IN MET'S FILM

A star-studded cast combined with exquisite photography and the craftsmanship of an Academy Award - winning director make "The Unforgiven," now playing at the Met Theatre through United Artists release an unforgettable experience.

The cast, all of whom give outstanding characterizations, include Burt Lancaster and Audrey Hepburn in the top roles, with other stellar parts being handled by Audie Murphy, John Saxon, Charles Bickford, Lillian Gish, Albert Salmi, Joseph Wiseman and June Walker.

John Huston is the aforementioned Academy Award-winning director whose skill in handling the broad canvas of character and story in "The Unforgiven" is at its peak.

HARLEM'S OFFERING

"Stars contemporary with the times is the hypo needed by the theatre box office."

Such is the opinion of Edmund Grainger, Hollywood producer who has been in the motion picture industry from his days as an office boy for Goldwyn Pictures, through his years as a salesman for the same company and for Fox Film Corporation, until today, when he is one of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's busiest producers.

"New talent is like the weather," he says. "Everyone talks about it, yet few do anything about it. I am happy to say that MGM is oneof the movie companies which are giving talented newcomers a break."

In "Home From the Hill," produced by Grainger, now playing at the Harlem, three young - players, George Peppard, George Hamilton and Luana Patten, have roles of equal importance to those of the picture's stars, Robert Mitchem and Eleanor Parker.

GEORGE HAMILTON and Luana Patten are the youthful sweethearts of "Home From the Hill," now playing at the Harlem, in which they play co-starring roles with Robert Mitchum and Eleanor Parker. The new MGM picture is based on William Humphrey's best-seller, dealing with conflict in a Texan family. It was filmed in Cinemascope and color partly on locations in Texas and Mississippi, under the direction of Academy Awards-winner Vincente Minnelli.

MARV JOHNSON

Marv Johnson, of "I Like the Way You Love," star and headliner with Buster "Fannie Mae" Brown of the Royal's Easter revue. Other features are The Shirelles, lovely Diane Dove, Tarheel Slim and Little Anne and The Wallace Brothers.

Suspect charged in death of dog owner

William Earl Barrett Jr., 23, of the 2400 block S. Paca St. was arrested with homicide Tuesday in Central Police court.

Mr. Barrett surrendered himself to police at the Central District station 15 hours after Virgine Randall, 23 of the 1600 block W. Mulberry St., was shot to death.

Barrett was ordered held without bail pending a further hearing.

Mr. Randall was shot between the eyes Monday night following a dispute over a dog in Mt. Winans.

The shooting occurred at Annapolis Ave. and Puget St. when Randall's German shepherd bit a man on the leg, police said.

Mr. Randall had just left a neighborhood store after buying meat for his dog.

Witnesses told Southwestern District police that a tall man pulled an automatic pistol and fired four shots.

The dog ran. One of the shots struck its owner. Mr. Randall died instantly.

Accent on speed at 66th Penn Relays

PHILADELPHIA

The accent will be on speed and more speed at the 66th Annual Penn Relay Carnival, April 29-30 at Franklin Field.

This year's Carnival is already bigger than any of the previous sixty-five meets, Ken Doherty, meet director, revealed that over 600 elementary schools, high schools and colleges had already filed entries. A year ago the final figure was a record-breaking 608.

Doherty also felt that well over 4,000 men would be in the Relay Carnival this year with the addition of thirteen Olympic Development events for post-college track and field athletes.

Since the Penn Relays performances will be sanctioned as qualifying standards for the Olympics it is expected that this added spurr will prove a boon to the competition.

The five finest sprinters ever assembled on Franklin Field will run in a sprint series over the 100 and 200-meter distances on April 30. Headed by National spring champion Ray Norton, the field includes Ed Collymore, Bobby Morrow, Dave Sime and Bill Woodhouse. Two years ago Sime nosed out Woodhouse in a special invitation 100-yard dash at the Penn Relays.

The competition is expected to be just as keen in the invitation 100-yard dash for college sprinters. Headed by Bobby Poynter of San Jose State, runner-up to Norton in the National AAU 100 meters last year and in the USSR-USA international track meet on Franklin Field, ten of the collegians have posted times of 9.7 seconds or better.

The elite of the college sprint group includes Paul Drayton and Frank Budd of Villanova; Pittsburgh's Mel Barnwell; Bob Brown of Penn State; the Big Ten indoor spring champion, Tom Robinson of Michigan; Zachary Ford, Michigan State; the Maryland sprint duo of Jonas Spiegal and Don Whitaker; and Vance Robinson, North Carolina College of Durham. Vane was runner-up to Norton in the National AAU 200 meters and again in the international meet with the Russians.

San Jose State will make a bold bid for the Penn Relay 440- and 880-yard relay championships in the 66th Annual Relay Carnival here April 29-30 in the first visit of the Pacific Coast School to America's oldest relay Carnival.

Coach Bud Winter has put together a fast relay quartet that includes Bob Brooks, Jim Flemons, Willie Williams and Bobby Poynter which has been clocked in 40.8 seconds for the quarter-mile and one minute 24.8 seconds for the half - mile distance in early-season efforts.

The other member of the San Jose State to compete in the Penn Relays is Errol Williams, NCAA high jump champion and runner-up to Charlo Dumas for National AAU high jump honors. Williams finished second to Russia's Robert Shavlakadze in the USSR-USA international track meet by clearing 6 feet, 9 inches.

MUSICAL MOMENTS

Post Office Glee Club to sing on program at school

By ADAH K. JENKINS

The Music Department of Morgan State College was in the limelight during the pre-holiday concert season with two events, namely a concert by the college Concert Band at Lemmel Junior High School, under the direction of R. Hayes Strider, head of the department, and a recital by Roena Savage, soprano, of the music faculty, at the Wednesday Assembly.

The 40 - piece band gave a well - integrated and spirited performance at the Sunday afternoon event.

Two pianists from the Morgan music education department were featured soloists with the band. They were Lonnie Smith and Ernest Stewart.

Roena Savage charmed a near - capacity audience of college students at the Wednesday Assembly of Morgan State College into listening with an unusual degree of appreciation to a formal concert of operatic arias and of art songs and liking it.

Becomingly attired in pale orchid gown studded with pearls, Mrs. Savage sang a taxing program, ranging from classic opera Mozart to modern art song that described the night trip on a New York ferry.

She has a voice of considerable power, especially in the upper range and with a warm, expressive quality in the middle register.

Frances B. Hill was at the piano and William H. Haithcock accompanied on the violin.

ABOUT-TOWN: Herbert M. Frisby, spoke at a recent "Open House" at Baltimore Fellowship and described Eskimo folk music and instruments. He has made 16 trips to the Arctic.

The enjoyment of Mr. Frisby's lecture - exhibition was heightened by the interesting display from his museum of handsome furs, native art and practical implements, including several types of drums.

Heard at the Mock Political Convention at Morgan State College the world premier of "Mock Convention March," composed by Dr. R. Hayes Strider, head of the department of music education and conductor of the Morgan Concert Band, which performed his work in Hurt Gymnasium last week at the opening session of the "Convention."

This event was a project of the Institute for Political Education of which Dr. G. James Fleming is director.

Drivers warned on insurance

A crackdown has been proposed on persons who falsely stated on their applications for 1960 license plates that they were properly covered by liability and property damage insurance.

The promise came from John R. Jewell, commissioner of the Department of Motor Vehicles, after a conference with State Police.

Mr. Jewell noted that he is authorized by law to suspend or revoke the registration plates issued to any motorist who made a false statement on his application for plates that he had liability insurance when he did not.

Persons without such insurance are required to pay an additional $8 at the time they get their license plates.

It was also noted that the Unsatisfied Claim and Judgement Fund Law provides for severe criminal penalties against those who failed to pay this fee and said they had insurance when they were actually uncovered.

Commissioner Jewell said he believes that sufficient notice has now been given to those motorists who have given false insurance information on their registration applications and said those who do not voluntarily remit the required $8 fee, but wait until they are apprehended by the police or by the department's investigation, will be harshly dealt with under the full penalty of the law.
