Council orders

Harold J. Jennifer Jr. for the job of assistant superintendent of recreation.

Two dissenting opinions were released on Monday.

The controversy centered over the by-passing of Jennifer who scored high on the examination and had a higher efficiency rating that Mr. Cottrill.

In the resolution Mr. Liss charged that "the morale of classified employees of the city has been shaken by this and other questionable merit system procedures within the last six months."

The motion to table the resolution was made by Councilman James J. Duffy (D., First Dist.) after the title of the resolution had been read.

Mr. Duffy said the resolution should be tabled because the EEOC had heard the case and had voted on the matter.

Mr. Liss countered with the statement: "I'm glad we have clairvoyant men in this Council. The resolution has not been read yet."

Mr. Duffy added: "Mr. President, the EEOC has acted under powers given it by this Council. Are we now going to have to introduce a resolution with each appointment? I move that it be tabled.

MR. LISS answered: "I'm surprised at the action of my good friends and colleagues from the First District. It's not consistent with them.

"I'm especially pleased for the regard the First District people have for appointing heads. He (Mr. Duffy) introduced a resolution to save the jobs of bridge tenders, and his constituents. I guess it depends on whose ox is being gored.

"The press has shown that Mr. Jennifer did not get the job because his skin was colored.

"There is evidence to show that over a period of 10 years he (Jennifer) served on seven of 10 recreation committees. We ask for an opportunity to discuss this with the Park Board and Mr. Callowhill.

"The colored population has a right to know that where men are capable they will not be passed over.

"I charge Mr. Callowhill with being bigoted. We had a Council hearing two years ago because he differentiated between white and colored. All we are asking for is fair play. This has nothing to do with establishing anything new.

"I am only asking that if a man is mistreated that he be given a decent, and fair opportunity. If that is too much I would be ashamed to table this.

"A hearing will not change the appointment, but it will show that the Council will not sit by and see appointments made on the basis of color.

"I know about all the buzzing that's going on about this thing. Baltimore is not Alabama. This is not a place where people don't get fair treatment."

BEFORE CASTING his vote not to table the resolution, Councilman Jacob J. Edelman (D., 5th Dist.) had this to say:

"I feel it shouldn't be bypassed. I have noting personal against Mr. Callowhill except that he suffers from prejudice when it comes to appointments.

"Some years ago a vacancy existed for the position of supervisor of a playground and a young colored man applied for the spot. He (Callowhill) said he opposed the idea of a colored superintendent taking charge of a recreation facility frequented by white children. He thought it was not cricket.

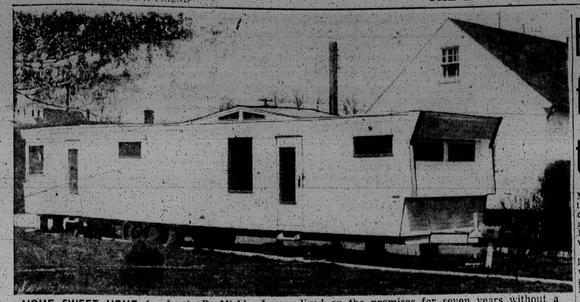
"I feel that Mr. Callowhill is an honest man but he is out of step. Mr. Callowhill has a great deal to learn on the basis of fairness and justice.

"We the Council must first set an example if we want to impress private industry and private employers about hiring qualified people. It is time that a legislative body such as ours take inventory."

Councilman William Bonnett (D., First Dist.) said that although he had voted against the EEOC when it was proposed, he felt that the Committee had given a fair hearing.

Councilman Bonnett is chairman of the Parks and Recreation Committee.

Councilman Duffy at one point proposed that six



HOME SWEET HOME for Lewis R. Mickle Jr., and his family in this 50 by 10 foot trailer at 920 Bridgeview Rd., in Cherry Hill. Mr. Mickle has lived on the premises for seven years without a permit. He was charged in Housing Court Thursday with occupying the trailer unlawfully.

MEDITATING over what he should don next to save his Cherry Hill home, Mr. Mickle, a paint contractor, pores over a book of city ordinances in the comfortable living room of his trailer. The trailer is located on a 50 by 100 foot lot.

Baltimore frowns on trailer use

For seven years Lewis R. Mickle Jr., his wife and his teenage daughter have lived comfortably and unmolested in a handsomely furnished 50 by 10 foot trailer at 920 Bridgeview Rd., in Cherry Hill.

They were never bothered by law although the city had always put off granting them a permit to live within the city limits.

Now all of that has changed. Within the short span of five months, Mr. Mickles has been called into Housing Court to answer to charges of—

A decision in that case was withheld pending a Zoning Board ruling. After he was denied a permit by the Zoning Board, Mr. Mickle filed an appeal through his attorney Charles P. Howard Jr.

Originally when charged with violation of a building code, Mr. Mickle through his attorney Charles P. Howard Jr., filed an appeal.

While awaiting court action in connection with that charge, he was arrested on a warrant list Monday.

This time Mr. Mickle was charged with unlawfully occupying a trailer and with failure to comply with a notice from the building engineers office.

The new charges developed over a misunderstanding of dates, Mr. Mickle was to have appeared in Housing Court on March 22.

He failed to appear because a decision had not been rendered on his appeal, the court was told.

Pending a hearing Mr. Mickle posted $50 collateral at the Southern District Police station.

The two charges were dismissed Thursday afternoon by Housing Court Magistrate Robert F. Sweeney.

Magistrate Sweeney indicated that if the appeal was not upheld, the city could again file charges.

ACCORDING TO the 42-year-old paint contractor, this is what has transpired over a period of years.

Before purchasing the trailer (It is parked on a 50 by 107 foot lot), I went to Room 10 in the Municipal Building and asked the zoning people what steps I should take to live in the trailer.

"They told me they have never had a case like mine before and therefore they did not know what to do. They did not issue me a permit.

"I went to see them again and they told me that if I owned the property I could stay on it under a zoning ordinance enacted in 1931 and amended in 1956.

"In 1952 they told me that if I had complied with the regulation and bought the property I could have sewage and water installed. I complied and our sewage and water is indicated on the city plans.

"I am a Jehovah's Witness and we are planning to build a Kingdom on Veronica Ave. A politician threatened to cause us trouble because he does not want us there.

After those threats were made the city sent me an order stating that I was occupying the trailer without a permit and that the matter would have to be rectified immediately.

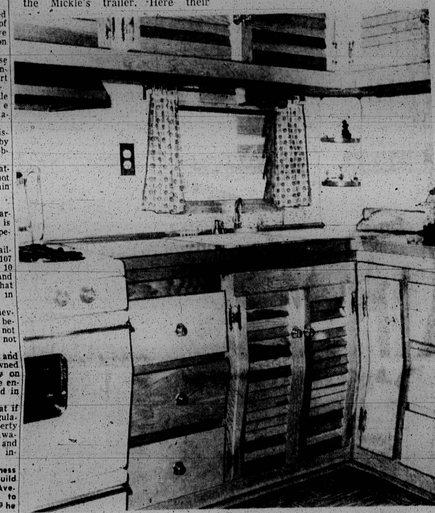
"They sent me another letter ordering me to meet with two gentlemen in the Public Works Bureau.

"They told me that I could set the trailer on a permanent foundation but that I would have to submit plans first. I have done that and they are calling me into court again."

"Where do I go from here," Mr. Mickle asked?

"It seems odd that while my case is being appealed they would bother to arrest me" he concluded.

MODERN furniture paneled walls and indirect lighting are only a few of the modern conveniences found in the Mickle's trailer. Here their daughter, Barbara, takes time out to type up a few reports in their compact home.



THE KITCHEN or galley in the trailer home of Mr. and Mrs. Mickle is modern in every way. Sewage and water were installed with the consent of city officials. Mr. Mickle is at a lost to understand why the city has not granted him a permit.

AFRO Clean Block Campaign is cited

The AFRO Clean Block Campaign, in continuous operation for 25 years, was cited Monday as an example of what can be done to beautify urban areas during the 1st regional conference of Keep America Beautiful, Inc.

the sessions, which attracted some 200 persons interested in beautification and conservation in 15 states were held at the Emerson Hotel.

Mayor J. Harold Grady, delivering the welcoming address Monday, declared: "Baltimore has a very laudable history of cooperation between citizens and local government in this field.

"A REAL PIONEERING effort — dating back for at least a quarter of a century — is the Clean Block Campaign conducted by the AFRO - AMERICAN Newspapers in this city.

"It is still going strong under the direction of Mrs. Francis Mackay, a member of the Keep Maryland Beautiful Commission.

"The City of Baltimore conducts what is probably one of the oldest weekly radio programs devoted to the clean city movement. Mrs. Dorothy Shipley Granger conducts that program along with her duties as director of public relations for the city Department of Sanitation.

"Working through clubs and civic associations, and in the schools, she and her co-workers have conducted a campaign against litterbugs for ten years or more.

THE AFRO CLEAN Block Campaign was also praised as a worthwhile project by Mrs. Granger during her appearance on a workshop panel dealing with local information, projects.

Mrs. Phoebe Albert Driscoll of Philadelphia, former executive secretary of the Keep Maryland Beautiful Commission, while chairman of the workshop on anti - litter projects, also credited the AFRO Clean Block Campaign as being a pioneer in this field.

Regional delegates, divided into four workshops, dealt with the need to plant more trees and shrubbery along the highways, the use of publicity media to educate people on the importance of a clean city, the value of using children to spearhead anti - litterbug campaigns and how to preserve the natural beauty of state forests and parks.

ATTENDING THE two - day meeting were O. L. Privette, Agricultural Extension Service, Montgomery County, Rockville, Md.; Timothy Hymen, field representative, Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, Baltimore;

Also Mrs. Edward G. Carroll, management aide, Clarence Perkins Homes, Baltimore; Mrs. Margaret Boyd of Wood School No. 176; Doswell Brooks, Fairmount Heights, Md.; George M. Crawford, home demonstration agent, Baltimore;

And, Mr. and Mrs. Otis B. Hooper, P-TA Association, Baltimore; and Mrs. M. Francis Mackay, AFRO Clean Block Director, Baltimore.

ACHR here votes to 'Sacrifice for Rights'

Backing the "Sacrifice for Rights" movement inaugurated by the American Council on Human Rights, the Baltimore unit pledged financial support to the Student Sit-down protests, here, Sunday.

In line with this decision, Baltimore women belonging to five sororities will be requested to donate funds and to forego the buying of Easter or Spring clothes and donate money they would use for such purchases to the Student Emergency Fund of ACHR.

THE STUDENT Emergency Fund of ACHR will be used for bonds and fines imposed upon students who are jailed for participating in sitdown protests. The funds will be used for students regardless of affiliation with ACHR or race.

In the meantime, ACHR officials stressed that undergraduate sorors of their affiliates will certainly have the support of the organization.

THE "SACRIFICE FOR RIGHTS" campaign is being conducted across the nation in cities which have chapters of Alpha Kappa Alpha, Delta Sigma Theta, the National Sorority of Phi Delta Kappa, Sigma Gamma Rho and Zeta Phi Beta sororities, all of which are affiliates of ACHR.

Last week Richmond, Va. women clamped down on stores which have a discriminatory policy, declaring that they will "wear rags" before they enter any of the stores that segregate colored patrons.

Regional conferences of sororities are canceling social functions in connections with their meetings and donating these funds to student sit-downers.

Eastside Community asks camp funds for underprivileged

Members of the Camping Committee of the Eastside Community Committee, Inc. are asking for contributions of $10 from interested persons and civic organizations for the purpose of renting a fresh-air camp for the week of June 18 to June 25 for underprivileged children.

In a letter to the AFRO, Mrs. Delores C. Hunt, chairman, states that the organization has sent from 75 to 100 youngsters to camp.

However, since the closing of Camp Francis M. Wood, a camp under the direction of the Department of Public Welfare, the Eastside Community Committee has the problem of where to send children who are on relief rolls of the Welfare Department.

Herbert M. Frisby is Matt Henson Day speaker

Wednesday, April 6, was Matthew Henson Day in Maryland and many school children marked the day in story, song and dramatic programs.

Among those celebrating were pupils of Elementary School No. 162, Lee and Warner Sts., where Mrs. Vivian Bundy is principal.

Matthew Henson Day was proclaimed in 1959 by Gov. J. Millard Tawes to commemorate the day when Matthew Henson, a native Marylander, born in Nanjemoy Charles County, reached the North Pole along with co-discoverer Commander Robert E. Perry on April 6, 1909.

At the top of the world, on that day, Mr. Henson became the first man of his race to arrive there as Commander Perry claimed the land for the United States.

Both Mr. Henson and Commander Perry are dead but the children of Public School No. 162 obtained for their guest speaker a man who is just as important figure as the old heroes.

He is Herbert M. Frisby, a retired science department head at Douglass High School and noted Arctic explorer who was graved bronze plaque bearing the name of Matthew Henson.

Matt Henson, as co-discoverer of the North Pole, has been an idol of Mr. Frisby since boyhood and he told the story of his life to the school children Tuesday.

Also Mr. Frisby showed them an exhibit of various souvenirs of his Arctic explorations including animal pelts, Eskimo ceremonial masks, carvings of ivory and soap stone, clothing, drums, tusks of sea animals and played tape recordings of Eskimo songs and dances.

The stage of the auditorium was decorated with a streamer inscribed: "Matthew Henson Day — 51st Anniversary of the Discovery of the North Pole."

MR. FRISBY has made many expeditions into Arctic regions which include Newfoundland, Labrador, Greenland, Arctic Canada, Spitsenbergen European Arctic.

He has circumvented the Arctic with the exception of the Russian regions in Siberia.

Mr. Frisby is the recipient of the Blackeyed Susan Award from a local newspaper which cited him for work in the field of science and his Arctic explorations.

The award also honored Mr. Frisby for focusing national attention on Matthew Henson, a Marylander.

He was also cited by the 1959 Maryland General Assembly for his achievements.

Through his efforts, the 1959 Assembly passed a bill providing for a permanent memorial to be erected to Matthew Henson and plans are currently being made for its establishment.
