicly announce the Park Board selection of Mr. Cottrill on Mar. 18.

Directly afterwards, such a storm of protests arose from interested citizens that Mayor J. Harold Grady and the EEOC board decided that the Commission should investigate the matter.

Mr. Jennifer, top man on the list, was the only member of his race of the four persons named eligible for the position — second to that of bureau of recreation superintendent.

Mayor Grady told the AFRO he wanted "to clear the air" of why the Jennifer bypass.

DR. OTENASEK said Wednesday the EEOC board had decided not to reveal the basis of the decision in the matter.

She said a three-hour meeting was held Wednesday of last week with Gerald S. Wise, a member of the three-man Park Board committee which made the selection.

And that a meeting equally as long was held the past Wednesday with Mr. Callowhill and J. Alvin Jones and George G. Shriver, the other two members of the committee.

The announcement upholding the Park Board selection followed this latter meeting.

Following first announcement of the selection of Mr. Cottrill, some of the Park Board committee members said that Mr. Callowhill had expressed a preference for him.

Mr. Jennifer, a district supervisor, has 19 years and 5 months service with the Bureau, and Mr. Cottrill has 10 years and 6 months service. Mr. Callowhill told the AFRO

10-year rating for 2 top men shows Jennifer ahead

Here are the rating cards for Harold J. Jennifer Jr., and Alfred L. Cottrill, the two top men for the post of assistant superintendent in the Bureau of Recreation.

Mr. Jennifer, who received top mark of 87.7 on the written exam, and an average of 83.3 points on a ten-year basis on performance, was passed over by officials last week, who selected Mr. Cottrill who received 83.5 on the written exam and an average of 70.0 points on performance.

Performance is based on personal, physical, aptitude, initiative, cooperation, reliability, quantity of work, quality of work, knowledge and leadership.

During the ten-year period, Mr. Cottrill received nine marks under 70 which is considered a satisfactory grade. On the other hand, Mr. Jennifer's grades during the ten-year period were considered excellent with no rating under 88 out of a possible 100.

Here is how the two men stacked up in performance ratings over the ten - year period Jan. 12, 1960 to March 10, 1960.

The rating were given by J. E. Brown and Harold S. Callowhill, superintendent.

Motorist held on manslaughter rap

A 33 - year - old laborer who allegedly fled from the scene of an accident, and then reported his car stolen after an elderly pedestrian had been struck and killed, was released on $1,000 bail for action of the grand jury Tuesday.

Irvin Wilson of the 2900 block Belmont Ave., was charged with auto manslaughter following the death of Harold T. Griffin, 54, of the 1000 block W. Franklin St.

Mr. Griffin was killed on February 6 while walking on the sidewalk near Franklin and Smallwood Sts.

In Central Police Court, testimony was given that the victim was ragged 40 feet after a car jumped the curb.

Patrolman John Lowe of the Accident Investigation Division stated that Wilson's car was found abandoned on Rosedale St., two days after the accident.

The officer said that when first questioned, Wilson claimed that he knew nothing about the accident because his car had been stolen.

When found, the hood and bumber of the car contained blood, membrances and a broken headlight.

PATROLMAN LOWE said there were indications that the death car skidded 162 feet.

The officer stated that police received information from a cab driver and a passenger who witnessed the accident. A second cab driver who picked up the accused man near the scene, and a filling station worker who changed a $10 bill so that a man who looked like Wilson could pay his cab fare.

The witnesses were Harry Zellers of the 1200 block Kavanaugh Rd., and Aaron Paxmer of the 3900 block Ridgewood Ave., both cab drivers; Mrs. Marie Allison of the 2600 block Windsor Ave., and Douglass Coates of the 400 block Taylor Ave.

Mr. Wilson did not testify and was not represented by an attorney.

In one other manslaughter case heard by Chief Magistrate Joseph Kolodny, Mrs. Dorothy Labovitz, 35, of the 3500 block Menlo Dr., was found not guilty.

Mrs. Labovitz was identified as the driver of a car that struck Mrs. Katie Mitchell, 44, of the 1900 block Pennsylvania Ave., on February 17.

As a result of the accident at Fremont Ave., near Laurens St. Mrs. Mitchell died 11 days later.

Protests bring action on Wilson St. stack

Mr. Dixon asked that it be removed, in that it no longer served the purpose for which it was built.

The stack was an outlet for smoke in the railroad's long tunnel in the direction of Washington, when steam locomotives were in use.

The company's locomotives are now electrically powered.

Dippel wants new district boundries

Francis X. Dippel, candidate for Democratic nomination for Congress in the Fourth District, asked the district's representative, George H. Fallon, to support the House Judicial Committee's inquiry on a bill calling for compact districts with relatively equal population.

Mr. Dippel, a former state senator, announced he has already asked Gov. J. Millard Tawes to establish a commission to provide recommendation for establishment of new boundaries for the Fourth and Seventh Congressional Districts.

In his letter to Gov. Tawes, Mr. Dippel asked that the Legislative Council be advised to put this matter first on its agenda, and the findings presented at the next General Assembly session.

A similar proposal for reapportionment of representatives on the basis of population in some city Legislative Districts and counties was defeated in the past February session of the General Assembly.
